activities."

The candidates attended a Nov. 14 presentation given by Flint attorney Tom Donnellan, who spoke to a group of about 20 people about the process of writing a new city charter.

After the meeting, 17 people were circulating petitions in the village, but only 14 filed with Village Clerk Jill Branson by Monday's 4 p.m. deadline. Candidates have until 4 p.m. today to withdraw.

The nine people who are elected will have an intensive job ahead of them, proposing Chelsea's new form of government and how it will operate. They can expect to attend at least 25 meetings within the three-month time period.

They will have 90 days following the election to write a proposed city charter and send it to the governor for approval before it goes to a referendum of local voters.

Currently the third largest village in Michigan, Chelsea will become the fifth city in Washtenaw County, joining Milan, Saline, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

Team responds in times of crisis

■ Team of health-care professionals offers help after traumatic events.

Members of Chelsea Village Council heard Michelle Rose, a psychologist and Washtenaw County Health Department employee, describe how residents can benefit from crisis management in the community.

Rose talked at the Nov. 28 council meeting about the Traumatic Events Response Network, a team of human services professionals trained to respond to people who have experienced a traumatic event.

The team is coordinated through Washtenaw County Emergency Management and Community Mental Health. The network offers debriefing services to individuals or groups to circumvent traumatic stress resulting from witnessing loss of life or experiencing threats to life.

Traumatic events include fires, explosions, tornadoes, suicides, industrial accidents, violent crimes and accidental deaths, Rose said.

She said the debriefing helps people return to normality. It typically consists of a one-time assistance in helping someone understand what has happened, explaining symptoms of traumatic stress and how to cope. It also can involve making referrals for additional counseling.

Debriefings can reduce the risk of post-traumatic stress disorder, depression, and personal and family dysfunction, Rose said. Symptoms can appear fairly quickly or might be delayed, and can affect an individual emotionally, physically, cognitively and behaviorally.

Rose said that members of the team are volunteers who come from a variety of sources, including hospitals, health-care facilities, law enforcement agencies, social service agencies and counseling centers.

The Traumatic Events Response Network can be reached 24 hours a day and the service is free. The call also can be taken by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Dispatch center, which takes information and contacts the network.

The 24-hour emergency hotline number is 971-3954. The business phone is 1-734-484-6620.

mainly minor, between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday. Chelsea Village Police Chief Lenard McDougall said there had been very few traffic problems in the village.

Ken Nixon, operations director for the Washtenaw County Road Commission, said his crews started at 7 a.m. Monday and worked until 8 p.m. A night crew of four went out from 8 p.m. to 4:30 a.m. and the regular crew was back at 4 a.m.

Nixon said the county's 45 trucks have approximately 1,500 miles of roads to cover, including 300 miles of state roads, some 700 miles of county blacktop roads, and the remainder being gravel roads and subdivisions streets.

On Tuesday morning, crews were still cleaning up from the storm, and getting to dirt roads and subdivision they had not reached Monday, Nixon said.

Chelsea Village Manager Jack Myers said Tuesday that the DPW crew, under Superintendent Dave Bulson, worked long hours Monday through Tuesday morning to keep local roads passable by clearing snow and salting intersections.

Local resident's home damaged during village construction project

Village to help with clean-up costs.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Herbert Hinz is upset with the village and is not shy about letting local leaders know what's bugging him.

The Chelsea resident addressed the Village Council Nov. 28 demanding compensation from the village for damages to his property. The damages stem from a series of water main ruptures during the second phase of the village's water main construction project.

Hinz, who made the issue a matter of public record at last week's council meeting, said if the village doesn't compensate him for the damages, he will go to court to recover costs.

Hinz, who lives on Harrison Street in Chelsea, was the subject of a recent debate between the village and a local contractor because the village offered to pay for his water line, which was broken during the water main construction project.

At the meeting, Hinz, who is hearing impaired, had help from his son in presenting a chronology of construction blunders that he said have caused flooding in his basement and damage to his property, including appliances, a water heater and furnace.

Hinz said that he has been without a continuous supply of water since July because construction workers installing the water main broke the water service line that supplies his house. He said the line was broken three times by village contractors TCI and twice by gas company employees.

In addition, Hinz said his gas line was ruptured twice during the project and his driveway was damaged, as well.

Hinz said his basement was flooded in October and November when TCI construction workers broke his 1-inch water line, which resulted in water flowing into his basement. Mud plugged his drains and caused damage to his utilities and appliances, he said.

After contacting the village, Hinz said village employees hooked up a garden hose to his neighbor's water supply so he could get water. On Oct. 22, he said he was finally connected back to the main water, but the line was broken again Nov. 23.

Hinz also complained about a 5-foot-deep, 20-foot-long hole that he said DTE Energy workers left in his yard. He said they broke his water line while repairing the broken gas line.

Hinz said that he has talked with his attorney and had meetings with Village Engineer Christine Linfield and Village Manager Jack Myers. He told Myers that he is considering a lawsuit if the problems aren't solved to his satisfaction.

Last week, however, Hinz said that he thinks Myers is a man of his word and he trusts him to make appropriate reparations.

Hinz said he wants compensation for damages and his labor in cleaning up the mess. He is concerned about damage to his water heater from flooding. He is also concerned that his homeowners' insurance might be jeopardized by the mishap.

Village President Richard Steele asked Hinz to provide a list of items that he thinks the village should pay for through its insurance carrier.

Village Water Department Superintendent Dan Rosentretter said the water line breaks appear to be the result of both machine construction work, and poorly made connections. Rosentretter said he would help clean up Hinz's basement and yard.

A letter signed by Myers and Linfield was presented to Hinz outlining the clean-up measures undertaken by the village. It included filling in the hole left by DTE Energy, cleaning up Hinz's basement, and repairing the driveway and sidewalk damage caused by the contractors.

Myers said later that Hinz appears to be satisfied with the work that the village has completed so far.

Paul Ganz, manager of regional relations for DTE Energy, said Tuesday that he first heard of the matter when a reporter from The Chelsea Standard contacted him.

Ganz said DTE will fix anything damaged during work and that the company will be happy to work with Hinz to amend the situation. He said DTE will come back in the spring to replace topsoil and seed or sod, if necessary.

School administrators switch roles to raise funds for United Way

Drawing for paid day off raises $7,656.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Chelsea school administrators will play musical chairs over the next few weeks, briefly replacing regular staff as part of this year's Chelsea United Way fundraising drive.

For every $10 donation, members of the school staff got a ticket in a Nov. 20 drawing for a chance to have a paid day off while a school administrator does their work.

This year's drawing raised $7,656, more than double last year's amount of $3,314.

While some administrators will teach, others will wear completely different hats. For Chelsea High School Assistant Principal Robin Raymond, it will be a chef's hat as he takes over for Beach Middle School cook Gary Kaiser.

Beach Middle School Assistant Principal Julie Deppner stepped in for art teacher Bev Yelsik before the Thanksgiving break.

"The students are by far much better artists than I am, so I was definitely out of my element," Deppner said. However, she said it was a great opportunity to see the youngsters "when they're not sent to the office or getting into mischief."

Operations Director Ron Livengood is another who will try his hand at art, taking over for art teacher Janet Alford.

Athletic Director Wayne Welton, more at home on the gridiron or dugout, will be typing and filing for Beach

Middle School secretary Patti Musolf, who said she would love to be a "fly on the wall" that day.

Although secretary Judy Armstrong will help Welton, Musolf said she might call Welton's secretary, Sue Myers, and suggest she give him a few pointers first.

Welton said he hoped Beach Principal Andy Ingall likes his coffee ice cold. "Because if he asks me for coffee, that's how he'll get it," Welton said.

Pierce Lake Elementary School Principal Lucy Stieber said Chelsea High School Principal Ron Mead's secretary should be nervous about her stepping into secretary Sheila Rodenkirch's shoes.

"Knowing Sheila, she will have everything organized for me," Stieber said. "My secretarial skills are not great, but I can do the basics and have had plenty of practice at it."

Mead said Stieber's stint as his secretary "could be interesting for both of us."

Mead and North Creek Elementary School Principal Sharon Whitmore will replace speech therapists Robin Robinson and Deb Boham.

Mead said he "doesn't have a clue" about his new stint but is looking forward to spending the day at North Creek Elementary School.

Whitmore said she hopes to live up to the standards Boham has set.

"It will be a fun day working with children in their classes, having small speech groups and teaching reading," she said.

Community Education

Director Jeff Rohrer will be custodian of South Meadows Elementary School, while Mary Slagle takes a well-earned day's rest. Rohrer said his list of duties for the day includes checking water levels in the water fountains and adding water if needed.

As for his cleaning skills, "If you want to know what I'm like cleaning at home, you should get an opinion from my wife," he said.

Superintendent Dave Killips will teach first grade in Deb Holefska's class at North Creek and Special Education Director Mary Koert will replace special education paraprofessional Eileen Augustine.

South Meadows Elementary School Principal Lisa Nickel will teach fifth grade in place of Barbara Brown and Food Service Director Karen Carly will teach Carol Murphy's computer classes.

Chelsea High School Assistant Principal Shawn Lewis-Lakin, a former high school chemistry teacher, will find himself on familiar turf, teaching chemistry in place of Sandy Kuchinski. Lewis-Lakin said he's looking forward to being back in the role of a classroom teacher.

Teresa Zigman, executive director of business and operations, will replace Jan Hopkins as suspensions coordinator at Chelsea High School. Transportation Director Sam Vogel will replace Adult Education Director Ann Valle and Assistant Superintendent Iva Corbett will take over from Missy Cowan as facilities coordinator.

"Missy is glad for the day off but very nervous at having an untrained rookie working in her complicated facilities scheduled program," Corbett said.

"I believe I will be directed to stay away from her computer and to file, answer the phone, run errands and otherwise complete all duties as assigned for the day."

GOING FORWARD WILLINGLY

There are several good reasons for preparing a will. Your will expresses your specific wishes as to how you want your property distributed, and it eliminates speculation and confusion about how you want to handle your estate. It also identifies whom you would want as guardian of any minor children. Equally important, your will provides a good inventory of your property and assets. Without this, it may be difficult for your survivors to identify and locate any real estate, bank accounts, safe deposit boxes, securities, and other personal property you may have in various places. Preparing your will is also beneficial because it compels you to consider the extent of your property and plan your estate accordingly.

Only you know how your assets should best be distributed, and minor children or wards safeguarded in the event of your death. Treating your hard-earned security like buried treasure that must be hunted down, clue by clue, makes for good drama, but in real life, it results in putting family members through unnecessary hardship and possibly jeopardizing the well being of your children. Take the first step towards making a will today by calling the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad St., at 426-4695 and scheduling a free consultation.

Lima residents named to posts

■ Heller steps down from Board of Review.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Lima Township Board approved a number of political appointments Dec. 2.

John Edwards and Pat Spade were reappointed to the Board of Review, while Archie Bradbury was selected to serve for the first time. Each of their terms expires in 2004.

Bradbury will succeed Robert Heller, who asked not to be reconsidered for the position.

Bradbury was named with Heller's endorsement.

Neil Adams was reappointed to the Board of Review, while Karen Malone and Charles Schauer were reappointed to the Planning Commission. Their terms expire in 2005.

In addition, Wally Fusilier will continue to serve as the township's representative on the Dexter Area Fire Board through 2005.

Township Clerk Arlene Bareis was reappointed the alternate to the Fire Board.

In other township business, a work session proposed by Chelsea Area Fire Authority Chairman Andrew Adrian for Dec. 19 was rescheduled. It will be held an hour before the board's next regularly scheduled meeting Jan. 6.

Adrian is expected to explain the Fire Authority's fire inspection and business ordinances. He will also justify future plans for expansion.

Unterbrink said the Dec. 19 date would pose a scheduling conflict for Trustee Greg McKenzie and that it was important that all members listen to the presentation.

Adrian had been expected to speak at the meeting but canceled.

Township resident Roland Heim expressed concern that the fire department has been responding to too many false alarms called in by people with cellular phones. He said he would be at the January meeting to express his opinion.

Heim said that those who call in false alarms should be responsible for any fees associated with the call.

The Township Board declined to adopt an ordinance sponsored by the railroad companies that would have given railways more right-of-way space by expanding the acceptable distance a privately owned house or lot could be to a track.

McKenzie introduced the matter to the board at the behest of the Planning Commission. He said the ordinance was a bad idea and that he thought it should be presented to the board before the commission wasted any more time discussing it.

The board agreed that the ordinance would only help the railroad companies and would not serve the township's best interest.

McKenzie also had a low opinion of a state-mandated amendment to the township's open space ordinance that focuses on clustering. He opposed wording that prohibits the cutting and removal of any flora on land designated as an open space.

Unterbrink convinced the board that it had no choice but to adopt it and added that its poor wording would see it ignored by developers in favor of other options.

Township resident Mary Maynard appealed to the board for help in dealing with a neighbor's barking dog. She said she tried to deal with the problem through her neighborhood association, but didn't get anywhere because the dog's owners denied there was a problem.

Maynard said Township Zoning Officer Joe Wesolowski called the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Animal Control division, but an officer never showed up at the scheduled time.

Wesolowski said he would write the dog's owners a letter of warning but to do anything more would require processing fees from Maynard.

Unterbrink told Wesolowski to try the county again, this time asking for names of who was to come out and informing him of the outcome.

In other news, Treasurer Nanette Havens said the township had $18,000 less in its coffers than it had at this time a year ago.

Bareis said this was due mainly to an increase in the use of professional services and, to a lesser extent, an increase in fire authority billing.

at the Children's Hospital in Detroit.

A brain scan showed the myelin in about one-third of his brain was missing. Blood tests finally confirmed the diagnosis of ALD, a progressive condition affecting the adrenal glands and the myelin sheath in the brain.

Childhood cerebral ALD, which generally affects males, occurs between the ages of 2 and 10, and usually results in a vegetative state or death within two years.

In July, the family made a trip to Disneyland through the Make A Wish Foundation.

"I'll always remember Shawn's smile as he rode the best ride, the 3-D Spider-Man ride," John said. "It was the most wonderful and incredible experience we've ever had."

Once back home, the family threw a "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" fifth-grade graduation party, with a moonwalk, clowns, live music and magician. The graduation also raised $4,407 in donations for the Make A Wish Foundation and the United Leukodystrophy Association.

John also raised funds for the two organizations with sidewalk chalk art during Dexter Daze.

By August, Shawn had lost the ability to recognize even his own family or to enjoy a myriad of activities he once loved, from fishing and archery to playing ball and riding his bike.

In September, he had surgery to tie off his esophagus and prevent acid reflux. Completely bedridden, he could no longer walk or talk, and slept 18 hours a day.

The family received help from home healthcare and Hospice, as well as from staff and parents at Pierce Lake Elementary School who provided weekly meals.

John Conklin, who stayed home to become his son's primary caregiver, said that he never thought in his wildest dreams that his family would be going through such an ordeal.

Pierce Lake Elementary School teacher Craig McCalla, Shawn's teacher for four years, remembers the boy's early years as vibrant and active.

"Shawn made us all laugh and he was so caring. He touched a lot of hearts," McCalla said. "He worked hard and loved the outdoors. Shawn was an active young man and always helped others."

Cheri Falk, a paraprofessional who also taught Shawn for four years, said that everything about him touched her.

"He was a very lovable child," Falk said. "He brought us total joy even though there were challenges."

Drunken Driving

A 56-year-old Dexter man was arrested Nov. 16 for drunken driving after troopers stopped him on Parker Road near Liberty Road. He was initially stopped for driving erratically and not coming to a full stop at the intersection of Parker and Scio Church roads.

According to a police report, the man smelled of alcohol and his speech was slurred. He admitted to drinking alcohol prior to driving.

A Breathalyzer test showed his blood-alcohol level was 0.17 percent. A level of 0.10 or higher is considered legally drunk under state law.

The man was arrested and also cited for having an open container of alcohol in his vehicle.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported Nov. 20 in the 2200 block of Steinbach Road. A man walking out to get his mail at 9:15 p.m. heard a shotgun blast and a car speed off before he reached his mailbox. He later discovered that someone deliberately damaged the mailbox, which is valued at $50.

A 20-year-old Chelsea man was arrested for drunken driving and causing a crash while under the influence of alcohol Nov. 18.

The crash occurred at approximately 2 a.m. on M-52 near Island Lake Road.

The driver told police that he left his girlfriend's house on North Territorial to head into Chelsea for cigarettes. He said he lost control of his vehicle and struck a barn.

The driver admitted to drinking prior to the crash. According to a police report, he smelled of alcohol and his speech was slurred. He was not injured in the crash.

Family Trouble Suicide Threat

A township family called for help at 11 p.m. Nov. 20 after their teen-age daughter threatened to stab her mother in the eye and then herself.

The girl's mother said the teen has been diagnosed with depression and is refusing to take her medication.

Police suggested that the girl's mother take her to the University of Michigan Hospitals for an evaluation and that she contact the Family Division of the Circuit Court to have her petitioned for the violent behavior.

Larceny

Larceny was reported Nov. 25 in the 18700 block of Old US-12. A worker with Meriman Construction told police that someone stole a Caterpillar tractor between 2 p.m. Nov. 23 and 7 a.m. Nov. 25.

A chain-link fence was cut to gain entry to the grounds.

The tractor is valued at $27,500.

Breaking and Entering

Someone broke into a vehicle between Nov. 16 and Nov. 17 in the 4000 block of Inverness Street.

The owner of the 2002 Acura said someone threw a rock through the passenger-side window and stole a radar detector.

The man told deputies that the car alarm must have gone off, but he didn't hear it.

Driving with a Suspended License

A 24-year-old Ypsilanti man was arrested for driving with a suspended license Nov. 15 near Dexter-Ann Arbor Road and Kensington Street.

Deputies initially stopped the man for speeding. He was driving 42 mph in a 25-mph zone.

The man's identification was checked with the Law Enforcement Information Network. Deputies discovered that the driver was wanted by the Ypsilanti Police Department. He was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Drunken Driving

A 23-year-old Pinckney man was arrested for drunken driving Nov. 30 near Dexter-Pinckney and McGregor roads.

Deputies stopped the man for driving 68 mph in a 55-mph zone. When deputies stopped the man, they could smell a strong odor of alcohol on his breath. He was given a sobriety test and he failed it.

The man was given a Breathalyzer test. His blood-alcohol level was 0.17-percent. A blood-alcohol level of 0.10 percent or higher is considered legally drunk under state law. He was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

A 25-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested Nov. 16 for drunken driving near Dexter-Pinckney Road and Peach Mountain Lane.

The man was stopped for speeding. He was driving 69 mph in a 55-mph zone.

While speaking to the driver, deputies could smell alcohol on his breath. He was given a Breathalyzer test. The man's blood-alcohol level was 0.16 percent. A blood-alcohol level of 0.10 percent or higher is considered legally drunk under Michigan law. He was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Possession of Marijuana

A 21-year-old Chelsea man was arrested Nov. 25 for possession of suspected marijuana. Officers stopped the man after he failed to yield to oncoming traffic at Main and Lincoln streets.

When officers stopped the man, they noticed an open can of beer between the two front seats. The driver told officers that the can was empty.

The man had a difficult time finding his driver's license. Officers checked the Law Enforcement Information System and discovered that the man's license was expired and suspended.

When officers asked the man if there were any drugs in the vehicle, he said there was marijuana in the arm-rest.

Officers arrested the man and confiscated the substance, as well as two marijuana pipes.

Suspicious Situation

Officers received a call at 4:50 a.m. Nov. 24 that two people were lying down in a driveway in the 800 block of Moore Drive.

When officers arrived at the residence, they found the two men passed out in a van. The van was parked in the driveway. Officers noticed that they were intoxicated.

The men said that they were waiting for a friend to get home and let them into the house. Officers advised them to stay in the van, not to drive or make any noise.

Employees at Gigi's Flowers, 103 N. Main St., called police Nov. 21 to report that a man was fondling himself in public.

When officers arrived at the flower shop, the man had left. The store's manager told officers that the man was acting unusual. The man was reportedly rubbing his crotch area with his hand inside his pockets.

The employee said the man did not say anything sexual or expose himself. He was allowed to buy a rose and then left the shop.

Attempted Break-In

Someone tried breaking into a shed between Nov. 11 and Nov. 21 at St. Barnabas Church, 20500 Old US-12.

The shed contained a lawn mower and other equipment.

The church's caretaker called police after finding pry marks on the shed. Someone apparently tried using an object to pry the plywood panel apart from the small window.

The window on the door was too small to get in the shed. Damage is estimated at $5.

SPIRITUALITY

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

Over the past decade or more, there has been an increasing number of people who admit to, and even boast of, being "spiritual."

Usually "being spiritual" is a general reference to a sense or a feeling that there is more to life than we can see or measure. So many things happen that seem to be more than mere coincidence, and that can be explained only by acknowledging that there are spiritual forces guiding or influencing our lives. Many people conclude that, if you can find some way to tap into these spiritual forces and get them working for you, you could have a better and richer life. They speculate on how to do that, and often do some experimenting.

The Bible takes the guesswork out of this issue. The Bible tells us that God is the ultimate spiritual Force, and that He directs everything in this world, and in our lives, for His glory and our blessing. His sole objective is to lead people to repent of their sins and come to faith in the Savior He sent, His Son Jesus Christ.

But God does not force anyone to do this.

The Bible also informs us that there are opposing spiritual forces, namely Satan and his evil spirits, who are eager to enter people's lives when given the opportunity to do so. For this reason, being spiritual in itself is not enough, and can, in fact, be harmful. Spirituality which is not based on Jesus Christ as its object, actually produces an opening into a person's life which Satan's forces can easily enter and do their work.

True spirituality means trusting in a loving, forgiving, powerful God through faith in Jesus Christ, and believing that this God is present in every event of this life, and will be present through all eternity. ## Stun guns should be legal

OUTSIDE THE MARGINS

With vibrantly colored reminders of fall and small shops dotting the downtown, our community encircles us in feelings of comfort and safety. We know that crime does and can occur anywhere. But when we're feeling comfortable, at times, we may forget.

Recently, while briefly visiting a local market, I'm thankful that I hadn't forgotten.

Immediately upon closing my car door and ready to walk into the store, I noticed a man continually turning around to look at me. Maybe I should have never tried to enter the store, but I assumed that I would be fine.

Once I was within a few feet of the man, he turned around and was soon walking right behind me. At that point, I was practically running to get inside.

Once I was in the store around others, I felt safer and attempted to forget the incident, as peculiar as it seemed.

I concluded my business in the market and took about five steps out into the parking lot when I discovered the same man parked next to my vehicle.

I walked back inside and from the window, I watched this man drive in a small circle around the lot and park directly behind my vehicle. This time I felt I should call the police, who promptly responded.

Having blocked the man's truck at the exit, the police chief took the man's story, which differed drastically from mine. But, as you know, a person cannot justly be arrested solely on suspicious actions or bad thoughts.

That day, as I drove home shaking, I wondered why I left my stun gun at home. You see, in my native state, handheld stun guns or pulse wave devices are not only legal, as federal law mandates, but are also encouraged for women's self-defense.

When I got home, I picked up my owner's manual and read the lengthy information again. This time I didn't skip the section that reads "For Michigan residents only." In there I came to learn that "these devices in the hands of law-abiding citizens are dangerous and deadly weapons."

Deadly weapon? There is no documented case of death resulting from this device.

Quoting the Myotron manual, it works to "utilize pulse waves to overpower the subjects neuromuscular system using electrical levels recognized as safe, non-injurious and non-lethal by medical and scientific communities. It causes no injury, cuts or bruises."

In short, it may give you time and power to get away from injury to yourself.

The following week, I visited Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall and asked him for his expertise in legal matters in this state.

"You have a stun gun?" he asked. "It's illegal to possess one of those."

He gave me a copy of the state statute. Section 750.224a reads: "A person shall not sell, offer for sale, or possess in this state a portable device or weapon from which an electrical current, impulse, wave or beam may be directed, which current, impulse, wave or beam is designed to incapacitate temporarily, injure or kill."

Furthermore, the statute reads: "A person who violates this section is guilty of a felony."

I asked the police chief what would have happened if I did have my stun gun that morning even if I hadn't used it. He said the law is quite clear. You may not possess them in your house, your car or anywhere.

In short, I could have been charged with a felony offense that morning.

The scale of justice was not tipped in my favor. That morning, while a stranger with no business to follow me did and walked away, I could have left the scene, formerly a law-abiding citizen, a charged felon.

McDougall explained that if I wanted the law off the books, I would have to petition the legislature and cross my fingers that a senator would enact a law to coincide with current federal legislation, which deems them legal.

There are many lessons to be learned from this situation. Don't think you are immune to crime, particularly as a young woman. Don't overlook a stranger's long glances. Observe closely where your vehicle is parked and who or what is around.

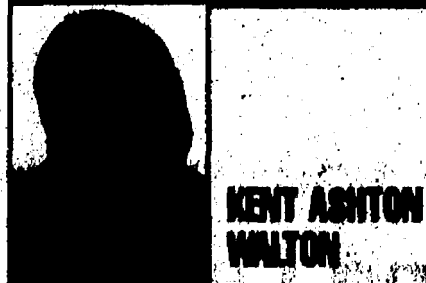

Finally, regardless of your views on the use of pulse wave technology, take the chief's advice: "Know your environment. That's what it all boils down to."

Perhaps because police cannot be everywhere at all times, the Myotron is currently being sold in record numbers in the United States since its introduction 10 years ago. It is only prohibited with felony charges in the states of Massachusetts and Michigan.

For more information on Myotron technology go to www.myotron.net.

Guns can jeopardize safety

JUST A THOUGHT

According to a BBC World Service case study, there are an estimated 200 million guns in the United States.

Texas probably outguns other states. Its 17 million residents own more than 68 million guns, or four guns for every man, woman and child. There are 10 times more gun dealerships in the United States than there are McDonald's restaurants.

So what? Why shouldn't Americans own guns for self-defense, recreation and hunting, or just because they like guns?

Americans are facing a dilemma. They have a tradition of gun ownership that is fiercely protected. Tragically in the Washington, D.C. area, two snipers with a high-powered rifle were recently killing innocent people and many might be wondering how many more enraged potential snipers are waiting their turn to terrorize the public.

America, more than other countries, is sadly tolerant of high gun fatality statistics. Typically, the United States has approximately 35,000 fatalities from gunshot wounds annually, or about 95 daily, some accidental, some intentional.

Hospital emergency rooms treat approximately 100,000 serious gun-related injuries annually. Only deaths and injuries caused by automobile accidents exceed these statistics.

Guns in the United States kill more people in one week than in all of western Europe in one year. U.S. gun-related fatalities are almost 20 times greater than in the next 25 richest nations of the world.

No one, other than the military and police, needs guns to function. The issue of hunting can be put aside, since deaths from hunting accidents are low, though the use of hunting weapons to kill people remains problematic.

For some, gun ownership derives from a belief that the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution maintains that U.S. citizens have a right to individually own firearms.

Allowing that, this is a proper interpretation of the Second Amendment, why do people feel the need to exercise this right in such a manner given the incredible dangers posed by owning guns?

The belief that firearm deaths are mainly the result of desperate criminal acts isn't true. Friends, lovers and relatives commit more than 50 percent of all gun-related homicides.

According to statistics compiled by researchers published in the New England Journal of Medicine and the Scientific American, keeping a gun at home makes it far more likely that a family household member, friend or child will be killed.

The use of a firearm to resist violent assaults on the home by intruders actually increases the risk of the victim's injury or death by a factor of 2.7.

A survey would probably produce two main reasons for gun ownership. The first would be personal protection. The second would be some kind of fear of a military take-over by a hostile domestic or foreign government and the attendant abrogation of citizens' freedoms.

Now the first reason is countered by the gun-owner statistics. It also implies a belief in a citizen's arms race policy. If would-be attackers have guns, then potential victims must have equal firepower.

It is questionable, however, that assault victims can protect themselves by relying on gun possession. Anyone willing to shoot someone is not going to give him or her a fighting chance to draw a gun. There is no John Wayne ethic in a hold-up.

And, in any case, despite the concealed weapons law that allows carrying weapons, most people don't wear their guns at all times. And if they do, it's an opportunity for muggers to take their guns and use them against the wearer.

The idea that people would have access to a gun when there's a house break-in is unlikely. If a gun is to be kept out of a child's reach it is locked in a cabinet.

Criminals would have the upper hand before there was time to get a key, unlock a cabinet, select the gun, make sure it's loaded, etc. More likely people would be asleep during a break-in.

But even if handguns did protect homeowners, this has nothing to do with owning the kind of high-powered rifles apparently used in the sniper killings.

Furthermore, although the federal assault weapons ban, banning semi-automatic weapons, was signed into law on Sept. 13, 1994, as part of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, it is due to expire in 2004.

The second reason for owning guns, that they protect people from a hostile government or military, is also unconvincing. A foreign invading force, whether in the form of a conventional army or a terrorist attack, if not overcome by a domestic military, is unlikely to be defeated by collective local militias. This is the stuff of Rambo.

In the worse case scenario, where the government is incapacitated and people are driven to anarchy by a plague or biological attack, I doubt that a gun would be of much use. You can't shoot viruses. Survivors of a plague would likely end up killing each other in pitched battles.

After the massacre in 1997 of schoolchildren in Dunblane, Scotland, the British parliament banned all firearms with a greater than 22 caliber. There are a couple of dozen firearm-related deaths in Britain annually. Many U.K. citizens regard even this number of deaths as excessive.

A dozen years after the 1981 attempted assassination of President Ronald Reagan, the United States enacted the Brady Bill, requiring a five-day waiting period and background check before an arms purchase. Some still regard this as an affront to freedom.

Although creating a national ballistics database might help crime investigations into gun killings, it does not address the central issue.

Will America face the fact that citizen safety is jeopardized by gun proliferation?

New utility ready to serve

■ Lyndon Township waits for state to sign on.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Sylvan Township Water and Sewer Authority is up and running, with the ability to supply drinking water and sewage disposal within its special assessment district.

Authority Board Chairman Gerald Dresselhouse said in November that he expects Lyndon Township to have its own contiguous district in the next year.

Lyndon and Lima townships have financial stakes in the Sylvan Township Water and Sewer Authority.

Dresselhouse said sample tests from the water tower have passed inspection. He said the sewer system lacks one electrical connection at the Kilmer Road pump station, but can run off a generator until Consumers Energy tunnels under Interstate 94 to hook up the power.

Dresselhouse, who serves as special projects coordinator in Sylvan Township, also said that a long-delayed agreement with the Michigan Department of Corrections allowing Lyndon Township to proceed with its own part of the sewage project could see fruition soon.

The township has been waiting more than six months for a signed contract from the Cassidy Lake Correctional Institute whereby the state agrees to connect to the authority's water and sewer system.

The township does not have the money to proceed with municipal utilities without the correctional facility's financial investment.

The delay will cause the township to spread the $14,300-plus-in interest to each homeowner in its special assessment district over a 19-year period instead of 20 years.

At a meeting last month, Lyndon Township Planning Commissioner Gerry Nelson asked if township residents could begin paying in December to reduce the financial impact.

Township Supervisor Maryann Noah said because of the waiting game with the state, the township's special assessment district hasn't been officially approved through a public hearing process.

She said it would be difficult for residents to find an additional $715 each at short notice and she doesn't want to see a high rate of delinquencies.

Dresselhouse said the year's delay will cost Lyndon residents an additional $38 a year each in principal payments.

Noah said that residents will be able to pay extra installments on the principal throughout the year.

Sylvan Township Clerk Luann Koch said the same does not hold true for Sylvan residents, although they will be allowed to pay more than the minimum when a principal payment is due.

The group also discussed charges for monthly water and sewer usage. Dresselhouse said the water system will soften the water, but requires an additional $20 month to be factored into the rate.

He said the project engineer could easily work out a water rate but that the sewage rate is the bigger issue and will have to take into account a number of fixed costs. These include a $9 fee that Leoni Township charges per residential equivalency unit for taking and treating the sewage.

It also must include an overall $360 monthly charge to maintain sewer lines and a $100-per-unit annual fee to power six to seven pump stations.

Dresselhouse said there are also office-related costs, insurance premiums, snow removal contracts and other contingencies to be considered.

The group decided seasonal residents will pay the same as year-round residents. Noah said any adjustments would cost residents more to cover additional administrative fees than any savings realized.

Dresselhouse said that Leoni Township would insist the pumps be pulled up in November and reinstalled in the spring, meaning additional expense to the consumer.

The chairman said rates should be defined by January as customers will be ready for service in February.

Petitions have also gone to Cedar Lake residents to gauge interest in connecting to the sewer system. Sylvan Township Clerk LuAnn Koch said the 12 or more residents on the west side are unanimously for a sewer hook-up, but only two or three on the east want it.

Dresselhouse said residents who are opposed should be informed of what the additional cost would be to hook up later.

He said a letter would have to be delicately worded because Sylvan Township does not want to be perceived as promoting municipal sewage. He said that it might be necessary to schedule a public hearing to establish a special assessment district for only the west side of the lake.

A permanent office for the sewer and water authority will be leased in the basement of the Sylvan Township Hall.

The end of a Journey

Local resident finds fulfillment on Appalachian Trail

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

When Felicia Hermosillo headed out along the Appalachian Trail in March, she walked away from everything that was secure and familiar—an engineering career, family and friends.

With seven months and 2,168 miles behind her, she says she's been richly rewarded.

As she transitions back into the "real world," the Dexter Township resident says she's trying to sort through things she learned about herself and her life.

"People ask me what my favorite part of the trail was," she says. "I like to answer, 'The whole thing.'"

"But really there are so many things that I love about the trail—the simplicity, the friendships, the beauty, the peace—the list goes on and on."

Her first few days on the trail in Georgia were anything but auspicious. It was wet, cold and lonely.

But then the sun came out, she met other hikers, and started having fun.

At the 500-mile mark, the 1993 Chelsea High School graduate branched out for some solo hiking.

"I enjoyed the freedom of relying only on myself, and doing my own thing, not bending my plans for the group," she says. "It was a nice time of growth."

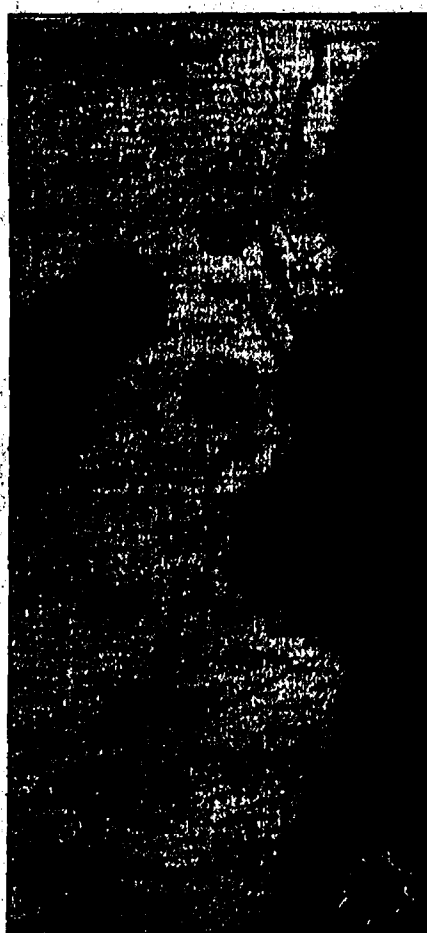

After leaving the trail in May to attend her brother's wedding in Chelsea, she returned and joined up with a different group of hikers for the hot, humid, bug-ridden summer days.

Hermosillo was excited to reach Vermont, followed by the spectacular White Mountains of New Hampshire. The state's scenery put her in a pensive mood.

"Perched on a rock in the sun with such a dramatic view is a great setting to re-examine life," she says.

"Things are put into proportion. You know the saying, 'Don't sweat the small stuff.' From 5,000 feet, everything looks small."

"I cherished those moments, my little throne from Mother Earth where everything seemed possible."

Camped on top of Maine's Sugarloaf Mountain, Hermosillo watched in awe as a spectacular orange and red sunset was reflected between the clouds and the mountain ranges.

"It was one of those nights that I fell asleep thinking that every sacrifice I made to be there was worth it," she says.

In October, Hermosillo headed into the woods for the final 113 miles of trail to the summit of Mt. Katahdin, the northern end of the trail.

Despite the heat, humidity and heavy backpack, she focused on savoring the last days of her journey.

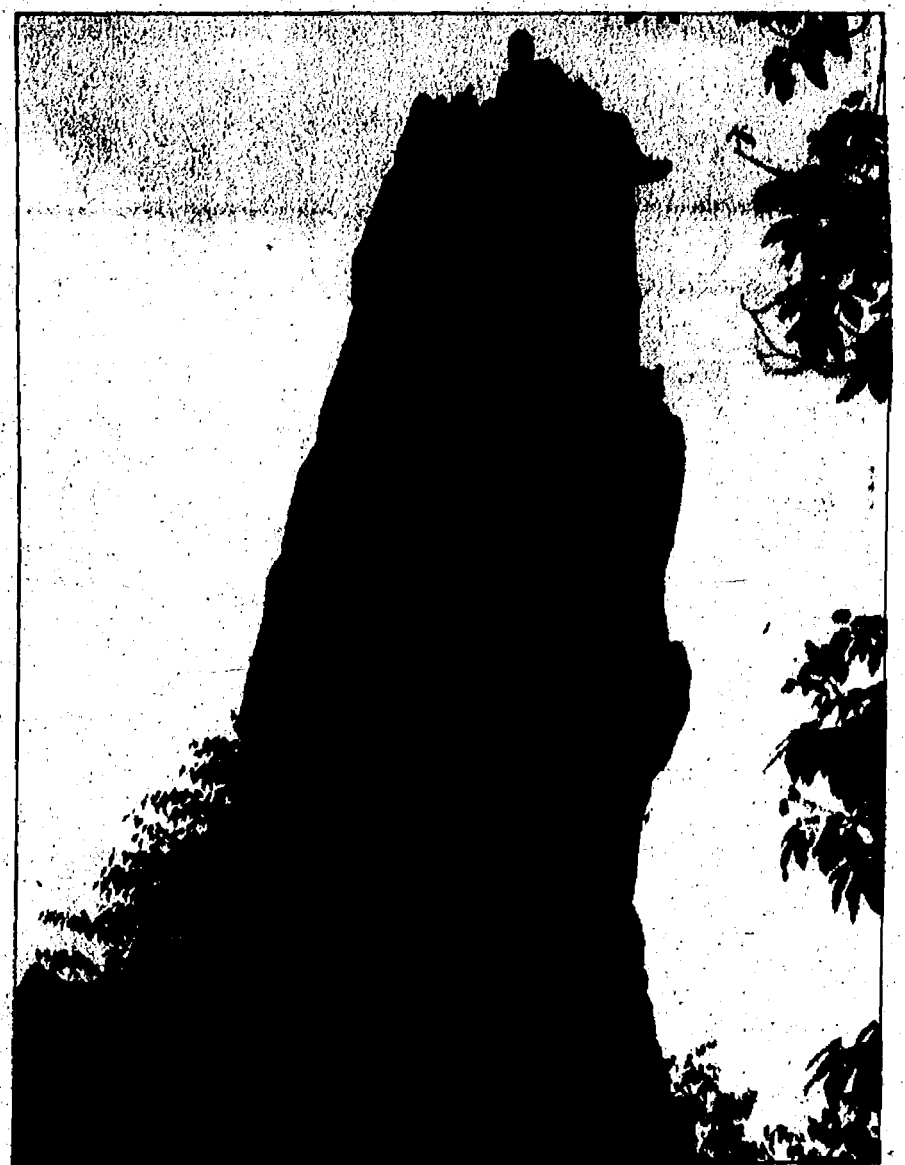

Maine's wilderness lived up to its reputation as the most beautiful part of the trail. Camped at West Chair-back Pond, Hermosillo enjoyed yet another spectacular sunset.

"I watched from the shore as the sun spilled its warm, golden glow on the fall trees that enclosed the water," she says.

"Sitting with friends that I have grown close to and experiencing Mother Nature's seamless transition from glowing sunset sky to starry abyss sent the familiar surge of warm peace through my body."

On her last night in the wilderness, Hermosillo camped with four others on the shores of Rainbow Lake.

Coach a role model

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Marti Williams loves football. And she sees a lot of gridiron action as coach of the Bulldog cheerleading squad.

The Pierce Lake Elementary School secretary started coaching the cheerleaders this year after seeing an ad for the position in an inter-office e-mail.

"I applied for the job because I really think that I can make a difference with these girls," Williams says.

"With the way I deal with teens and how I relate to them, I think I have the skills it takes to be a good coach and mentor."

Williams says her goal is for the girls to use cheerleading as an avenue to get out in the community and build their self-esteem.

The 1990 Chelsea High School graduate had her own taste of cheerleading while in middle school in Colorado, and played in the high school band.

The experiences showed Williams how student participation in high school activities helps develop skills used later in life.

She says the cheerleaders learn how to interact with others, come up with ideas, implement plans, stick to a schedule, speak their mind appropriately and learn conflict resolution.

"On a daily basis, they learn how to get along peacefully and work as a group," Williams says. "It's a big skill that employers and colleges look at."

"They will take the skills that they have learned and have confidence and skills later in life."

With football season over, competitive cheerleading is now under way, as well as cheerleading at Friday night home basketball games. The squad will also take part in an invitational in Leslie.

Williams says competitive cheerleading is more structured than sideline cheerleading, with more specific details and penalties.

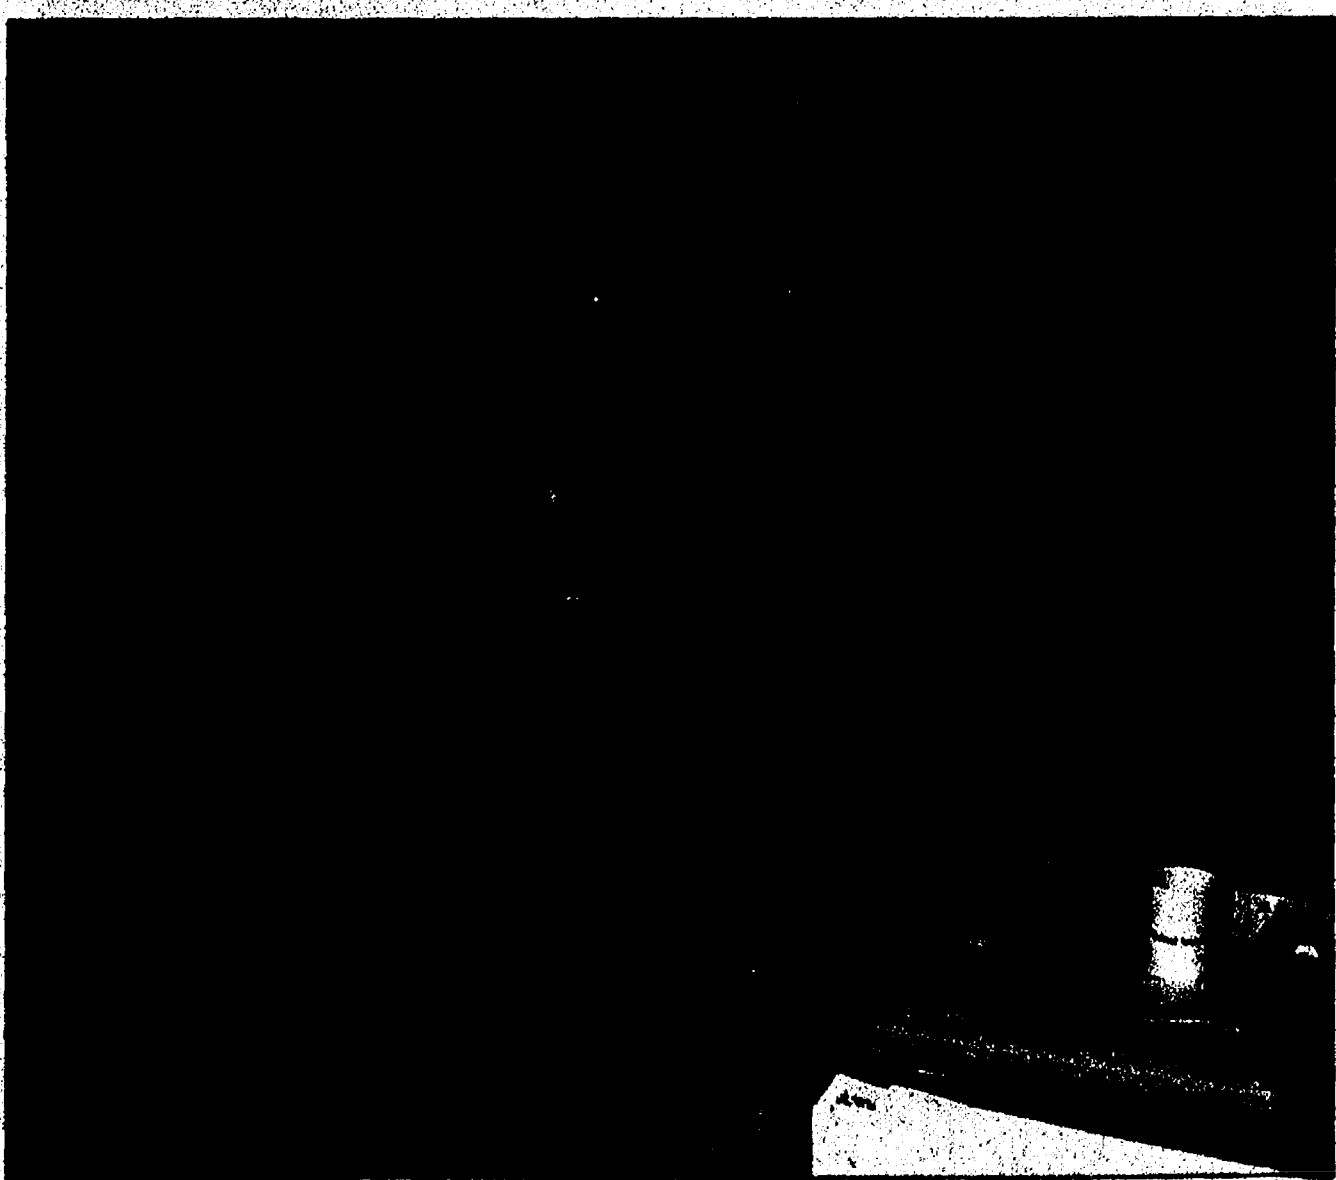

"When the cheerleaders are there for our teams, they're not competitive, they're just there to support the team," she says.

The cheerleaders, who practice two hours every day after school, are also responsible for decorating and helping parents set up, serve and clean up game-day meals for the team at the old high school cafeteria.

Williams enjoys the flexibility of the coaching position and the chance to share her

Have your older U.S. Savings Bonds stopped earning interest?

Many Savings Bonds issued prior to 1970 have reached final maturity and are no longer earning interest. By visiting www.savingsbonds.gov, you can check out the Savings Bond Calculator—a FREE program that tells you the current value of your bonds, when they increase in value, and when they stop earning interest.

WARNING: Bonds purchased prior to December 31, 1999, may expire.

If your Savings Bonds are no longer earning interest, you should redeem them at your local financial institution. Or you may exchange them for Series EE Bonds for up to one year past final maturity and continue to defer the accrued interest for federal income tax purposes.

So check it out, and put your money back to work.

Biography should be required reading

LISA ALLMENDINGER

BOOK REVIEW

I'm not a big fan of biographies. But I am a fan of biographical history.

The last biography I read was "John Adams," by David McCullough, and I enjoyed all 700-and-some pages, because I love revolutionary times. (The book subsequently won a Pulitzer.)

Little did I know that I'd be reading about a modern revolutionary when I started the well-crafted story of "John Engler: The Man, the Leader and the Legacy," by Gleaves Whitney. Sleeping Bear Press, hardback, $24.95.

All I could think when I cracked the binding was more than 400 pages about a modern governor, a legend to many in the political know. But could Engler's life and times possibly be as interesting as John Adams?

Even for a political reporter, I didn't think so. Ah, but my preconceived notions were wrong.

When I got to the last page, my first thought was, "I don't know this man, but I think I'd like him." Then I wondered, "What's next on his agenda?"

Many people have strong opinions of politicians, as did the people through whose words Engler is portrayed. But Whitney allows his readers to form a personal opinion of the man through the observations of his friends and foes.

Love him or loathe him, they agree Engler is smart and savvy, a statesman and a strategist. And regardless of which side of the fence readers were on before reading the book or which one they land on after reading it, they will see the man who changed the course of Michigan history, as the leader, beginning at the tender age of 21, and the legacy will be debated by historians for many years to come.

Reading this book was like being a mouse in the corner, overhearing history as it was being made from both the winner's and loser's sides.

This is one book that every Michigander, regardless of his political persuasion, should read if for no other reason than to understand the genesis of how some of the most sweeping changes in modern Michigan history were orchestrated.

This is a book that every political science department in the state should list as required reading. And for anyone who has ever entertained a notion of running for public office, this book should be your guide. It's a road map of the tolls and triumphs of political life.

It's an interesting story, with a decided Republican slant, but great care was taken to present all sides by interviewing more than 150 people while undertaking this three-year project.

And because of those diverse opinions, the book does not come off as a rah-rah rousing endorsement of Engler. What it does show is a man who withstood a hailstorm of criticism, but never swayed from a course he thought was the best for the people of the state. Regardless of the personal consequences.

The book poignantly details what Engler has accomplished during his 30 years in state government, beginning with his terms in the Legislature and Senate and ending with his last 12 years in the governor's office.

There are some harsh words from his critics and some glowing accolades from his supporters.

What Whitney, a trained historian, accomplished in writing this biography is a color tapestry of a public and private man who never lost an election and transformed the state of Michigan for its children and the future.

TRAIL

That night, she witnessed more shooting stars than she had ever seen before. The quartet stayed up late, mesmerized by the stars and the sound of the water lapping on the shore.

In the morning, Mount Katahdin, visible across the lake, waited for them.

Hermosillo describes the scene toward trail's end as chaos and joy. She and a friend hiked 12 miles out of the wilderness to Abol Bridge, meeting up with 20 or so hikers headed to the final destination.

The group hiked 10 miles to Baxter State Park, where the cold and rain forced them into their tents early.

The next morning, Hermosillo was one of 10 who started up the mountain, full of energy and excitement.

The excitement quickly turned to caution and then to fear as climbers met snow and ice. Two turned back. Hermosillo's fear slowed her down and forced her to the back of the group.

"My hands were wet and frozen and I found it difficult to grasp the boulders and pull myself up the steep ledges," she says.

As her hands continued to slip, her uneasiness rose almost to a panic.

Finally, she reached the safety of the Tablelands, a milelong, relatively flat section. The summit was minutes away.

Spotting the Katahdin sign through freezing fog, Hermosillo hurried to it, placed her hands on the huge letters that spelled out the name, then collapsed.

"The emotional dam crumbled," she says. "I sucked in the frigid air and let the tears roll down my face and onto the sign."

She experienced a multitude of emotions — an immense sense of accomplishment, the culmination of an incredible journey, the fear of falling off icy boulders, and the joy of defeating her fears and reaching the sign alive.

She says her foremost emotion was unbridled joy.

What Hermosillo most wants to hold on to from her seven-month adventure is that same emotion that she experienced as she embraced the Katahdin sign.

"Life is about choices," she says. "I chose the sun; I chose the stars; I chose every step of every day; I chose adventure; and I chose my heart's desire."

During her journey, Hermosillo asked people to show support by donating to The Breast Cancer Fund. Donations may be sent to The Breast Cancer Fund, 2107 O'Farrell, San Francisco, CA 95115-3419. For information, go online to www.breastcancerfund.org.

Salute to veterans

Local man honored at Wall of Heroes

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Local resident and military veteran Billy Robertson will be honored tomorrow as part of the Veterans Affairs Medical Center's fifth annual Wall of Heroes Recognition.

Robertson will be among 15 military heroes, veterans of World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam War, to be honored.

The ceremony is slated for 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Ann Arbor VA Medical Center Auditorium, 2215 Fuller Road, in Ann Arbor.

The event, with guest speaker Lt. Col. Dennis Veara from Selfridge Air National Guard Base and a military honor guard from the Eastern Michigan University ROTC program, falls one day before the 61st anniversary of the 1941 attack on Pearl Harbor.

Ten of the 15 heroes to be honored tomorrow served during World War II.

Robertson and the 14 other veterans will appear on the medical facility's 2002 Wall of Heroes, which displays photographs of the veterans and descriptions of their heroic deeds in a place of honor.

The servicemen were nominated by fellow veterans, family members and VA employees. Many received medals for meritorious service or personal valor during combat, and seven endured unspeakable hardships as prisoners of war.

All nominations were reviewed by a committee of veterans service organization representatives who made the final selections.

Robertson was a staff sergeant in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II. As a member of the 308th Bombardier, 865th Squadron, 8th Army Air Force, he served as an aerial gunner, maintaining multiple machine guns and testing turbines before operational flights.

On Aug. 9, 1944, Robertson was shot down and captured over Germany after bailing out of his aircraft. He spent nine months as a prisoner of war, moving from camp to camp either by train or on foot.

After spending time in Stalag Luft IV, Robertson was among 10,000 prisoners of war liberated April 29, 1945, by the 14th Armored Division and the 19th Infantry Division.

Robertson, who later received the Air Medal, Prisoner of War Medal, European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal and World War II Victory Medal, was flown to the 347th Hospital Station in England, and later sent to the 162nd General Hospital.

After being discharged, he arrived home to Highland Park on Nov. 13, 1945.

Robertson and his wife, Maryanna, have called North Lake home since 1952. They are members of the North Lake United Methodist Church.

Robertson, who retired from Chrysler Corp., now DaimlerChrysler AG, in 1980, is also an honorary member of the Inverness Country Club, where he has been a member since 1956. He and his wife have three children and five grandchildren.

"It's an honor to be included on the Wall of Heroes," Robertson said Monday.

Seventh Heaven

Chelsea tankers place in top 10 at Division II state finals

Chelsea's girls' swimming and diving team finished seventh at the Division II state finals at the University of Michigan's Canham Natatorium Nov. 22 and 23.

The Bulldogs ended the two-day meet with 163 points.

Capturing the Division II state championship was Dexter with 221 points. The Dreadnaughts edged Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook-Kingswood by half a point. The Cranes finished second with 220.50.

Rounding out the top seven was Birmingham Groves with 214 points, followed by East Grand Rapids with 187.50 points, Bloomfield Hills Lahser with 173.50 points and Birmingham Seaholm with 169 points.

A record crowd witnessed the largest swimming and diving championship ever. Participating in the finals were 645 athletes from 83 schools.

The meet was like no other. "You could not have a mediocre performance and expect to be back on Saturday," said Chelsea coach Dave Jolly.

That fact became clear as Dexter's medley relay was disqualified in the preliminaries after two false starts.

The Bulldogs took advantage of the situation, winning the 200 medley relay, outdistancing the field by more than a second.

Dani Sawyer, Alise Augustine, Julie Mida, and Becca Armstrong combined for an impressive 1:50.08. The four-some's time was less than two seconds away from a state record. Dexter set the Division II mark of 1:48.54 in last year's finals.

The All-State performance

Chelsea freshman Jessica Lodewyk helped lead the Bulldogs to a seventh-place finish at the Division II state finals Nov. 22 and 23. The meet was held at the University of Michigan's Canham Natatorium. Lodewyk finished 12th in the 200 individual medley, 29th in the 100 butterfly, and was a member of the 200 freestyle relay and the 400 freestyle relay, which both ended up fifth.

also qualifies the Chelsea foursome for All-America honors, which is decided in June.

Kayla Hack was the Bulldogs' lone placer in the 200 freestyle, finishing 13th overall with a time of 1:59.37. "Kayla was one of our most consistent swimmers all season," Jolly said. "She really gave all she had this weekend. Her work ethic is awesome."

Jolly said Hack's work ethic helped her stay competitive in the deepest and fastest 200 freestyle field in Division II state finals history.

Next up for the Bulldogs was freshman sensation Jessica Lodewyk.

Lodewyk, in her first state championship, rose to the occasion by placing 12th in the 200 individual medley, with a career- and season-best clocking of 2:18.08. Her time also broke the Bulldog varsity record previously held by teammate Kara Stiles.

"Jessica is without a doubt one of the toughest trainers I have ever worked with,"

Jolly said. "She makes everyone around her better."

"It is not very often you can have someone this young handle the pressure of a meet this tough."

Chelsea junior Danielle Hughes also competed in the 200 individual medley, finishing 29th overall, with a season-best performance of 2:21.28.

"Danielle had huge improvements this year," Jolly said. "She qualified in three individual events. Her personality and skills will be an essential part of our team next year."

The 50 freestyle was a good point-scoring event for the Bulldogs, as Kara Stiles and Becca Armstrong both placed in the top 16.

Stiles finished 12th with a finals time of 25.23. Armstrong was close behind, touching 15th in 25.42.

"Both girls competed well," Jolly said. "With just under 1.5 seconds separating first through 16th place, you can't make any mistakes."

"These girls gave it all they had. I am very proud of them."

A newcomer to the state finals scene was Chelsea diver Allison Sayers.

A senior, Sayers dove exceptionally well throughout the season and finished ninth at this year's championship. She had a score of 328.20 points.

"What a great effort she had all season long," Jolly said. "We are all so proud of her and her accomplishments."

The 100 butterfly was a mystery to the Bulldogs, as Julie Mida and Lodewyk were unable to make the finals.

Mida was bumped out of the final on a judge's decision to use a backup time for another swimmer. That decision moved Mida to 17th place overall. Her time of 1:01.91 was just off her best clocking of the season.

Lodewyk finished 29th overall with a time of 1:03.85. Despite her disappointing finish in the 100 butterfly, Lodewyk would make up for her performance in a big way, notching best times in the 200 and 400 freestyle relays.

"It's tough being in a position of having to compete in four events at a meet of this caliber," Jolly said of Lodewyk, "especially, if you are a freshman."

"I think Jessica did awesome handling the pressure."

Chelsea junior Katrina Moffett ended up 35th overall in the event, stopping the clock in the preliminaries at 1:04.89.

Stiles earned All-State recognition in the 100 freestyle, finishing eighth overall with a time of 54.38. Teammate Hack finished Bulldog sophomore Kara Stiles finished eighth in the 100 freestyle and 12th in the 50 freestyle at the Division II state meet. She also was a member of Chelsea's 200 freestyle relay and 400 freestyle relay, which both placed fifth.

Bulldog icers battle Flushing in Thanksgiving tourney

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea hockey lost to Flushing 3-1 in the finals of the Bulldogs' second annual Thanksgiving Tournament at the Arctic Coliseum last Saturday.

Penalty trouble put Chelsea behind early against the Raiders.

At 9:50 of the opening period, Flushing scored the first of its two power-play goals in the frame.

Matt Fray's goal with the man advantage gave the Raiders a 1-0 lead.

At 14:46 of the first period, Flushing increased its lead to 2-0 as John Cook scored for the Raiders on a 5-on-3 power play.

"We needed to stay out of the penalty box," said Chelsea coach Don Wright, whose Bulldogs committed three penalties in the first period.

After a scoreless second period in which Chelsea committed no penalties and out shot Flushing 9-5, the Bulldogs still found themselves trailing 2-0 entering the third stanza.

"We had some good opportunities, but their goalie, Matt Klump, played very well," Wright said. "He made some strong saves and his positioning was good."

In the third period, Chelsea finally solved Klump.

At 8:27 of the frame, Bulldog Lee Woodruff scored off an assist from Drew Warren and Matt Eckler.

Despite finally getting a shot by Klump, the Flushing net minder refused to wilt, blocking and turning away every Chelsea shot the rest of the period.

With 20 seconds remaining, the Raiders scored an empty-netter for the game's final margin.

With the victory, Flushing captured the tournament championship.

Chelsea (4-1) out shot the Raiders on the night 31-15.

"The difference in the game was the two power play goals and their (Flushing's) goaltender," Wright said. Wright said the Bulldogs needed to stay out of the penalty box.

"When it's 5-on-5 we've given up only two goals this year," Wright said. "We've allowed five power play goals."

In the tournament's consolation game last Saturday, Linden defeated Holland West Ottawa.

To open the tournament, Chelsea beat West Ottawa 6-0 last Friday.

Scoring in the first period for the Bulldogs were Craig Urwin, with two goals, including one on a power play, and David Midura.

Recording assists in the frame for Chelsea were Kenny Williams, with two, and Eckler and Woodruff.

After a scoreless second period, the Bulldogs closed out the contest with three third period goals.

At 5:15 of the final stanza, Ben Daniels scored off an assist from Eckler, increasing Chelsea's lead to 4-0.

At 9:27 of the period, Warren made it 5-0, scoring on an assist from Midura.

Taylor Hooper ended the scoring with a power play goal at 12:43 of the frame. Eckler assisted on the score.

Combining for the victory in net for the Bulldogs were J.R. Engelbert, who played the first two periods, and Maris Turner, who stepped in for the third period.

"I thought we played well," Wright said. "We had a pretty good advantage, out shooting them 35-8. I thought we moved the puck well. We also made good decisions with our passes on defense. Everybody worked hard on defense."

In the tournament's other first round contest, Flushing defeated Linden 5-3.

On Nov. 27, Chelsea beat Ypsilanti Lincoln 12-1.

A nine-goal second period was the difference against the host Railsplitters.

In the first period, both clubs skated to a 1-1 tie. Scoring for the Bulldogs was Brad Tyler, off an assist from Davis Turner and Woodruff.

In the second frame, Chelsea exploded for a school record nine goals.

Ben Daniels and Urwin each notched two goals in the period for the Bulldogs. Also

Chelsea Aquatics Club to host league finals

By Don Richter

The Chelsea Aquatics Club will host the Southern Michigan Swim League championship meet Saturday at Beach Middle School.

The finals conclude the fall season in the league.

The competition begins at 8:30 a.m. with the 8-year-old and younger division. At noon, the 9- to 10-year-old bracket hits the water.

On Sunday, the club will participate in the league championship at Howell.

Starting at 8 a.m., the 13- to 17-year-old division competes, followed by the 11- to 12-year-old group at noon.

Besides Chelsea, clubs competing Saturday and Sunday include Brighton, Dexter, Howell, Milan, Pinckney, Plymouth, Saline, South Lyon, Tecumseh and Ypsilanti.

Two years ago, Chelsea hosted the SMSL championship.

"It's special," said Krystn Stephens, president of the CAC parent board. "There will be 300 swimmers (participating). One-hundred and fifty each of the days."

Stephens said hosting the finals has its advantages.

"You're swimming in your home pool," she said. "It's familiar. I think you have a comfort advantage. Everyone's excited."

The CAC has more than 100 members.

"That's a great number," Stephens said.

Chelsea finished the regular season with a 1-3 dual meet record.

The local swimmers defeated Pinckney 388-315 Nov. 5 for their lone victory.

Chelsea lost to Brighton 507-251 Oct. 8; Howell 448-523.5 Oct. 24 and Tecumseh 402-252 Nov. 12.

The CAC is open to all youngsters in the Chelsea area. The club stresses personal improvement and participation, sportsmanship over victory, team goals over individual honors and the development of an emotionally solid athlete.

The program has a secondary design, which is the goal of providing a basis of pre-experienced swimmers for the middle school and high school teams.

To be eligible for the CAC, swimmers must be 8 years old or older. A potential team member must also be able to swim the 50-yard freestyle with rhythmic breathing, swim the 50-yard backstroke and/or swim continuously, any combination of strokes, for five minutes.

Besides the fall season, the club also competes in winter and summer leagues.

The winter season begins Jan. 13.

For additional information about the CAC, call 433-2206.

Beach cagers too much for Drager

Chelsea's Beach Middle School eighth-grade Blue boys' basketball team defeated Adrian Drager 53-43 Nov. 28.

Pacing the visiting Bulldogs was Adam Connell, who poured in 21 points.

Eric Dudek added 12 points, while Abe Kane chipped in nine points.

John Seelbach finished with six points, while Antwan McClendon and T.J. Mathis each netted two points and Reece Hammer one point for Beach (5-1).

"This was our highest scoring output for the season," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman. "(It was) by far our best performance at the free-throw line. We made 17-of-28."

"I was particularly impressed with our free-throw production in the third and fourth quarters as Drager attempted to stop us with aggressive defense. They out fouled us 12-2, but we were able to make 10-of-16 free throws to keep our momentum going."

On Nov. 25, Chelsea defeated Adrian Springbrook 44-30.

Beach secured its victory, outscoring visiting Springbrook 12-2 in the fourth quarter. Connell led the Bulldogs, scoring 13 points.

McClendon added eight points, while Seelbach had seven points.

Kane and Hammer each netted five points, while Dudek had four points and Kyle Bucholz two points for Beach.

"I was very proud of the effort of our team tonight as we were forced to make several line up changes, due to the absence of several important ball players," Tallman said.

The Bulldogs next travel to Saline Gold today for a game at 4 p.m.

On Monday, Beach hosts Saline Blue at 4 p.m.

On Dec. 12, Chelsea visits county rival Dexter for a contest at 4 p.m.

The Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association named Chelsea's Chad Scaling District Coach of the Year. Scaling led the Bulldogs to a school record 16 wins this past season.

Scaling selected coach of the year

The Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association named Chelsea's Chad Scaling its District Coach of the Year.

Scaling, who recently concluded his fourth season as Bulldog coach, helped lead Chelsea to its best season in school history this past year.

The Bulldogs finished the year with an overall mark of 16-3-3. The 16 wins are a school record.

Chelsea captured the Southeastern Conference White Division title with a perfect 6-0 mark.

The Bulldogs, who were ranked as high as No. 6 in Division II, captured a district title before losing 1-0 in double overtime to eventual state champion East Lansing.

Chelsea scored a school record 70 goals this season.

The Bulldogs were just as impressive defensively, allowing only 21 goals.

In the past two seasons under Scaling, Chelsea has a record of 29-7-7. The Bulldogs have also won two SEC White titles and a district crown during that same time span.

In other Chelsea sports news, Athletic Director Wayne Welton and varsity football coach Brad Bush have set Dec. 12 to begin small committee work on the feasibility study for a combined track and football complex.

Bulldog boys' assistant swimming and diving coach Mike Zientek resigned to spend more time with his family.

Chelsea, Dexter players earn honors

There was a significant local flavor to this year's Southeastern Conference White Division first-team girls' basketball squad.

Of the six spots on the elite team, five hailed from either Chelsea or Dexter.

The Dreadnaughts led the way with three players selected to the first-team, while the Bulldogs had two.

Seniors Shannon Kennedy, a 5-foot-10 forward and Katherine Thomas, a 5-6 shooting guard and junior Kelsea Howell, a 5-9 forward, were Dexter players making the first team.

Selected from Chelsea were seniors Alison Mann, a 6-0 swing player, and Julia Arnold, a 5-4 point guard.

The final player making the first team was Tecumseh 6-0 senior center Abbie Mincke.

Receiving all-league honorable mention from Dexter was junior Anne Cowen, a 5-7 swing player, and Chelsea's Anna Arend, a 5-9 senior forward, and Emily Woodruff, a 5-10 freshman forward.

Others earning honorable mention all-league accolades were Courtney Smith of Tecumseh, and Ypsilanti Lincoln's Kristin Pinter and Tamara Washington.

Receiving the SEC White Division Sportsmanship Award for the Dreadnaughts was senior Katie Molnar. Senior Stephanie Minzey was presented the award for the Bulldogs.

Lincoln's Alexis Ford and Tecumseh's Lyndsay Sanders received the Sportsmanship Award for their respective schools.

Leading the SEC Red Division first team were Adrian senior Lauren Kohn, a 5-10 swing player, and Temperance Bedford junior Laura Hall, a 6-4 center.

Also named to the Red's first unit were Bedford's Tara Breske and Rachel Pelhank, as well as Adrian's Kelly Stephen and Saline's Lia Cronenwett.

Earning honorable mention all-league were Ann Arbor Pioneer's Krystal Patton, Amber McCoy, Jessica Wynne and Jenny Kraus; Saline's Robyn Busha; Lauren Paolini and Jessica Duff; Adrian's Kelly Kohn and Nicole Mitchell and Bedford's Allison Davis.

Receiving Red Division Sportsmanship Awards were Tiffany Henagan of Adrian, Jennifer Sulewski of Bedford, Katie Carrol of Ann Arbor Pioneer and Saline's Kristin Hendricks.

The 200 freestyle relay of Armstrong, Lodewyk, Hack, and Stiles combined to finish the season with All-State honors. The Chelsea group dropped nearly three seconds from their previous best performance, placing fifth with a clocking of 1:41.13.

Sawyer and Armstrong both placed in the 100 backstroke for the Bulldogs.

Sawyer, the Southeastern Conference White Division champion in the event, was poised to make some noise at the state meet. When the clamor ended, Sawyer had touched fourth with a time of 1:00.79. Sawyer's clocking earned her All-State honors for the second year in a row. Armstrong concluded the season with a 1:04.07 in the finals for 15th place. She had a career best time in the preliminaries of 1:02.99.

"The 200 freestyle relay just before took a little out of her sails," Jolly said of Armstrong. "She is one of the toughest competitors on the team. She will always give you more than she has."

Kellyn Pagliarini, a freshman this year competing in her first state championship, finished 35th in the event with a career best time of 1:05.83. Kelsey Benton was 59th overall at 1:08.98.

Augustine was the last individual All-State swimmer for the Bulldogs, swimming her way to an unbelievable fifth place after missing a turn in the finals.

"This girl is a competitor," Jolly said. "She was on a varsity record pace, no doubt about it, and missed the last wall. She went from last to fifth in less than 20 yards."

Augustine's time of 1:08.90

was impressive, after missing the last turn.

Teammate Mida finished 35th with a clocking of 1:13.35. Tara Jennings was 36th in 1:13.62. Sarah Manville was 57th with a time of 1:14.82. Anna Drow ended up 64th with a clocking of 1:16.69.

The meet's last event, the 400 freestyle relay, decided the state championship.

Each of the top seven schools were in the finals. Chelsea finished fifth, with a new varsity record time of 3:39.45.

Lodewyk led the relay off in a season best time of 55.97. Hack was second, followed by Sawyer and Stiles. The foursome finished the season as All-Staters.

"It was a nice finish to a rewarding season," Jolly said. Chelsea graduates a group of talented seniors this year.

With the underclassmen the Bulldogs have returning, however, and the incoming freshmen soon to join the program, Chelsea will look to reload, instead of rebuild, as it prepares for next season's state finals.

scoring in the record-setting frame for Chelsea were Luc Daniels, Hooper, Midura and Ford.

Picking up assists in the second period were Midura, Ford, Williams, Urwin, Eckler and Woodruff, each with two, and Davis Turner, Danny Bingel and Luc Daniels, with one each.

With a 10-1 lead, Erik Mets and Ryan Ruikka closed out the scoring for the Bulldogs in the third period.

Picking up an assist in the stanza was Eckler.

Combining for the victory in net once again was Maris Turner and Engelbert. Engelbert played in the first period, while Maris Turner finished up the final two periods for Chelsea.

"It was a good win," Wright said. "In the second period, we moved the puck very well. Our younger players were able to get playing time and did a nice job."

On Nov. 23, the Bulldogs defeated Livonia Franklin 6-4.

Chelsea scored first on a goal by Urwin at 8:22 of the opening period. Ben Daniels and Midura assisted on the play.

At 13:16 of the stanza, Franklin's Keith Robert tied the game at 1-1 with a goal.

In the second period, the Bulldogs regained the lead as Urwin scored goal No. 2 off an assist from Warren at 8:53 of the frame.

Once again, however, the Patriots tied the contest as Joe Kozlowski scored on a power play at 12:38 of the period.

In the third period, Warren gave Chelsea the lead scoring 34 seconds into the stanza off an assist from Ben Daniels and goaltender Engelbert.

At 3:20 of the final frame, Urwin scored his third goal for a hat trick. Assisting on the play were Ford and Woodruff.

With the goal, Chelsea increased its lead to 4-2.

Franklin, a strong program, which has produced NHL players Mike Donnelly and Mike Mordano, came back, as Robert scored his second goal of the night at 7:32.

Chelsea responded, however, as Urwin scored his fourth goal of the game at 8:37 off an assist from Luc

Daniels and Ford.

Franklin returned the favor at 11:31 as Adam Bierley scored, trimming the Bulldogs' lead to 5-4 with less than four minutes remaining in the game.

With eight seconds left, Chelsea's Luc Callow scored an empty net goal securing the Bulldogs' victory.

Despite the win, Chelsea committed 14 minutes of penalties.

"I wasn't pleased with the number of penalties we took," Wright said. "But I was pleased with the way we responded. We kept coming back despite being short-handed. We never trailed in the game."

"It was one of those games where we could lose, but I felt good that we found a way to win."

Engelbert recorded the victory in net for the Bulldogs.

Chelsea next travels to Jackson Lumen Christi for a game Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs visit Dearborn Heights Crestwood for a contest at 7 p.m.

Sleeping Bear Press publishes Engler biography

■ Book rolls off the presses at Edwards Brothers.

By Lisa Allmendinger
Special Writer

When Gov. John Engler and his speech writer, Gleaves Whitney, arrived at Edwards Brothers in Ann Arbor the day before Thanksgiving, it was hard to decide who was more excited to be there.

Was it the more than 250 employees of the book publishing company who stayed past the end of their shift to shake hands with the governor?

"This is great," said Jim Keller of Manchester after having his photograph taken with the governor. "We are all part of the effort."

Or was it the governor, himself, who was witnessing his authorized biography as it came off the presses?

"I'd like six copies for my family," the governor said, smiling while leafing through a book that was still warm. "I'm getting together with my brothers and sisters tomorrow (Thanksgiving)."

Or the author, who had spent three years on the project after months of convincing the governor that "John Engler: The Man, the Leader and the Legacy" was an important story that needed to be told?

However, quite possibly, the most excited person in the printing plant was John Edwards, president and CEO of Edwards Brothers book manufacturing, who agreed to an initial print order of 5,000, which has since increased to 8,000, in record time.

"We did this in eight days," he said. "Sleeping Bear is a good customer and the governor called and asked us to do this."

Brian Lewis, publisher of Sleeping Bear Press in Chelsea, was also on hand for the event. He said in an earlier interview that he wanted the book to be printed in September to capitalize on Christmas sales, but Engler vetoed the idea, saying he did not want the publication of the book to have any bearing on the election.

"Yes, it could have been done before the election, but the governor felt it wasn't good form," Whitney said.

And therein lies a taste of the little-known side of Engler, characterized by some of his foes in the book as "heartless." In the book, his fans espoused a gentler, kinder man than his public

A milestone

What's It Shop marks three decades

By Lisa Carolin
Special Writer

Thirty years ago, Mary Muck was at an age when most people retire. But, instead, she began a new career.

Today Muck, owner of the What's It Shop in downtown Dexter, is marking three decades in business.

The 92-year-old still runs the unusual shop, which features figurines for people to paint. It's open from 1 to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and offers special hours for birthday parties.

Muck spent the first part of her life Downriver working for Romulus Community Schools. She was a janitor, teacher and school board treasurer. Her favorite job was teaching kindergarten, which she says inspired her most recent career.

Muck, whose husband died in 1995, lives with her granddaughter, Charlotte, on the Rockingham Ranch in Webster Township. She has three children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

It was Muck's daughter who, along with a friend, originally opened the What's It Shop Nov. 8, 1972. Muck did the books for her.

"I got to see all the kids who came in and I got hooked," she says.

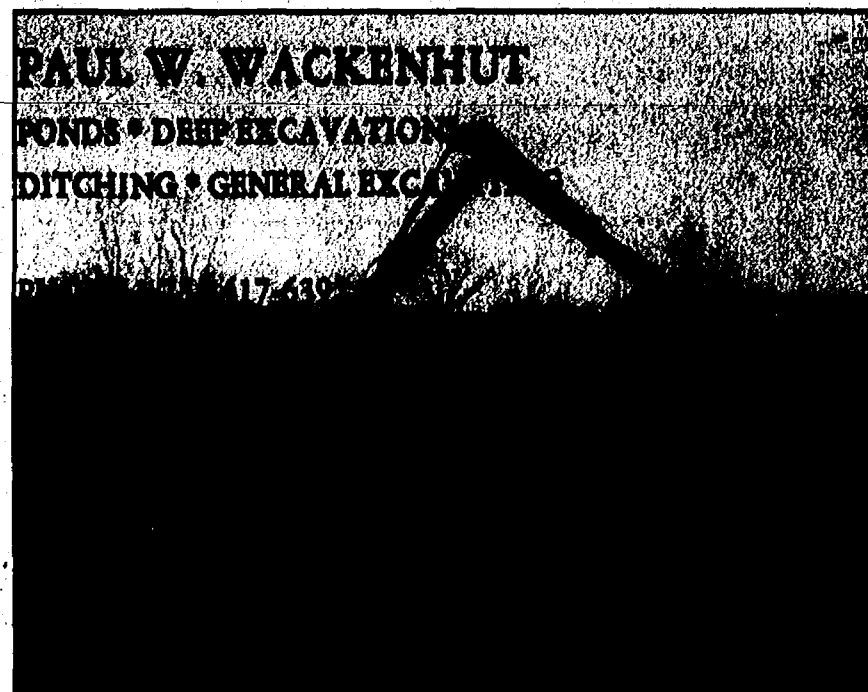

The shop started out as a workshop for bead making. It eventually offered figurine painting and that's when Muck took over.

"We used to work with plaster," she says. "Now it's almost all ceramic."

There are dozens of figurines of all shapes and sizes in the store. Customers pick out one to paint and then Muck or her assistant, Ruth Thompson, take the figurine behind a curtain in the back of the store to spray it with a base coat of either white or black paint.

Then it's ready to be painted at the long table in the back of the shop. Muck visits

Heinz Prechter mentioned in book

By Lisa Allmendinger
Special Writer

In a section titled, "Heinz Prechter, RIP," the Downriver industrialist and former owner of Heritage Newspapers is fondly remembered in the recently released "John Engler: The Man, the Leader and the Legacy," by Gleaves Whitney.

"In a distressing phone call on Friday, July 6, 2001, Gov. Engler learned of the death of his cherished friend, Heinz Prechter," the section begins.

The author recalls the governor "regarded Prechter like an older brother."

Whitney and Engler were up past 2 a.m. the day of Prechter's funeral, writing the eulogy that was later delivered by the governor.

Whitney recalls that Engler was so upset about the death of his friend that he could not think of personal stories everyone involved in the speech thought would be an important part of Prechter's eulogy.

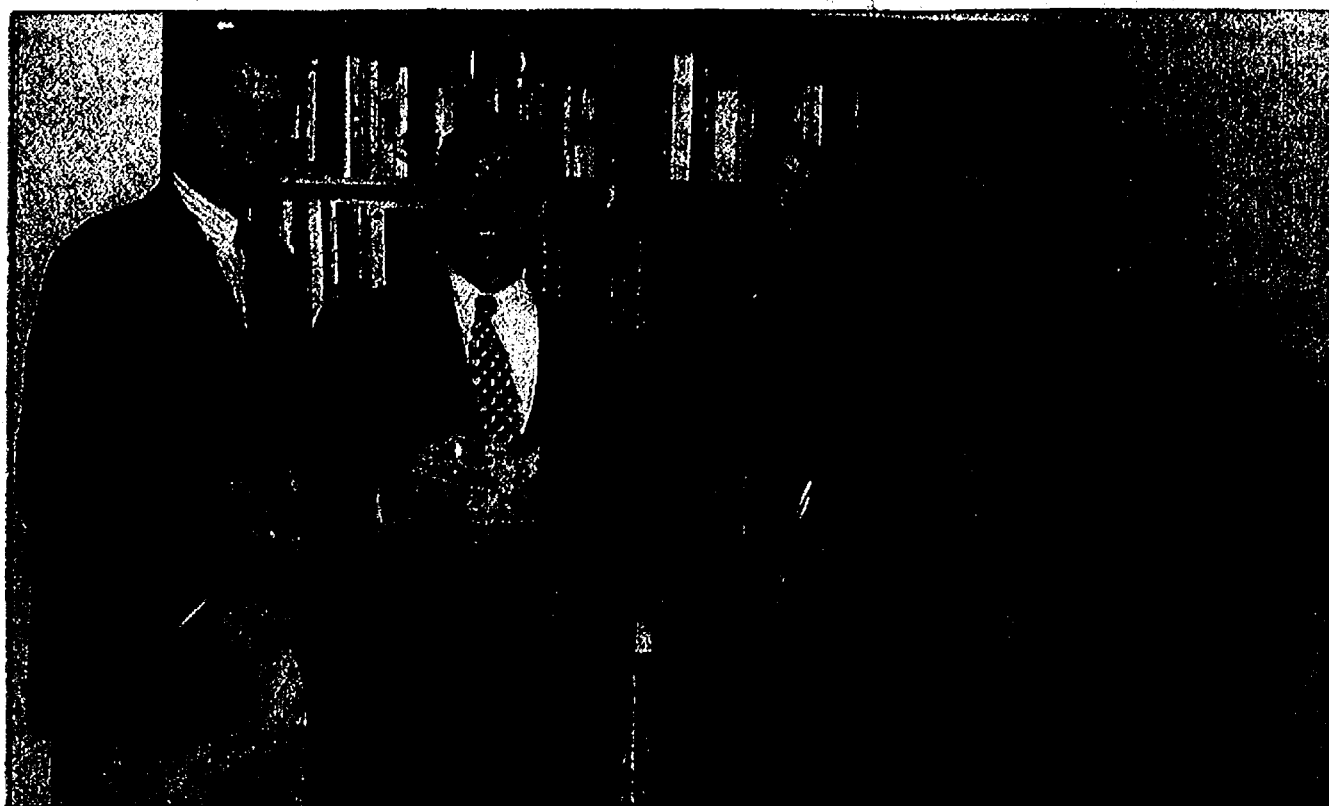

Michelle Engler, the governor's wife, helped Whitney add the personal touch needed to bring the speech to life.

Said Rachel Siglow, Engler's executive assistant: "It's the saddest I've ever seen the governor. Working on the speech took a long time ... Also, he wanted it to be perfect — he wanted the right words to console Mrs. Prechter and the employees."

In an eerie turn of events, days after Prechter's death, the governor received a hand-written note from his friend that had somehow been delayed in reaching his office.

"Even six months later," Siglow recalls, "he would say, 'You know, if only Heinz were here, we could call him ...'"

The section also includes a photo of the governor, Prechter and former White House Chief of Staff Andrew Card taken in the spring of 2001.

Gleaves Whitney, speechwriter for Gov. John Engler has written a book about the outgoing Republican. The book rolled off the presses at Edwards Brothers book manufacturing in Ann Arbor Nov. 27. John Edwards (left), president and CEO of Edwards Brothers, holds a copy of the book with Whitney, Engler and Brian Lewis, president of Sleeping Bear Press in Chelsea.

political persona portrays.

"There's a lot in this book that people don't know about the governor," Lewis said.

And seeing the words come to life, here's a sterling example from the publicity event at Edwards Brothers:

"I'm sorry we're late arriving," the governor said when he got to Edwards Brothers 40 minutes after the appointed time.

"We were right on schedule after my first two meetings and then I got caught in budget talks."

"I hope I didn't keep many of the employees from getting home to their families," he said with concern because the event took place the day before Thanksgiving.

And with that, the press flashbulbs went off, and the governor was whisked into the plant area where he shook hands with the employees and took the time to autograph copies of his biography.

Edwards said he publishes about 5,000 titles a year. But for Sleeping Bear Press, which is now concentrating on the children's book market, Engler's book will probably be the last regional title the company produces. Gale publishing has taken over this part of the operation.

"It's an honor to do a book about the governor," said Mary Beth Bower, senior customer service representative for Sleeping Bear Press.

Crystal Boatright of Ypsilanti, an employee at Edwards Brothers, said publishing the book has been exciting for the company.

"I've worked here 30 years and this is so exciting. This is the first time a governor has been here," she said.

Calling the project "challenging, exciting and rewarding," John Welton of Chelsea, the manufacturing manager for Edwards Brothers, said he oversaw the press and bindery portions of the process.

And after the Thanksgiving holiday, Lewis said another 8,000 copies would be rushed to press to accommodate the pre-holiday demands of book sellers.

"If you care about the state and are interested in Michigan and in history books, this would make a great Christmas gift," he said.

Whitney said he went through hundreds of hours of interviews from more than 150 people, including two U.S. presidents, to write the 424-page book, which includes about 70 photographs.

The book retails for $24.95 and can be found in bookstores across the state.

with the various artists and offers tips on paint colors and application techniques. She says it's the interaction with people that she thrives on.

Muck says people of all ages have asked her advice on a multitude of topics. She has helped adults in crisis and teen-agers with drug problems.

Children feel especially comfortable with her. Just ask Hunter Briggs.

"This is really a great place," the 11-year-old said while admiring some dragons that Muck painted.

But Thompson says that fewer children are visiting the shop these days. It's not because they're not interested. The store is competing with numerous other interests, from athletics to video games.

"Kids have so many more activities now that they don't have time," she says.

Thompson has been a good friend to Muck for many years. She helps with the lifting, moving and other chores.

The shop's wall is a reflection of how busy they are. It's full of works in progress.

Attorney Frank Grohnert owns the building that houses the longtime business. Muck says she is grateful to him, as well as the angels that she says look after her. "Somebody up above has given me this," she says.

Muck has seen a lot of changes in Dexter in the last 30 years.

"There's a lot more traffic and parking problems and so many new homes all around," she says. "But the people who come in the shop are all so nice. We talk about everything, and when they leave, people tell me that they feel so much better."

There is a photograph of a horse on the wall that her daughter named "Proud Mary." A look at the smiling business owner leaves no doubt for whom that horse was named.

DTE Energy offers storm tips

Winter brings the possibility of severe snow and ice storms that can cause unavoidable power outages. To prepare, Detroit Edison, part of DTE Energy, has some advice for residents.

When a power outage occurs, customers are encouraged to check fuse boxes for tripped circuit breakers or blown fuses. If the home's electrical system is intact, determine the extent of the outage by checking to see whether neighbors also have a problem.

Report power outages and downed power lines by calling 1-800-477-4747. Don't assume the utility knows you are without power. Your report, and the reports of your neighbors, helps the utility identify the scope of the outages and helps in service restoration efforts.

Detroit Edison offers the following suggestions for preparing for and coping with a power outage:

Before A Storm

• Assemble an emergency kit that is easily accessible. It should include a battery-powered radio, a flashlight and extra batteries, candles and matches or a lighter, a first-aid kit, a fire extinguisher, bottled water and non-perishable food.

• In addition, keep a corded or cellular phone on hand because cordless telephones need electricity to operate.

• Select a small, well-insulated room with a fireplace, wood stove or fuel-burning heater to use as emergency living quarters. Keep an emergency supply of fuel or wood handy. For safety, always store fuel in a dry place away from the house.

• In case of extended outages, blankets or cardboard can be hung over windows and doors to minimize heat loss.

After A Storm

• Stay at least 10 feet away from a downed power line and anything it contacts, especially metal fences. Treat every downed power line as if it is dangerous.

• Don't open refrigerators and freezers more often than absolutely necessary. A closed refrigerator will stay cold for 12 hours. Kept closed, a well-filled freezer will preserve food for two days. Partially thawed food or food that has ice crystals usually can be refrozen.

• Open faucets slightly so they constantly drip to prevent pipes from freezing.

• A fuel-burning heater - such as kerosene - requires an area with proper ventilation to prevent buildup of harmful fumes. Keep portable heaters away from furniture, draperies and other flammable materials.

• Never use a gas range for heating or charcoal as in indoor heating or cooking source.

• Turn off or unplug all appliances to prevent an electrical overload when power is restored. Leave on one light switch to indicate when power is restored.

• If using a portable generator, disconnect house circuits from Detroit Edison power lines. Pull or switch to "off" all main fuses or circuit breakers to protect line crews working to restore service. Always operate generators outdoors to avoid dangerous buildup of toxic fumes.

• During low-voltage conditions - when lights are dim and television pictures are smaller - shut off motor-driven appliances such as refrigerators to prevent overheating and possible damage. Sensitive electronic devices also should be unplugged.

• When clearing snow and ice from roofs and gutters, be sure to inspect the area for overhead power lines. Maintain a 10-foot clearance between the power lines and your ladder and tools. Contact with overhead lines can be deadly.

• Listen to local radio stations for updates from Detroit Edison about electric service restoration efforts.

ALBUM REVIEW

A posthumous work by an artist who was aware of his or her mortality during its creation holds a level of fascination greater than what would normally be prescribed to any other addition in that person's oeuvre.

This will be the case for those who sit down in anticipation to hear George Harrison's final album, "Brainwashed," released to coincide with the anniversary of his death on Nov. 29, 2001.

Loyalists will listen in expectation to hear if Harrison's imminent knowledge that his days were numbered rallied him to create a magnum opus for his grand finale.

On the morbid side, considering that Harrison worked on the album up to two months before his death, one might listen to hear if Harrison's abilities were noticeably ravaged by the cancer that spread from his throat to his lungs and finally to his brain.

Sadly, the conclusions are "no" to the former and, happily, "no" also to the latter, albeit with caveats.

Far from being Harrison's bejeweled epitaph, "Brainwashed" doesn't measure up to his more discerning punsters' low expectations.

By his own admission, Harrison is an adherent of the traditional school of songwriting that focuses on strong melodies and unexpected harmonic shifts.

This has been evident in his best work over the years ("Something," "What Is Life" and "Love Comes to Every-one").

It is also evident in choosing over the years to cover classic songs from the 1940s, such as this album's "Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea" written by Harold Arlen, who also wrote "(Somewhere) Over the Rainbow."

The trouble with Harrison is that, unlike Paul McCartney, he did not have the innate talent to do be a forceful and memorable songwriter with much frequency.

One of Harrison's problems is that, due to his besotted friendship with Bob Dylan and his long relationship with John Lennon, he felt obligated to over-extend his abilities.

When he kept it simple, he was fine. When he tries to make a statement, as he does far too many times on this album, the effect is amateurish.

Because of this predilection for "depth," we are treated to attempts to rhyme acronyms, words and phrases such as "DNA," "FTSE," "ex-Catholic" and "the Baba's Sal."

Because Harrison has so much to say, he crams in more words than the already glancing, unmemorable melodies are capable of withstanding.

And is all this excessive verbiage reflective on life and impending death? Nah. The majority of the lyrics are reminiscent of "Piggies" on the Beatles' "White Album."

This means that Harrison is making sweeping condemnations of everyone and everything.

Whether he is including himself in these observations in a sense of irony is not apparent. Therefore, he only comes across as smug and pompous.

On a human level, it is a relief to note that Harrison's vocals do not show any noticeable effects of his wasting ailments. This is especially heartening since his update of "My Sweet Lord" in 2000 featured a guest vocalist, which led to dire speculation.

Having said that, Harrison was never a strong vocalist, even in his prime. Not only was he limited in range, he could also sound adenoidal and heavily "scouse."

The song "Something" on the Beatles' "Abbey Road" album would have had a much harder time being recognized as a standard if McCartney was not there to lend his high harmony vocal to its bridge, thereby sustaining the composition's melodic pretensions.

After relying on McCartney and Lennon to mask his weak singing throughout his Beatle years, Harrison later employed sympathetic orchestration and/or supportive multi-layered vocal tracking to do the same.

Jeff Lynne and Harrison's son, Dhani, commandeered this album's production after George's death. It places Harrison's vocals more up-front than is wise, probably the result of a misguided attempt to be deferential.

Earlier on, the phrase "(no noticeable effects" was used to describe Harrison's vocals on this album relative to his cancer.

This is still likely to be true. However, over the years, Harrison did hone the rather surprising vocal trait of mastering a seamless segue from his falsetto voice into his natural chest range. This is not used perceptively on this album.

A man's falsetto (and not every male can produce one) is the first thing to go, whether it be by age, abuse or neglect.

While it would be easy to suggest that Harrison's fatal diseases robbed him of this weapon in his arsenal, repeated exposure to this album leads one to conclude that what we are hearing are guide vocals.

These are lazy vocals laid down to give the band direction with the intention that they will be returned to later in a more focused, isolated overdub.

Perhaps Harrison never had that chance.

Harrison's son said his next project would be to return his father's recordings that have been out of print back into the mass market.

This does not include the overly praised, over-blown "All Things Must Pass" that the Harrison neophyte has been "Brainwashed" into believing is Harrison at his peak.

This album has always been available because the monolithic conglomerate of EMI/Capitol/Apple records holds the mechanical rights.

Instead, look for a quadruplet of albums that Harrison produced from 1976 to 1981. That was when Harrison used the monolith simply as a distributor for his own company.

Legally free from the record companies and, (contractually) from the Beatles, he coalesced his uneven and sporadic talent to come up with four examples that would have made a better last will and testament than "Brainwashed."

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

LILLY

Lilly is a very pretty calico, here at the shelter as a stray. She's about a year old, and right now she's checking out everyone that comes over, looking for the perfect owner. Lilly can be a little shy now and again, but it doesn't take her long to warm up to you and start nuzzling up for some love.

ROSCCO

Rosco is a diamond in the rough! He's a very smart dog, here at the Humane Society, because his previous owner could no longer keep him. Rosco is only eleven months old, and he'll make someone a very good pet as soon as he learns some of the basics. He would benefit from some crate training, because he can be a chewer, but he only does it because he's bored, you see! When he's kept busy and gets exercise, he's too tired to do any of that stuff, so he'd be really happy with an owner who had a yard or could walk with him lots. Games are good, too! Rosco has a sweet and loving personality and he's looking forward to meeting his new owner very soon.

SCRAPPY

Scrappy is a handsome hound mix, quite strong for his size but full of wags and kisses for anyone who wants to stop and say Hi. Scrappy doesn't mind being indoors, but he sure likes it when he gets to go outside for walks or a run in the yard, because smelling things is one of his favorite things to do in the world. He's about two years old, and here at the shelter as a stray. He's heard that having an owner who will love him and keep him forever is a great thing, so he's really looking forward to that!

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA

REGULAR COUNCIL MEETING WASHINGTON STREET EDUCATION CENTER
NOVEMBER 12, 2002

Present: President Steele, Village Manager Myers, Village Clerk Branson
Trustees Present: Trustees Albertson, Holmes, Myles, Ortring, Rittler and Schumann
Absent: None

Others Present: Randy Rosentreter, Ric Sauer, Brian Belsel, Chris Linfield, Dan Rosentreter, Greg DeGraff, Terry Weener, Bob Shepherd, Gordon Darr, Gary Adams, Nancy Schumann, Diane Kite, Kent Walton, Bud Hankard.

President Steele called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m.
Motion by Rittler seconded by Albertson to approve the Consent Agenda. Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Holmes seconded by Rittler to approve the Regular Agenda with the addition of appointment of assessor under New Business. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Audience Participation:
Randy Rosentreter spoke to Council regarding a Village decision to repair, at Village expense, three water services, including that of a Village employee, that were disturbed during the installation of the watermain on Madison Street. He feels this is in conflict with Village policy requiring homeowners to be responsible for the service on their property and it is taking work away from local contractors. Discussion ensued. Village Manager Myers and Council felt the Village needed to take responsibility for their actions in disturbing the lines and the Village should pay to repair what the contractor disturbed. Mr. Rosentreter submitted a bill for replacement of his galvanized service with copper at his house on Railroad from April 2002.

Terry Weener from Lima Township urged Council to meet with the Lima Township Board regarding growth in Lima Township and possible 425 agreements. A revised master plan and sewer district maps for the township should be in place by May 1st and at that point it will be too late.

Gary Adams, Lima Township, urged the Village and Township to sit down and talk and get the Village and Township issues on the table.
Gordon Darr from Dexter who was on the ballot for the State Senate said he wanted to visit municipalities and although he is a little late, he came to the meeting to introduce himself.

Greg DeGraff, current Village resident and at-large delegate for the Chelsea District Library introduced himself to Council and said he is interested in being re-appointed.

Communications to Council:
President Steele brought to attention of Council the following correspondence: letter from Varnum Riddering re: letter from Oesterle attorney, October 2002 Monthly Zoning Report, MML Fax and Plante Moran article re: Revenue Sharing, HRWC Board meeting minutes, MML Legislative Link, Notice of Public Hearing re: Chelsea West Drive, MDOT Construction Activity Information, Progress Meeting minutes of 10/31/02, Order of Dismissal re: Bull Transport suit, CACA October 2002 Permit Statement, information provided by Jim Myles from Tim Kelley, Notice of Michcon public hearing, letter re: Arctic Coliseum, Chelsea Area Traffic Committee minutes of 4/12/02.

Report from Council Committees:
Trustee Ortring asked who was responsible for paying the bill for the letter Varnum wrote regarding the DDA newsletter. Village Manager Myers said the DDA will be billed. She also asked that Trustee Myles let the DDA know that the article in the newsletter regarding use of the parking spaces for bicycle parking was not in good taste.

Trustees Ortring also questioned the minutes of the Chelsea Area Traffic Committee, which indicates that MDOT may be considering the widening of M52. Village Manager Myers said a former employee of MDOT required it be put in the report as an alternative and it is not being considered. Trustee Myles said he is concerned about Mr. Ott's comment about MDOT's position that widening M52 is acceptable. He asked to add this widening of M52 issue under New Business.

Trustee Rittler reported on the CAFA meeting and plans to build fire halls. He said he would like the Council to appoint an Alternate Delegate who will be supportive and attend meetings. In response to Trustee Ortring's question regarding the CAFA minutes and rental of the Village's fire hall, Mr. Adrian is suppose to contact President Steele to set up a meeting to discuss the rental fee for the fire hall. Discussion of the fire hall rental ensued.

Trustee Rittler reported on the Planning Commission work session regarding the proposed Rec and Parks Plan including lack of Planning Commissioners present at the work session.

Reports from Village Officers:
Village Manager Myers reported that on November 14th at 7:00 there will be a public informational meeting regarding the Charter Commission. Attorney Tom Donnellan from Flint will give a brief presentation and answer questions. There will be a meeting with MDOT tomorrow morning, which Christine Linfield will run, about their project on M52 next year. The contractor should be paying Dewey, McKinley and Van Buren on Thursday.

Trustee Myles requested that the Charter Commission candidates be called and informed of the meeting on November 14th.

Village Clerk Branson said that candidates for the Charter Commission must contact the County regarding campaign financing, as the memo the candidates received when picking up a petition package states. Both Trustee Ortring and Albertson have done so and they advised her that a form must be filled out at the County. According to the back of the form this must be done within 10 days of filing nominating petitions.

Water Superintendent Dan Rosentreter said the iron removal system at the water plant isn't operating properly yet - it is 40-50% above target for iron. They are still working on it.

Unfinished Business:
Village Manager Myers said that he recommends that the Village of Chelsea hire Bill Lawrence, former Forester for Ann Arbor, to evaluate the street trees in Chelsea and determine which trees may be a hazard and safety risk to the public. Funds would come from the DPW and the Streets funds. Trustee Myles would like to see Mr. Lawrence on retainer for consultation in the future. Trustee Ortring would like to see the report in electronic form.

Motion by Holmes seconded by Albertson to award the street tree inventory project to Bill Lawrence in the amount of $2,200. All Ayes. Motion carried.

After discussion Trustee Schumann recommended that the Village not participate in Mayor Exchange in 2003. Council agreed.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Myles to request that the Planning Commission define the term "rural corridor" as there is a need for a definition understood by all. Six Ayes, One No (Rittler). Motion carried.

Trustee Rittler said he would like the Alternate Delegate to the Chelsea Area Fire Authority attend all CAFA meetings, which the current Alternate Delegate does not do. He suggested that Trustee Holmes become the Alternate. Clerk Branson will call the Alternate to advise him that Council wants to see the Alternate attend all meetings and see if he is able to do so.

New Business:
Village Manager Myers requested that he be authorized to order a new transformer to keep on hand for future outages and as a backup transformer. He and the Electric Superintendent have determined that rather than have the current transformer repaired, it should be sold, as the power outage in June was the third time in five years that the transformer has gone off-line. Three proposals were received for new transformers and the engineering firm that reviewed the proposals recommends Delta-Star. This transformer will be budgeted for in Fiscal Year 2003/2004.

Motion by Myles seconded by Schumann to accept the recommendation of Novak Engineering and accept the proposal from Delta-Star for a new transformer in the amount of $136,912. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Planning and Zoning Administrator James Drole's memorandum recommends that Council approve a three party agreement that provides for the following: the transfer of 0.93 acres of land from Fieldstone Land Development LLC (FLD) to the Mohls with an electric easement recorded on it, the reconstruction of Meadow Lane by FLD, the offer of Dedication by the Mohls of the property now known as Meadow Lane, the granting of a new electrical easement to the Village on the 0.93 acre parcel from FLD and acknowledgement of the new easement by the Mohls, and abandonment of the current electrical easement by the Village.

Motion by Myles seconded by Rittler to accept the Agreement between Fieldstone Land Development LLC, Douglas and Deborah Mohl and the Village of Chelsea. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Agreement attached as Appendix A)

Village Engineer Linfield explained that Fieldstone Development LLC has agreed to grant a new electrical easement in exchange for abandonment of the old easement that crosses their property. Staff is recommending that Council approve the release of the existing easement by signing the Quit Claim Deed.

Motion by Myles seconded by Ortring to approve the Quit Claim Deed that releases the original electrical easement back to Fieldstone Land Development LLC. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Quit Claim Deed attached as Appendix B)

Motion by Myles seconded by Ortring to adopted Ordinance 137-A Amendment to the Village of Chelsea Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Ordinance. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Ordinance attached as Appendix C)

Village Manager Myers discussed the Northern Lights Generation Project and presented a Resolution regarding the Village's participation in the feasibility study for a power plant in Filer City.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Rittler to support the Resolution regarding Northern Lights Project Initial Phase Study. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Resolution attached as Appendix D)

Motion by Ortring seconded by Schumann to forward the name of Gregory DeGraff to the Chelsea District Library Board for consideration for the appointment to the Board as a delegate-at-large. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Myles to cast the Village of Chelsea's ballot in support for the two nominees, Kate Lawrence and Nancy Crandall, for the MML's Liability and Property Pool's Board of Directors. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Rittler seconded by Holmes to appoint Village Manager Myers as Assessor. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Trustee Myles said he was concerned that MDOT seems to be considering the possibility of widening M-52 according to the minutes of the Chelsea Area Traffic Committee meeting on April 12, 2002. The Village needs to get the downtown on the National Registry of Historic Places to protect the downtown.

Motion by Myles seconded by Ortring that the Council will review and decide whether to place the downtown area on the National Registry of Historic Places at the 2nd meeting in January 2003. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Trustee Ortring stated she hoped that President Steele would urge John Frank not to send letters to property owners because she felt that would make it more confusing. Discussion also ensued regarding the possibility of extending the area to be registered beyond the downtown.

Since the Bull Transport lawsuit has been dismissed: Motion by Myles seconded by Rittler to go forward with the purchase of weight scales. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Nancy Schumann said the Chelsea District Library is considering a contract with the Breton Group to go forward with the next stage of the library project. There will be a meeting next Tuesday, November 19, 2002.

Motion by Rittler seconded by Myles to adjourn Regular Session. All Ayes. Meeting adjourned at 10:26 p.m.

Poet to appear in Chelsea

KENT ASHTON WALTON

BOOK REVIEW

Contemporaries regard Saleem Peeradina as being among the top 20 Indian English language poets. He will be reading from his latest collection, "Meditations on Desire," 2 p.m. Saturday at Chelsea's Little Professor Book Center, 1250 S. Main St.

Peeradina draws upon a tradition of classical and medieval devotional poetry of India. His poems are brief, pithy and clever. They have no titles. In some ways they resemble Japanese haiku. In few words they say much.

The poems, often about love, are written with an elegantly subdued passion, spliced with a dry wit and sometimes a delicate bitterness. They are detached yet intimate.

Similes are blended from nature and personal life. There is a pleasing mixture of contrasting images and ideas that marry the imagination to the intellect. Relating to Peeradina's poetry requires us to be both philosopher and paramour.

The poems are intensely personal yet serve to prod our own lost memories of times when we had sudden intense feelings and thoughts that changed us. They take us into our own lost inner selves, filled with the perplexities we never resolved.

The poems focus on the moments when souls are subtly moved; moments when inspirations, expectations and desires waft through us like breezes. They reveal the often secluded, elusive instants that most of us never quite grasp and which take a poet to define.

What such poetry is about is perhaps the significance of the instant in which most of us don't even allow time in our lives to recognize. We are too busy living to experience life. Our focus is too much on the next impersonal minute to realize the personal in the present moment.

The poems are molded in meditation from recollections of personal encounters. Each poem is an attempt to make sense of and fully appreciate what occurred when eyes meet, when feelings reach the brim of consciousness in an encounter and when wonder overcomes thought.

It is carefully crafted poetry and not at all a playful gush of exotic language. Each poem, despite its apparent simplicity of expression, holds complex kernels of cognitive and emotive content.

In many of the poems is a preference for cognitive dissonance. Tension is often eased and heightened with humor. Expectations are often fulfilled with enigmas. Hope is transformed into perplexity. In other words, it is true to life.

Peeradina's poetry portrays pathos but is never self-pitying. It feeds on paradox, but is never confused. It dwells in the subconscious, but is never pathological. It is emotionally courageous while being intellectually honest.

In a world of inanities, deception, trivia, sound bites, corruption, and propaganda, Peeradina's voice is like a soothing siren song in an asylum. He may be faulted for ignoring the muddled crude world of politics, and economics, but that is not his domain. His is the world of sense and sensuality, human interaction and understanding, and intimacy.

The collection ends with a confession, reminiscent of Austrian philosopher, Ludwig Wittgenstein's remark: "Of what cannot be said, let us be silent."

I have said all there was to say. The rest is strictly between you and me.

Peeradina, an associate professor at Siena Heights University in Adrian, was born in Bombay, India, and educated at Bombay University and Wake Forest University. He has published two other collections of poetry, "First Offence" in 1980 and "Group Portrait" in 1992. His poetry is also featured in several major anthologies of Indian, Asian American and world literature.

Mercury thermometers accepted at mall

After Jan. 1, it will be unlawful to sell mercury thermometers in Michigan as a result of legislation signed in October.

There are a few minor exceptions. The law takes effect at the beginning of the year.

The Michigan law applies to all mercury thermometers and not just fever thermometers.

The Washtenaw County Consortium of Solid Waste Management and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital have joined forces to offer a free exchange program. The public may bring in mercury thermometers and receive a free non-mercury fever thermometer, with a limit of one per household.

The exchange will take place at the outpatient pharmacy in the Reichert Building at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and at St. Joseph Mercy Health Stop, the hospital's health education center located in Briarwood Mall.

The exchange will continue while supplies last, but the public can still drop off old mercury thermometers.

The hazards of mercury exposure present a potent threat to humans and the environment, health experts say. Exposure can result in damages to the nervous system and the kidneys, and is especially hazardous to pregnant women.

Mercury has the potential to leak from thermometers in the home or those placed in a landfill, resulting in exposure or contamination of our water supply.

In case of a spill, homeowners should ventilate the room with outside air, then close it off from the rest of the house. Pick up the mercury with an eyedropper or piece of heavy paper and put the mercury, glass and items used to pick it up in a plastic zipper bag, then two more bags before placing it in a sealed plastic container.

Local health departments can provide information on proper disposal.

For more information, call Jeff Kremerik at 222-8865.
