Reconfiguration of the driveway to the Washington Street Education Center off Freer Road is taking shape and roadwork on Freer Road is nearing completion. Although construction crews were initially delayed because of a wet spring, the project is moving along smoothly. Chelsea City Manager Michael Steklac reported to the Chelsea City Council July 11 that the first two phases, from the railroad tracks on Freer Road to Washington Street, were completed ahead of schedule. The final phase includes improvements to the intersection of Freer Road with the Chelsea High School driveway and the east entrance to the Washington Street Education Center. Those improvements include lane widening, concrete curb, storm sewer improvements, and a traffic signal. Steklac said the project is expected to be complete by the end of July. The contractor on the project is C&D Hughes.

High school MEAP scores show improvement

Chelsea scores increase in four of five areas tested

By Jennifer McArdle
Staff Writer

Michigan Educational Assessment Program scores for the class of 2006 were released July 14, and while statewide scores showed declines from 2005 to 2006 in four of five areas, scores for Chelsea showed increases in four out of five areas.

For Chelsea High School's class of 2006, the percentage of students who tested as proficient on MEAP tests was 35 percent greater than the state average.

In math, 75.9 percent of students in Chelsea High School's class of 2006 earned a proficient score, up from 72.6 percent for the class of 2005. Statewide, the percentage of students proficient in math was only 52.4 percent in 2006.

Likewise, in science, Chelsea High School students are well above the state average. In the class of 2006, 77.1 percent of students were proficient in science, compared to 76.1 percent in 2005 and 56.8 percent statewide in 2006.

Writing scores showed that 78.3 percent of students in Chelsea High School's class of 2006 were proficient, compared to 74.4 percent in 2005. The statewide average in 2006 was 55.2 percent.

Reading was the one category in which the Chelsea High School class of 2006 scored lower than the class of 2005. The 1.9 percent decline, from 85.5 percent in 2005 to 83.9 percent in 2006, was still less than the decline in statewide average scores for reading, which were 10.1 percent lower.

Chelsea District Library welcomes new director

Public invited to reception Thursday welcoming Russ

By Jennifer McArdle
Staff Writer

With five weeks as director of the Chelsea District Library under her belt, Cathy Russ has settled into the community and is looking forward to meeting area residents.

The Chelsea District Library will be hosting a welcome reception for Russ from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Thursday in the downstairs meeting room at the Common Grill. The community is invited to the reception to meet Russ.

Complimentary appetizers will be provided and there will be a cash bar.

The former resident of Center Line has moved to Chelsea and said she loves the small-town atmosphere.

"It's so pretty. I like to walk around and just look at the houses. I love the downtown. I've enjoyed going to Sounds and Sights," she said. "It's just so cool to be able to walk to downtown. You can't do that where I'm from. You'd be mowed down by the traffic."

Russ was among three candidates interviewed for the library director position May 6. Following the interviews, the Library Board voted unanimously to extend an offer to Russ, who accepted the position.

Russ took over at Chelsea District Library June 19 following the resignation of former Library Director Metta Lansdale. One of the biggest tasks she has taken on thus far is overseeing the completion of the new library building project.

"I was a library director for five years, so that part of the job I'm familiar with. What has been very interesting and educational is learning about the building project," Russ said. "It's like seeing evolution. I go over there a couple times a week and every time it's just further along."

"This is new for me. I haven't had a lot of experience with a building project, at least at this level. But it's neat and I think it's coming along real well — definitely under budget."

The former assistant director at Macomb County Library also served as director of Center Line Public Library for five years and as circulation department head at Bloomfield Township Public Library for two years.

In addition to her extensive library experience, Russ has served as co-chairwoman of the Michigan Library Association's annual conference. She holds a bachelor's degree from Loyola University and a master's degree in library and information science from Wayne State University.

Russ, who attended her

■ Closing celebration for summer reading program set: The Chelsea District Library will hold its summer reading program closing celebration, "Carnival of the Animals II," from noon to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The carnival will feature a moonwalk, crafts and face painting celebrating this year's theme,

"Paws, Claws, Scales and Tales." Winners for the five summer reading prize packages will be drawn at 2 p.m.

Also at 2 p.m., the library will host "Cinder Capers," a live action, audience participation show featuring Boomerang Bill on a trek through "jolly jungles, wacky woods and freaky forests." The event is free and there is no registration. For more information, call 475-8732.

■ Host families needed exchange students: The American Field Service is looking for Michigan host families to host high school students from abroad. The students are looking for an 11-month stay beginning in mid-August. There are 17 students in the Michigan area who need to be placed.

For more information, call Ann Rodgers, AFS volunteer chairwoman in Michigan, at 862-3329.

Orange Barrel

BLOWOUT SALE!

Naylor Chrysler-Jeep has been family owned and operated in Ann Arbor since 1950.

The Naylor family takes pride in their commitment to uphold the same down home traditions of customer service and satisfaction that has continued to bring customers into the dealership for the past 56 years.

With the road construction that all of the local businesses on West Stadium are dealing with this summer, Naylor wants to make sure that every current or potential new customer is aware that the dealership is open for business and ready to deal.

As you drive down Stadium Boulevard, it is hard to miss the "Orange Barrel Blowout" sale signs that decorate the dealership.

When talking with the sales staff it is good to hear that the construction hasn't stopped their customers from coming in for the best deals of the season.

With the Employee Pricing Plus for everyone that Naylor is offering on both Chrysler and Jeep vehicles, this is the time for many who thought that they weren't in the new car market to take advantage of lower pricing and drive away in a new vehicle.

The other upside of Chrysler Employee Pricing for everyone is that many consumers who are currently driving other makes and models are taking advantage of this opportunity to get into a new vehicle and trading in their current vehicles at the same time. This means that the Used Car Department has a large variety of Used Vehicles to offer for sale.

Naylor also offers pricing via the internet for those shoppers who are working on a tight schedule. Both New and Used inventory is shown online at www.naylormotors.com and they also offer the ability to schedule your service appointment online or to email either the Parts Department or Body Shop.

One of the things that Naylor believes is helping them through this road construction time is the fact that they have such a large base of loyal customers. Those customers continue to send in their friends and family as well.

The construction doesn't seem to be stopping this trend. Apparently there is no substitute for good customer service!

Naylor Motor Sales is located at 2060 West Stadium Blvd. in Ann Arbor, just one mile west of the University of Michigan football stadium and right across from the U.S. Post Office. For quick and easy directions, customers can call 734-662-3175 and talk to one of their friendly Customer Service Representatives.

Area residents to celebrate the cowboy

Businesses to honor
American icon
Saturday in Chelsea

By Jennifer McArdle
Staff Writer

Saturday will mark the second year that the National Day of the American Cowboy has been celebrated in the United States.

Mule Skinner Boot Shop and other merchants in Chelsea are planning to tip their hats to the cowboy with special events on the day that nationally recognizes the contributions the American cowboy has given to the history of the United States.

Bill and Pam Conn, owners of Mule Skinner Boot Shop, heard about efforts to create a national day honoring the cowboy while at a boot show in Denver last year.

"I thought this year it would be nice to participate because we have a lot of cowboys in this area," Pam said.

"Cowboys are the first pioneers. They were the first ones out West," she said.

The true era of the American cowboy started following the Civil War, when cattle were allowed free range throughout the West. That era ended around 1890 with the introduction of barbed wire, though the cowboy way of life has continued.

"I guess we're just doing this to celebrate the guys who are still living that kind of lifestyle," Bill said.

American Cowboy magazine launched the campaign to create a day in honor of the cowboy in 2004, with hopes of designating the fourth Saturday in July as National Day of the American Cowboy.

In July 2005, just days before the designated fourth Saturday in July that was proposed as the observance, President George W. Bush signed Senate Resolution 138, proclaiming the "National Day of the American Cowboy."

But the observance of National Day of the American Cowboy has not become a permanent fixture on the national calendar yet. U.S. Sen. Craig Thomas of

Wyoming launched an initiative to proclaim July 22, 2006, as National Day of the American Cowboy as part of an overall effort to solidify the observance of National Day of the American Cowboy on the fourth Saturday in July for perpetuity.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Mule Skinner Boot Shop will host an authentic chuck wagon, courtesy of Brian, Susan and Jeff Dewey, local cowboy re-enactors who will talk about the history of the cowboy throughout the day. They will also be dressed in traditional cowboy gear.

"It's going to be like the 1870s cowboy garb," Bill said. The Pink Turtle in downtown Chelsea is also planning events in honor of the cowboy. The retail store will host a local equestrian team and hold a raffle ticket fundraiser, with horse equipment as prizes.

Other attractions at Mule Skinner Boot Shop in honor of the National Day of the American Cowboy include a visit by Jennifer and Matt Shooshanian's miniature donkeys, Igor and Huey, as well as horses from Pine Bar Meadows Ranch.

Visitors to Mule Skinner Boot Shop can also learn about Custers Cowboys from Jim Hunt, who participates in cowboy mounted shooting.

an equestrian sport involving mounted contestants who compete in a fast-action, timed event using two .45-caliber single-action revolvers, each loaded with five rounds of specially prepared blank ammunition.

Mule Skinner Boot Shop is also holding a sale in conjunction with the event.

While Mule Skinner Boot Shop is celebrating the cowboy, a symbol of the cowboy way of life is missing from the front of the store. The wooden horse that stood in front of the business was stolen July 1.

In the old days, the theft of a horse was a hanging offense. While Bill may want some old-fashioned "western justice," the couple is ultimately hoping that the statue is found.

"I hope somebody returns him," Pam said.

STRAIGHT FACTS

The article "Search policy may hinder students' rights," in the July 13 issue of The Chelsea Standard noted a search of student property on the last day of school at Beach Middle School.

Andrew Ingall, principal at Beach Middle School, responded to the newspaper's inquiries about the search after last week's deadline.

"Students are directed not to bring bags or backpacks on the (last) day of school. This (is) in an attempt to avoid any disruptive items such as squirt guns, shaving cream, etc.," Ingall said. "We did check purses and bags that were brought to school for these types of items and then held them in the office for the morning until school was dismissed. This is typical on the final day each year at Beach."

No matter how hard we try to avoid mistakes, sometimes they happen anyway. When that occurs, we rely on our readers to let us know about them. So, please help. To request a correction, e-mail Editor Michelle Rogers at editor@chelseastandard.com or call 475-1371.

ROYAL OAK

Lansdale accepts library director position

Former Chelsea library director takes on new role in Royal Oak

By Jennifer McArdle
Staff Writer

The longtime director of the Chelsea District Library has accepted a position as director of the Royal Oak Public Library.

Metta Lansdale left the Chelsea District Library in June after serving as its director for more than eight years.

"This is very exciting for me. It's a bigger library in a larger community, and that's what I was looking for," Lansdale said.

The Royal Oak Public Library serves more than 60,000 residents.

The Ann Arbor resident is looking forward to remaining in the area and commuting to Royal Oak.

She will begin work July 31.

Victoria Dickinson, president of the Royal Oak Public Library Board, said the board was impressed with Lansdale's track record for implementing library programming and strong operational and financial performance.

Lansdale will be filling the position to be left by Carol Windorf, who is retiring after more than 12 years of service as library director.

During her service as director of the Chelsea District Library, Lansdale transformed a village library to a vital community center serving 14,400 residents. Lansdale joined the library in November of 1997. She led the operational transition from a small village library to a Class IV District Library in 1999.

After temporarily relocating the library to the Washington Street Education Center to provide handicapped access and expanded services, Lansdale worked with community-based committees and staff to develop a building plan that the community could embrace.

In 2004, she initiated a capital campaign that raised $1.2 million and saw voters approve a bond issue to return the library downtown to its home quarters in the renovated and expanded McKune Memorial Library. The library's stable finances, including strong fund balances and responsible financial controls, earned bond ratings of "A1" and "A," allowing the library to reduce the expected levy to the taxpayers for debt retirement.

VICTIMS

boy and two 16-year-old girls, all from Chelsea.

"We caught three kids with baseball bats in the car," said Trooper Steve Temelko.

He said the juveniles confessed to knocking down mailboxes at 20 to 30 houses in Sylvan, Dexter and Lima townships.

"They were out having some fun that night," Temelko said.

It's believed that the youths damaged mailboxes in the Cavanaugh Lake area, as well as along Trinkle, Fletcher and Freer roads.

The youths were unable to identify the locations where they damaged mailboxes and the Michigan State Police are hoping to hear from residents who have been affected.

"I don't know who the victims are," Temelko said.

Only one resident has reported a damaged mailbox of the dozens that were apparently damaged or destroyed.

"We know they were broke. We just need the victims to come forward," Temelko said.

Anyone whose mailbox has been destroyed is asked to contact the Michigan State Police at 475-7207.

Staff Writer Jennifer McArdle can be reached at 475-1371 or jmcardle@heritagage.com.

current school improvement efforts are under way to improve reading instruction at the high school level.

Such efforts include a school improvement goal team focused on improving reading instruction and the participation of staff in Reading Apprenticeship training this summer. Reading Apprenticeship helps students become better readers by engaging students in more reading and helping students gain insight into their own reading processes.

Social studies was the one category where statewide students showed improvement, from 33.8 percent proficient in 2005 to 36.8 percent proficient in 2006. At Chelsea High School, 2006 scores were 51.5 percent, up from 48.3 percent in 2005.

Lewis-Lakin said social studies scores, which are significantly lower statewide than the other categories tested, are based on new performance standards.

"The class of 2006 scores reflect the old performance standards in social studies," Lewis-Lakin said. "Recognizing that these standards did not accurately reflect student success in social studies, the state developed new performance standards for reporting out MEAP social studies results; these were implemented in the spring of 2006."

"In spring 2006 testing, 89 percent of Chelsea 11th-graders and 79 percent of 11th-grade students statewide were deemed to be proficient in social studies. However, since the class of 2006 scores are largely based on spring 2005 testing (testing done when students were in 11th grade), these changes in the performance standards are not reflected."

Although Chelsea High School's scores tend to be above the statewide averages, Lewis-Lakin said there is room for improvement.

"We will continue to focus on student achievement data, of which MEAP results are one part, and the information such data provides us, to focus our improvement efforts," Lewis-Lakin said.

"We will continue to articulate instructional standards, assess students to determine the degree to we are achieving the standards, and then use the data to inform conversations among teachers on where and how to improve instruction."

The MEAP results for the class of 2006 for the entire district are slightly different. Districtwide results include not only scores from Chelsea High School's class of 2006, but also scores for youth at the Cassidy Lake Special Alternative Incarceration, who were classified as 11th-grade students during their 90-day "boot camp" placement in March 2005.

The inclusion of those scores put the district's level of proficiency in each category for 2006 at 71.3 percent in math, 81.0 percent in reading, 77.1 percent in science, 74.6 percent in writing, and 51.5 percent in social studies.

DIRECTOR

first meeting with the Library Board her second day on the job, is looking forward to working with the board.

"I had a good feeling from them when I came for my interview," she said. "I got a feeling from them that they were committed to the community and it would not be an adversarial relationship — that everybody was just very committed and involved with their library."

Shawn Personke, community relations and development coordinator at the Chelsea District Library, said the new director's transition has been smooth. She specifically noted Russ' enthusiasm and attitude.

"She seems to really be getting a good grasp of the intricacies (of the library)," Personke said. "We're delighted to welcome her to the community."

CHELSEA FIRE REPORT

The Chelsea Area Fire Authority responded to two fires, six vehicle crashes, 23 medical calls and six other types of calls between July 2 and 15.

Firefighters responded July 2 to the 1000 block of Carston Lane in Chelsea for a structure fire. Upon arrival, an off-duty firefighter told firefighters the blaze was contained to the exterior wall of the living room in the northeast corner of the structure.

The fire had not extended to other portions of the structure as a result of the quick actions by three neighbors fighting the fire with garden hoses and extinguishers. After the fire was determined to be completely out, the home was ventilated to remove all smoke. No one was injured as a result of the fire.

On July 8, firefighters responded to Jackson Road, east of Dancer Road, in Lima Township for a vehicle crash with injuries. First-responders found a man outside his vehicle not aware of his surroundings. He was placed on a backboard and taken to the University of Michigan Hospital for evaluation.

Chelsea Area Fire Authority compiled this report. For more information, contact Fire Chief James Payeur at 475-8785 or by e-mail at jpayeur@cafa6.org.

— CHEF AT THE MARKET —

Chelsea Resident John Fischer, head chef for Gratzl's restaurant in Ann Arbor, grilled up a sampling of Porchetta Cure, with pork and a sweet pepper relish. Fischer, along with the dining room manager, Paula Horvath, served the sampling to the delight of the customers at the Chelsea Farmers' Market. Fischer has been a chef for 20 years. He has worked in different cities in the United States, including Chicago. He started his career with Gratzl's restaurant eight years ago. About three years into his career with Gratzl's, he decided to further educate himself in Italian cuisine, so he and his wife traveled twice to Italy and toured the northern region of Italy, including Tuscany, to experience the culture and the food. His purpose was to further education himself on the Italian life and their way of cooking and Italian wine.

School District, Chelsea Ministerial Association and Chelsea Community Hospital, plans to host a new after-school program geared toward middle school-aged youth, with an emphasis on providing fun, supervised activities in a supportive environment.

The Rev. Jeff Crowder, who serves as pastor at the Chelsea Church of the Nazarene, said the congregation has a new building at Interstate 94 and Fletcher Road that they would like to open up to the community.

"We have felt all along that we wanted to open it up to the community, and one of the needs that we saw right from the beginning is that kids need a place to hang out," Crowder said. "We thought that it would be a good thing to provide somewhere for those kids to have a place to go."

Crowder, along with the Chelsea Ministerial Association, decided that to serve students, they should start by talking to school administrators.

"We talked to the schools and said, 'This is what we're interested in doing. Do you see a need for this?'" Crowder said.

He spoke with Beach Middle School Principal Andrew Ingall, South Meadows Elementary School Principal Lisa Nickel, Superintendent Dave Killips and Jeff Rohrer, director of Chelsea Community Education.

"They all said they've done some things like this before. It is needed," Crowder said.

The school district has coordinated a homework club and there have been several parent and community-driven groups in the past.

Rohrer believes after-school programs are important for youth.

"It's important for schools and communities to utilize our collective resources to work together to help meet the needs of kids," he said.

"The time between the end of the school day and when parents arrive home is a great time to provide healthy activity choices for our students. These types of programs can benefit the physical and the academic well being of our children."

Crowder was also surprised to find that Chelsea Community Hospital was among the first in Chelsea to start after-school programs.

In addition to its preschool program, the hospital offers after-school programs for youth up to fifth grade.

"It seemed like a natural thing that if we were to just simply look at the age group that comes after the two groups that the hospital's already doing, why not talk to the hospital?" Crowder said. "So that's how they became involved."

"Initially, it sounds like a strange mix of people, but the hospital, of course, has been so good at seeing what needs are in the community."

Plans are not finalized, but organizers are expecting the program to be held four or five days per week from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Chelsea Church of the Nazarene.

"One of the things we're going to be doing is getting a questionnaire out to the parents of kids who will be in sixth through eighth grades this coming year and asking them some questions, like what hours would work for them, would they use this program, what types of activities would kids be interested in," Crowder said.

The results of the questionnaire will help organizers finalize the format of the program.

Already, Crowder has an idea of what the program will likely offer.

"There will be several components. Of course, every day there will be a snack of some sort. There will be a place where homework help is available, but I don't think it will be mandatory," he said.

"We will have a variety of activities. We're looking at some software, computers. We're looking at some games, both electronic and otherwise. We'll also have some athletic equipment for kids who are interested in shooting baskets."

"Other things that we're hoping to add to the program include day trips to places like the bowling alley or the swimming pool, or maybe laser tag."

"We're looking at, as well, another component of community service. So, maybe we can take a trip to Faith In Action and help stack cans or maybe we can take a trip to the park and get it cleaned up. We're hoping to have one day a month where the kids kind of give back to the community."

The program also could include visits from local residents and the Chelsea Senior Center.

"They can come in occasionally and talk to kids about life experiences," Crowder said.

To promote family time, the program also may feature meal nights, where kids and their parents sit down and eat together.

"At our place, it's difficult for us to sit down occasionally and have a meal together. McDonald's or pizza sometimes is the fail safe," Crowder said. "We thought we could promote the idea of folks sitting down occasionally with their kids to eat."

Cindy Harrison of Chelsea Community Hospital is looking forward to the addition of another after-school program to serve older youth.

Organizers originally planned to include fifth-grade students in the program, but found that the hospital's program already serves that age group.

"They actually have a program that runs up through fifth grade. So, we'll probably start it at sixth grade. We don't want to compete with what they're already doing," Crowder said.

Rohrer said the school district may be able to drop off students at the church after school. Any costs to the district, he said, would be reimbursed.

Crowder said the church is planning to host a fund-raiser dinner in mid-August to raise money in support of the after-school program.

For more information, call the church at 475-2526 or visit the Web site at www.chelseanazarene.com.

DETROIT

Center offers a countdown of space's greatest hits

Detroit Science Center has program for young astronomy buffs

By Klint Lowry
Heritage Newspapers

We all love lists. There's nothing like a concise "top 10" to instill some instant knowledge into our brains.

The New Detroit Science Center has a program in its Dassault Systemes Planetarium that takes neophyte astronomy buffs on a cook's tour of the cosmos through a countdown of the final frontier's greatest hits.

"The Greatest Wonders of the Universe" actually is a pair of countdowns, illustrated through a spectacular combination of graphic animation and real images shown on the planetarium's domed roof.

The first part of the show looks at some of the most fascinating features of our solar system. The first is a phenomenon of perspective as seen from Earth, a total eclipse of the sun. The presentation explains how the relative proximity of the moon and sun to Earth and just the right alignment create an eclipse.

There's just enough information for junior astronomers to gain something from the explanation, while keeping the program moving.

Adults might want to stick around for the show. Our knowledge of space has grown tremendously in the last few decades, and the celestial tour includes details that wouldn't have been included in science classes a generation ago.

The trip through the solar system stops at Valles Marineris, the "Grand Canyon of Mars;" Jupiter's Great Red Spot and the giant volcanos on its moon; Saturn's rings; huge geysers on Neptune's moon, Triton; and our own Earth, a unique combination of features, including the only life we've found in the galaxy so far.

But our search through the heavens has turned up some other fascinating features, and the second list looks at some of the most incredible deep space finds, including star-forming nebulae, supernovae, black holes and gravitational "mirages" in space.

For ticket prices and show times, visit the Web site www.detroitsciencecenter.org or call 1-313-577-8400, ext. 430.

Chelsea needs Mike Steklac as city manager

I love this town and I love it even more now that I have started working on my business in the Clocktower. The support I have received from complete strangers equals that of my closest friends.

My family has lived here since 1978, so I have been a consumer and more recently, in 1995, a homeowner. I drive through town and see so much life. I can remember many times in the past when not a friend was on the sidewalks.

I am so proud to show my city to friends from all over the country. I brag about our shops, Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights, our markets and the Summer Fest.

This bit of history leads into why I was so mortified by the front-page story "City manager gets mixed review," July 6 on our city manager, Mike Steklac.

The story, first of all, sounded like a bunch of high school politics. Just like the story I read about the silly sidewalk sign ordinance. Nobody walking the street would say a sign needs to be removed. They will read it and discover a wonderful new shop.

I believe, again, Mike was an advocate for the businesses. Without business, what do we have?

Everything that Mike does right is all the stuff that a non-politician appreciates. Why do we need to hear about personality conflicts between city employees and council?

Do we get a vote on Mike Steklac's future contracts? What does Mike, who has plenty of experience in many other cities, have to say about us? Of course he can't comment, but, as we know, there is always two sides to the story.

I know the newspaper wants to write about the various happenings, but this was embarrassing. Really, where was the content? What's failing? Are we in debt?

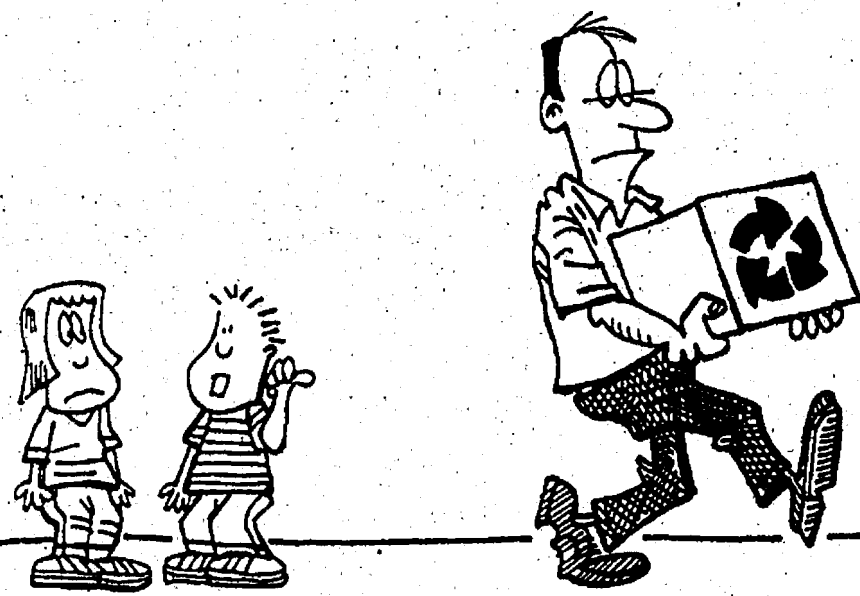

I have experience with the city. I had a dream for a wonderful place for families to gather. My idea for The TreeHouse was dead in the water the second I walked into the city offices. The idea was new to many and I understand that. It was a "gray area" in Chelsea's zoning language, which led to an immediate "no" from an official.

I didn't give up, but I wonder what other great ideas are shot down before they are even reviewed? Mike Steklac was the only person who was willing to research my idea and even give me a chance.

Speak up (of course that is if you are not worried about losing your job or if you simply stand for something).

OTHER VOICES

Don't vote for those with the biggest sign

I took a drive up to Brighton yesterday. I love that drive, up by Portage Lake and through Pinckney. I see the campaign signs are out. They litter the lawn like empty beer cans after a Fourth of July picnic.

Some of those signs are huge and downright vulgar. One could say that the candidate with the biggest signs was willing to spend the most money on that part of his or her campaign. The candidate with the biggest signs is going to get the most name recognition. And the candidate with the greatest name recognition is going to get the most votes, especially from those who don't, or can't, take time to research every candidate in every race.

So, in the microcosm anyway, the big money leads to the win.

We are so busy these days, we either don't have time, or don't take time, to do the simple things to make our individual lives a whole lot better, such as a little product research.

Last night, I saw a beer commercial on television. I'll give you two guesses what it was for. (Miller or Budweiser, of course.) In fact, it was for Bud Light. Bud Light completely typifies the state of marketing and politics, which are pretty much the same, right now.

In reality, Bud Light is awful stuff. But it's probably the top selling beer in America. Why? Advertising.

We're saturated with the brand, and when Aunt Petunia needs beer for her Fourth of July picnic, she doesn't know what else to reach for other than a case of Bud Light, which happens to be stacked on the first end cap in the store, and takes up the most space in the cooler, thanks to Anheuser Busch's marketing power.

Anheuser Busch probably makes billions of dollars a year. The company is able to buy up advertising space all over radio, television, on speedboats and stockcars. The American public, uninformed about whatever beer Anheuser Busch is pushing, will buy it because of the name recognition.

And here's the rub: The old Libertarian and conservative legend that the market will control itself — that is, if the beer is awful, the people will quit buying it and turn to something else — is a load of bull. If you're told often enough, and through enough media, that this is the beer to buy, you are going to buy it, especially if a company is able to use its money and power to push the other beers out of sight and out of mind.

It's pure human nature. If you see others drinking it, you're going to think there is something wrong with you if you don't like it. And, of course, you don't want to be seen as a flip-flopper, either. Loyalty is a virtue, right?

Ultimately, if you drink it long enough, you will eventually develop a taste for it, and you'll think that it's what beer is supposed to taste like.

In the end, Anheuser Busch has flooded the market with cheap, inferior product, and made you like it. They're laughing all the way to Ken Lay's after-funeral party.

Now back to local politics. You may not know anything about the guy with the big bucks and the big signs, but you will remember seeing his or her name. And when you're looking at your ballot, and you don't recognize any of the contenders, because they couldn't afford the advertising, it's just too dang easy to choose the Bud Light candidate.

Well, this fall it's going to be different. We have a major problem with money, politics, influence and corruption right now, thanks mostly to the party of the rich. This fall, we are going to vote for the candidates who are not ruled by money and greed.

The huge campaign signs will be saying, "Don't vote for me!" We are going to go with the names on the smallest signs or, better yet, the names that have no signs at all. And if we have time, we are going to do more candidate research in advance.

Will you join me? Let's get the little guy back into office, and get the fat cats out. Buy a micro-brew or an RC Cola. Vote for the write-in guy, not the guy with the money. We need to get big money out of politics, and it has to start immediately.

Stay tuned. Next I am going to tell you why Stroh's beer is actually one of the best-tasting American lagers, why to avoid Dick DeVos like the plague and why to vote for Joe Schwarz in the primary, but not in the general election.

Roy Schmidt lives in Chelsea. He can be reached at genboys@yahoo.com. Readers may contribute to Other Voices by contacting Editor Michelle Rogers at mrogers@heritage.com.

EDITORIAL

Abolish life in prison for kids

We do not need the United Nations to condemn Michigan for locking up children for life with no chance of parole.

Instead, the Senate should bring to the floor and approve a package of bills introduced earlier this year that would abolish the practice of sentencing juveniles to life in prison with no chance of parole for crimes they committed before the age of 18.

The bills, introduced by state Sens. Liz Brater, D-Ann Arbor, and Michael Switalski, D-Roseville, have been bottled up in the Senate Committee on the Judiciary since January. They deserve a vote. More than that, the Senate must vote to overturn an unfair practice that treats all youthful offenders similarly, and implies that they are beyond redemption.

This is not a tough-on-crime issue that at its basest is played to appeal to voters sickened by crime. It's an issue of common decency and common sense.

Children who commit crimes — no matter how heinous — before the age of 18 do not all deserve to be thrown away for life. Every case is different. Some teens on the verge of adulthood may indeed recognize and fully understand the crimes they are committing, and may indeed require life in prison. Others do not.

A number of studies have concluded that the child and adolescent brain is incapable of comprehending fully the consequences of a crime, including premeditated murder.

That possibility alone makes perfectly clear the argument to abolish current Michigan law that imposes life sentences without parole on our children.

Instead, each case should be examined by a judge based on its individual merits. Judges, under a new set of regulations, could have the power to determine whether a life sentence is required. But parole should remain a possibility. Children convicted of a crime and sentenced to prison who turn their lives around should know that they have a chance to rejoin society.

Michigan has behind bars more than 300 inmates sentenced to life in prison with no chance of parole for crimes they committed before they turned 18. The bills before the Senate committee would also allow their cases to be reviewed for the possibility of parole.

"THIS YEAR I'M FOREGOING SUMMER CAMP AND JUST FOCUSING ON BEING A KID..."

OTHER VOICES

DeVos missed his chance

While the governor was going ga-ga over Google, the usually crisp Dick DeVos campaign blew it with its childlike response.

Circle July 11 on your calendar. It perhaps was a turning point in the race for governor.

By now everybody has heard that Ann Arbor is getting more than 2,000 direct and spin-off jobs because the Internet search engine, Google, is setting up shop there.

While most folks covered it as a huge economic story, don't kid yourself — politics was written all over this puppy.

For the first time in a long time, Gov. Jennifer Granholm had something to smile about. The Google grab was a kick in the pants for her campaign, which has been stumbling along with lackluster commercials, a lack of money and no sign of momentum or life.

Contrast that to GOP challenger Dick DeVos, who has spent more than $6 million making himself a household name, while at the same time wiping out Granholm's 20-point lead and reducing the contest to a dead heat.

However, one successful day for the governor does not a victory make, but at least it's a chance for the governor to pump some oomph back into this race. Google gave her the opportunity to put some meat on her previously bare bones statement that her economic recovery plan was also showing signs of life.

TIM

It was not the number of jobs that was important to her. It was the type of jobs.

"We hire talented and motivated college kids," the Google leadership explains. Just the pool of young workers the governor wants to keep in Michigan to stem the brain drain to other states.

But while she was basking in the moment, the other side missed a chance to score some points at the same time.

Recall that DeVos has been going around the state claiming to be "just a businessman and not a typical politician."

Yet his tepid response to the Google announcement was old-time politics to the worst degree as he just couldn't bring himself to pat the governor on the back for a job well done.

And he could have. Instead of congratulating the University of Michigan for landing those jobs, and not saying one word about Granholm, he could have said, "I've been telling you that I am not your run-of-the-mill politician, and to prove it, I'd like to thank the governor for a job well done on landing those 2,000 Google jobs for our great state. I know what it's like to put together a tough business deal and to compete with other states. Good job, Governor Granholm, and if I'm your next governor, we'll do even more."

State GOP Party Chairman Saul Anuzis had the same opportunity but muffed it, too. He did observe that securing Google was good for the state, but he was hard pressed to comment on the governor's role in all this. For some reason, he wasn't sure if it was a plus or minus for her, because he didn't know what she did.

Man, if his buddy John Engler had netted those high-tech jobs, you would have needed a crowbar to pull Anuzis off the ceiling.

Final tally on the Google story: great opportunity for the governor, missed opportunity for the challenger.

Chelsea Depot needs the community's support

I recently had the pleasure of joining a small group of dedicated people with the Chelsea Depot Association. Like many other people, I have driven past the depot and never given it much thought; however, having railroaded in my blood and now being retired, I decided to go to a meeting to see what the association was all about.

What I discovered was a small group of people dedicated to the continued preservation of one of Chelsea's historical gems. These efforts are a continuation of efforts begun in the late 1980s, when the depot was facing demolition.

The original association was able to come up with the funding to purchase the building and save it from destruction, as well as to restore it to near its original condition. The ongoing maintenance and repairs have been a true labor of love, thanks, in part, to numerous volunteers, both groups and individuals.

I wanted to draw attention to this architectural gem at this time because the association is facing financial difficulties and I think the people of Chelsea would want to be aware of the need for help to continue the preservation of this building that is part of our city's past.

The cost for utilities and insurance continues to go up. The exterior is in need of some maintenance and repair, and the coffers are getting dangerously low. Currently, the only income the association has is from rental fees when the building is used for small-group functions.

The next time you are out for a stroll or drive, stop by the depot and look in the windows to see what a charming building it is and consider it for your next group gathering. Please consider the association the next time you can make a donation to a worthy cause, and help us maintain this wonderful piece of our history.

Rental information can be obtained by calling 433-9780 or 475-0862.

Good things are happening in Iraq

It's obvious by Stanley Shapiro's response ("How many lives are worth the war in Iraq," July 6) to my letter ("Where's the outrage about the war deaths," June 29) that he totally missed the point I was trying to make.

Where in my letter did I imply that we should honor our fallen by spilling more blood? I was merely asking for fair play from the media when reporting the news.

If a prisoner gets mistreated by our military, it makes front-page headlines and the media never lets up. But when it comes to our soldiers being brutally tortured, mutilated and murdered, it never gets more than a day or two from the media.

Oblivious, those such as Mr. Shapiro yell the loudest when our soldiers are accused of mistreatment, but choose to quietly grieve when they are butchered and murdered. That's his choice to make. But having a son-in-law fighting overseas, staying quiet is not something that I will do.

Our men and women need to know that we really support them, which is something they see very little evidence of thanks to our media and to those who hate this president so much that they would rather see him fail, no matter what the cost to our country.

Having military ties, I know what our young men and women have accomplished. Did you know that almost 95 percent of children in Afghanistan and Iraq are immunized against polio? Do you have any idea how many schools and hospitals have been opened? Do you know how many soccer fields have been put in so the children can play soccer? Do you know how many police officers and military we have trained? How many roads and bridges have been built? How many girls and young women are going to school?

Do you have any idea how many people are alive because of Saddam Hussein's fall from power? He was believed to have weapons of mass destruction and was killing hundreds of thousands of people in Iraq.

Our men and women have accomplished a great deal and should feel good about what they have done.

A 2005 report by Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch indicates Michigan has the third highest rate of sentencing children to life without parole in the United States. The report also notes that the U.S. is one of the few countries in the world to sentence children to life in prison with no parole.

The American Civil Liberties Union petitioned the United Nations' Human Rights Committee to review Michigan's life-without-parole for children sentencing practice. The committee is expected to begin reviewing this week whether the practice, and similar regulations in 41 other states, violates an international human rights treaty.

The Legislature should not need the American Civil Liberties Union, Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch and the U.N. to tell it that our current practice is inhumane and must be changed.

Governor, legislature move on budget

Legislative leaders and Gov. Jennifer Granholm have reached agreements on the state budget for the 2006-2007 fiscal year.

These agreements will now be finalized in budget bills, which will be adopted in conference committees.

One highlight is a $210 increase in per-pupil foundation grants for schools.

Another is a new formula to distribute funds to public universities, giving all universities an increase ranging from 2.5 percent to 6 percent.

Other highlights include the elimination of a proposed 48-month lifetime limit for welfare recipients, and Medicaid eligibility will not be cut.

In other state news:

• U.S. Sens. Carl Levin and Debbie Stabenow announced last week that Michigan will receive nearly $3.5 million in fiscal year 2006 federal grants from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

Through the Chemical Sector Buffer Zone Protection Program, Michigan will receive $1.55 million to secure sites identified as key targets for chemical attacks.

Through the Buffer Zone Protection Program, Michigan will receive $1.95 million to secure sites identified as critical infrastructure and key resources. The method would be to develop measures to make it more difficult for terrorists to conduct surveillance or launch attacks near these potential targets.

• State Rep. Hoon-Yung Hopgood, D-Taylor, said legislation to allow some gender schools and classrooms moved quickly through the Legislature.

House Bill 6247 creates an exception in the state Elliott-Larsen Civil Rights Act to allow single gender schools in Michigan.

Senate Bill 1296 and House Bill 4264 amend the state school code to allow any school district to establish and maintain single-gender schools, classes or programs if a substantially equal school, class or program is made available to pupils of each gender.

The bills were amended to say that a district cannot require participation by any pupil in a single-gender school or classroom.

Senate Bill 1296 is before Granholm, and House Bills 4264 and 6247 are under consideration by the Senate Committee on Education.

• A bill that will protect consumers against the fraudulent use of their cell-phone records has been signed into law, bill sponsor state Sen. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, reports.

Public Act 246 of 2006 will prohibit anyone from knowingly obtaining or selling a confidential telephone record without the prior authorization of the customer.

Patterson said that just a few personal facts about an individual can allow someone else to pose as that person and obtain that person's phone records by fraud.

"Telephone records have become one of the latest targets for criminals who exploit vulnerabilities in the system to prey on unsuspecting customers," he said. "We have set a critical restraint on this activity."

• Granholm has signed into law a legislative package that targets the effects of methamphetamine production, including the dangers it creates for children.

The 12-bill package adds exposure to the drugs to the definition of child abuse and requires officials to conduct an investigation if exposure is suspected.

It allows law enforcement officers to seek medical treatment for children exposed to methamphetamines without a court order, and it creates a methamphetamine reporting act to better enable law enforcement officials to track methamphetamine production and use.

It also requires the state health department and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality to develop new procedures for cleanup of environmental contamination resulting from methamphetamine production.

Finally, it prohibits the use of the Internet or other electronic methods to publish information regarding production of methamphetamine or to sell ephedrine or pseudoephedrine-based products that can be used in its production.

Methamphetamines are highly addictive stimulants that cause temporary euphoria and dangerous side effects. They are sold in pill or powder form and can be swallowed, inhaled or injected.

• Granholm recently announced that she signed legislation that creates incentives for consumers who buy alternative fuel vehicles and for service stations that make ethanol and biodiesel available.

The seven-bill package reduces the gas tax by 36 percent on fuel that contains ethanol and by 20 percent on biodiesel blends.

The legislation provides grants to service station owners who want to renovate or expand their existing stations to make E-85 and biodiesel available.

It also allows for the creation of new agriculture renaissance zones to help spur additional ethanol and biodiesel plants.

Restaurant to mark 15 years

Craig Common, owner of the Common Grill in Chelsea, hopes you've saved a little room for cake.

Birthday cake, that is.

The Common Grill will celebrate its 15th anniversary July 27 by teaming with Chelsea Milling Co. and Stucchi's Ice Cream to serve cake and ice cream to attendees of that evening's Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights in downtown Chelsea.

Common, the restaurant's executive chef, said offering dessert is one way he can thank the restaurant's guests.

"I'm thrilled to be able to celebrate this milestone, but I couldn't have done it alone," Common said in a prepared statement. "Our guests are what have made it happen, and this is an opportunity to say thank you and recognize the bond we have developed with the community since we've opened."

Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights is held from 6 to 8 p.m. every Thursday through Sept. 7, and is a downtown festival of musicians, artists and street performers developed, in part, by Common, after he attended a similar event in Naples, Fla.

The Common Grill opened July 26, 1991, after Common, then corporate chef for C.A. Muer, was sought by Chelsea resident Bob Daniels to open a restaurant complementing the then-new Purple Rose Theatre, owned by Daniels' son, actor Jeff Daniels.

Specializing in regional American cuisine, the Common Grill has received many accolades, including winning Gourmet Magazine's Top Tables award in 1997 and 1998.

In 1996, Common was invited to cook at New York City's prestigious James Beard House. He is the author of two cookbooks, "The Common Grill Cookbook" published in November 2000 and 2005's "Return to the Common Grill."

JAY Ever see a German Wirehaired Pointer? They are very affectionate, active and intelligent; eager to learn and loyal to their family. The shelter has 2 of these great dogs looking for permanent homes - Fritz and Jay! Jay is 2 years old and weighs 108 pounds. His previous guardian couldn't care for him so he is hanging out here until he can find a permanent home. Jay is quite a refined gentleman and, as you can see, he is quite a looker! He socializes well with cats, walks well on a leash, is already neutered and also knows how to sit.

SYBIL is the softest, sweetest calico kitty! She came here as a stray and she is super friendly. Sybil is about 2 years old.

GYPSY is a beautiful 1 year old Husky mix weighing 54 pounds. Although excited when she exits her cage, she soon calms down and prefers to be your companion rather than eat treats. She is desperately seeking human companionship. Gypsy handles well on a leash and is very eager to please. She needs some daily activity but is very gentle to handle. Gypsy is a true Golden Companion. She needs a loving family with children over the age of 5 years.

Stolen Vehicle

Police responded to a complaint July 6 by a 22-year-old sales manager at Dunning Toyota on Jackson Road of a stolen dark red, 2006 Toyota "Tundra" 4-door pickup. The vehicle is valued at $32,788. Police haven't identified any suspects and the vehicle hasn't been recovered.

Property Damage

Police investigated a complaint of vandalism to a car in the 4000 block of Eyrie Drive July 9. The owner said his vehicle was parked outside his home when someone broke out the rear window, possibly using a pellet or BB gun, shattering the glass. Damage is estimated at $250.

Larceny

A 51-year-old Whitmore Lake woman told police $360 worth of items were taken out of her unlocked car July 8 while it was parked at Meijer on Jackson Road. Two purses, clothing and makeup were taken, according to a police report. The items haven't been recovered.

A 56-year-old Scio Township man said items were stolen July 6 from his 1996 Plymouth Neon. The man told police that his car was parked outside his home in the 4000 block of Corey Circle Drive. A purse, debit card, driver's license and $20 cash were taken from his unlocked vehicle. The items are valued at $50.

Lima Township

Stolen Credit Card

A 48-year-old Lima Township woman told police July 5 that her credit card and personal identification number had been stolen. According to a police report, the card was used in Mexico to charge approximately $879 worth of goods. The woman canceled the account and notified the Michigan State Police of the incident.

Sylvan Township

Littering

The Michigan State Police received a report of eggs and fruit falling from the Kaimbach Road overpass at Interstate 94 between 10:51 p.m. and midnight July 10. Troopers, however, were unable to locate any suspects.

Domestic Assault

A 54-year-old Sylvan

Township woman was arrested after troopers from the Michigan State Police Post were dispatched to investigate a 9-1-1 hang-up call. The 9-1-1 call came from a residence in the township at about 11 p.m. July 12.

According to a police report, the woman returned home to find her 60-year-old husband talking on the telephone with his ex-wife, and the couple began arguing.

The man told police his wife began swinging a large bag of potatoes at him, striking him several times in the back and breaking the bag open. He reported additional physical aggression on the part of his wife, showing police marks of a struggle on his arms.

The woman told police she did not hit her husband with the potatoes, but said he threw the bag of potatoes against the wall, breaking them open. She also said she tried calling for help during the heated argument, but her husband hung up the phone.

Chelsea

Obstructing Police

Officers from the Chelsea Police Department were dispatched to Seitz's Tavern on West Middle Street at 2:21 a.m. July 13 for a disorderly suspect who was making obscene gestures at patrons of the bar.

When he arrived, an officer was told that the suspect, a 25-year-old Chelsea man, had left in a car. Another officer spotted the suspect vehicle headed east on Orchard Street.

The suspect had left the vehicle and was walking when the officer pulled up. The man attempted to flee on foot and ran to an upstairs apartment in the 100 block of Orchard Street. A key to the apartment was obtained from the building's landlord and the man was apprehended.

A Breathalyzer was administered and the man's blood-alcohol level was determined to be 0.23 percent. A level of 0.08 percent or higher is considered legally drunk under state law.

Personal Injury Accident

Alcohol appeared to be the cause of a three-car crash 12:10 p.m. July 13 in the 1200 block of Main Street in Chelsea.

A 55-year-old Manchester man had entered the south drive of Polly's Market and was driving through the parking lot when he drove into the side of a Ford Mustang. He continued driving and struck another vehicle, a Trail Blazer, before finally stopping.

The man was taken by ambulance to Chelsea Community Hospital. According to the police report, the man told one of the emergency responders that he had consumed a 22-ounce beer.

A warrant is being sought for the man's arrest.

Larceny

A 32-year-old Chelsea man told police his vehicle was broken into in the 1300 block of Carston Lane at about 4 p.m. July 13. A bag containing the man's wallet, checkbook and about $80 was stolen.

Attempted Break-in

Coin machines at Victory Lane Oil Change on South Main Street in Chelsea were reported damaged 8 a.m. July 14 after someone apparently tried to pry open the locks on two coin-operated vending machines. It did not appear that the suspects were successful in removing any money from the machines, police reported.

Peddling Without a License

A 35-year-old St. Louis man was issued a citation for peddling without a license 3 p.m. July 15 in Chelsea. The man was going door-to-door selling magazines. He already had been warned once about peddling without a license.

A 30-year-old man from Shreveport, La., was warned by officers the same day for trying to sell items door-to-door without a peddler's license.

Driving With a Suspended License

A traffic stop 12:25 a.m. July 16 resulted in the arrest of a 23-year-old Chelsea man for driving with a suspended license more than two times.

The man was stopped by police after making a right turn from Chandler Street onto Wilkinson Street without signaling. The man couldn't produce a driver's license or proof of insurance. A check of the Law Enforcement Information Network showed that his license was suspended.

A 51-year-old Chelsea man was issued a civil infraction for driving without a valid vehicle registration after he was stopped at 1:40 p.m. July 11. According to the police report, the driver told police he knew the tags on the vehicle were expired, but he did not have money to purchase a new license.

The man's driver's license was retained by the officer. The vehicle was allowed to be driven home by a passenger.

Compiled by staff writers Jennifer McArdle and Sandi Kasha based on reports filed with the Chelsea Police Department, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police Ypsilanti Post.

ASK DR. CRANKSHAFT

Gas tank problem could be faulty repair on vehicle

Q: My '96 Grand Am had a gas tank replaced a couple of weeks ago. It now shakes and stalls out sometimes and makes a noise from the gas tank. What could be making this happen?

A: I'd say that the tank wasn't installed correctly. There is probably a fuel return hose that isn't attached or is kinked, causing fuel starvation.

The noise could be from a loose bracket or an improperly installed fuel pump. You need to take the Pontiac back to the shop and have them correct the repairs.

Q: My truck — an automatic Dodge Durango — always accelerates in park and drive on its own and the rpms go up before it changes gears. Would this be the fuel pump or the transmission?

A: I doubt either is the cause. It's more likely the throttle positioning sensor, although the exhaust gas recovery could be faulty, as well.

You should take the SUV to a shop where the engine management system codes can be read and the right parts replaced.

Q: I put a quart of power steering fluid in my auto's oil by accident. Can it harm my engine or can I go until the next oil change?

A: You should drain the oil pan and replace it with fresh oil. While the likelihood of damage from power steering fluid is low, some fluids have additives that might react with the engine oil chemistry. It's simply not worth the risk to leave the power steering fluid in the engine.

Q: I have a 1986 Chevy Scottsdale pickup with a 305-horsepower engine and a four-barrel carburetor. Every few days it fouls a set of plugs.

I've tried all brands and it doesn't make any difference. Is this a bad cylinder or bad carb?

A: If the plugs foul that quickly — and you've checked the ignition coil for

Many attend meeting on alternative fuel

Nearly 60 people attended the "Fuels of the Future" town hall meeting, hosted by state Rep. Pam Byrnes, D-52nd District, July 12 at Sylvan Township Hall.

Kim Marhle of Wacker Oil and Propane in Manchester brought samples of each step in the process of making biodiesel from soybeans. Those in attendance passed samples around as Marhle discussed the chemical properties, processes and standards for different types of biodiesel.

Mitch Irwin, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, discussed the department's role in the fuels of the future — not only as the promoter of agribusiness in the state, Michigan's No. 2 industry, but also as the regulator of the fuel consumers buy at the pump.

Irwin discussed increased funding and staffing to be able to monitor retail fuel stations, put in place by the governor last year, as well as research being done to investigate crops and processes for improving the efficiency and economics of creating fuels from biomass.

He also discussed programs available under the 21st Century Jobs Fund and a new renaissance zone law to encourage the development of the alternative fuels industry in Michigan.

Also, Max Gates of DaimlerChrysler AG's Safety and Communications Office spoke about the automakers working together on initiatives. He said market forces are currently driving the auto makers to move in the direction of alternative fuel. He said that engines today are more efficient, but as consumers add creature comforts, safety features, and environmental controls, they take away from that raw miles-per-gallon figure that you see on the sticker.

The automakers are moving quickly but cautiously in approving higher levels of biofuels in their engines as they are careful to not jeopardize their own reputations nor that of biofuels if something is not quite right with someone's engine, he said. DaimlerChrysler will offer a biodiesel capable Jeep Grand Cherokee next year, Gates said.

proper output — it's got to be due to either gas or oil. Too much gas creates unburned hydrocarbons and lots of black sooty deposits. Oil fouling creates greasy buildup on the plugs.

Fuel fouling is usually due to leaking fuel from over-filled floats or damaged idle passages. Oil fouling is usually due to leaky valve guides, although worn rings can contribute to the problem.

YOUR HEALTH

PAULA

Eat lots of color, berries

The little green, "pre-berries" are ripening and it's about time. It's time to stock up the freezer, to go to the patch with your kids, and to serve up as many meals and snacks as you can with true summer bounty.

Why? They are pretty, and they are juicy and sweet. They are so fragrant when cooked, and they are the biggest news in anti-oxidants. Fight cancer and heart disease by eating berries by the handful, muffinful, bowlful, jamful, smoothi-ful and saladful.

CHAI FRUIT AND GREENS SALAD

Salad:

- 1 pkg. field green (6 oz.)
- 4 oz. Mandarin oranges
- 1 c. Raspberries
- 1 c. Blueberries
- 1/3 c. Almond Slivers
- Vinaigrette:
- 1/3 c. Olive Oil
- 1/3 c. Orange Juice
- 1/2 t. Cinnamon
- 1/4 t. Cloves
- Pinch Nutmeg
- Pinch Cardamom
- 1 grind Black Pepper

Mix the vinaigrette in shaker and sprinkle on chilled salad greens and fruits immediately before serving.

Why do we keep hearing about anti-oxidants, though? Well, they just happen to be the biggest in disease prevention. Vitamin A, C, E and anthocyanins are some of the anti-oxidants in berries and other fruits and vegetables. They have the power to neutralize free radicals.

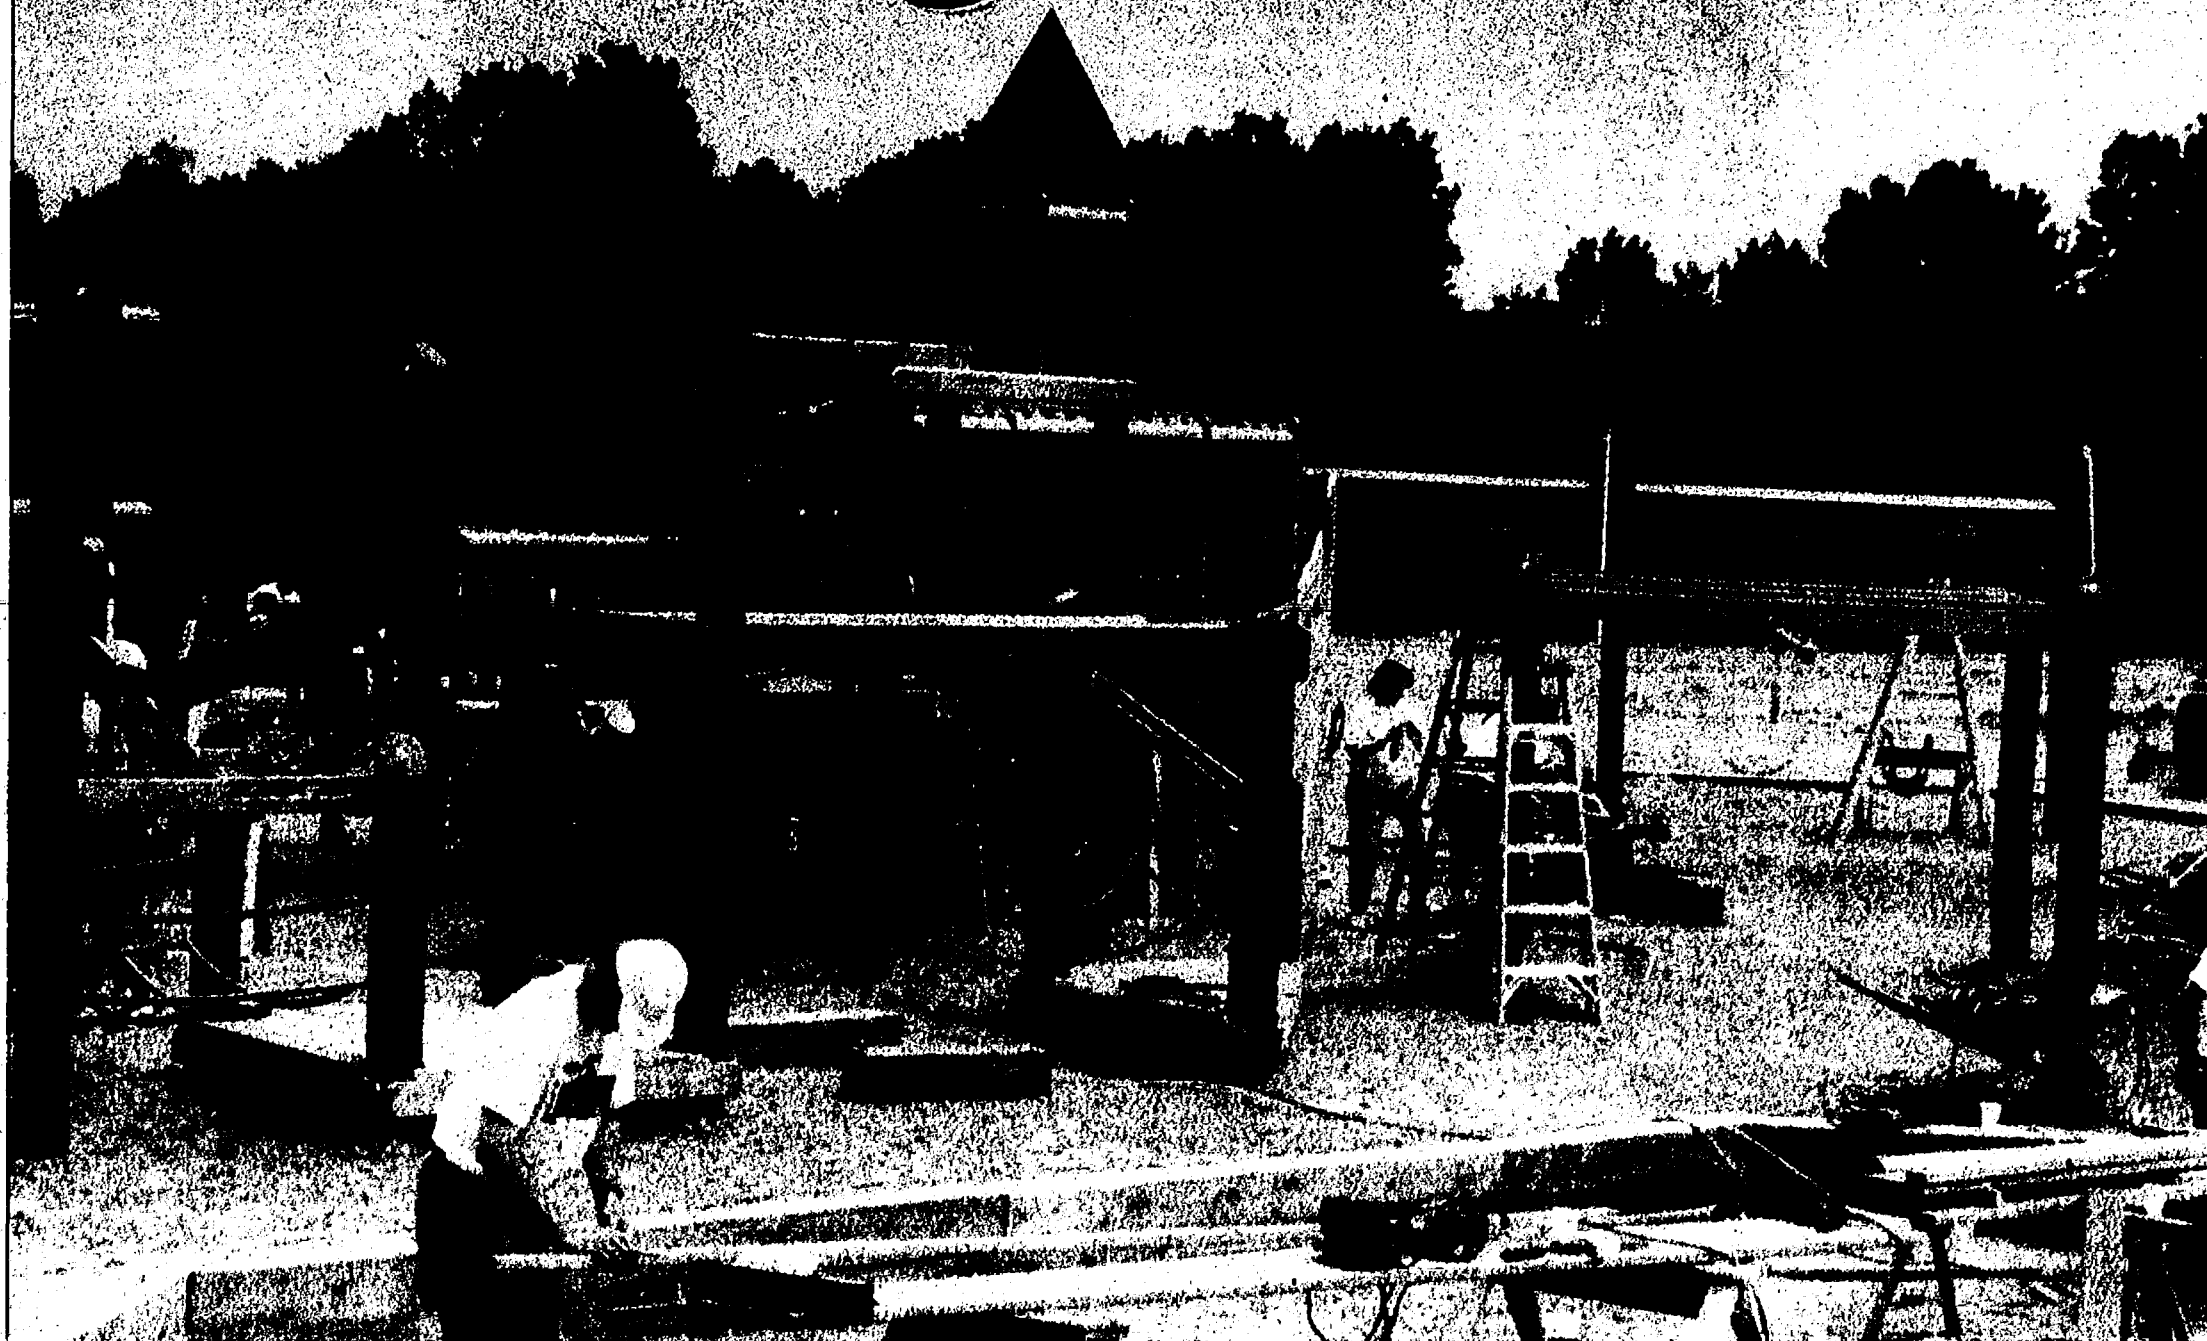

Free radicals cause cell damage. They come from smoke, the sun, toxins in the diet, all the things we call carcinogens. Free radicals have a role in blood vessel scarring and the beginnings of cardiovascular disease, too.

The message is clear. Eat a colorful diet full of fruit and vegetables, but especially the big berry family.

How many ways can you find to make your diet berry, berry nice?

Rebuilding Timber Town

This summer marks 10 years since the community of Chelsea came together to create a place for youth to play. Dozens of volunteers donated their time and labor to build the Timber Town play structure in 1996.

Volunteers needed to restore playset

By Jennifer McArdle
Staff Writer

This summer marks 10 years since the community of Chelsea came together to create a place for youth to play.

Timber Town, the wooden play structure located off Sibley Road in Chelsea, was built with labor by dozens of volunteers in the summer of 1996. Now efforts are beginning to revitalize and restore the structure. Led by Amy Mitchell and Gloria Mitchell, local residents are coming together in hopes of raising money to restore the structure next June.

The group originally hoped restoration could get under way in mid-September, but financial concerns put those plans to a halt.

Gloria Mitchell met with city officials last fall to find out how much money was left in the Timber Town fund.

"As it turns out, there's a little over $12,000 left in the fund from 10 years ago," Amy Mitchell said.

The city owns the structure and has maintained it over the years.

"I don't think they've touched any of the money. They've been doing all of the existing maintenance and grounds work pretty much out of their own budget," she said.

The group hoped the $12,000 remaining in the budget would be enough to cover restoration costs. They contacted Leathers and Assoc., the firm that designed the playground structure, to determine what would need to be done.

"They pretty much said we're going to have to power wash it, sand every piece of wood, and then seal it," Mitchell said. "They said further that a lot of the existing pieces of play equipment had been taken down for liability issues and for a lot of those things, they had come up with different structures, different features that make it more sound. So, we worked with Leathers over the course of the last 60 days to tell us what kinds of new features we can put up."

One recommendation is to replace the hooks that hold the swings in place. Since the structure was built, swing hooks have been re-engineered for safety.

"We started making an itemized list to budget out what we needed," she said.

They planned to replace the trolley feature, which had been removed, with a rock wall and Tarzan ropes, but found that feature would cost $9,200, taking up most of the budget.

They also ran into higher-than-expected costs for power washing. A quote from Julie Rutherford was among those who led efforts 10 years ago to build Timber Town.

Scrub A Home in Saline originally came in at $5,000, but the company reduced it to $2,500.

"Those (two things) ate up my $12,000 budget," Amy Mitchell said.

While the project has been put on hold until next summer, other small improvements are planned. Mitchell said the city of Chelsea, between now and

September, will be performing some maintenance refurbishing at the play ground.

Included in the refurbishing are new hoses on the chains, new swivel hooks on the swings and tire swing, and a new bucket swing. The Fibar brand playground mulch will be refreshed, along with sand in the sandboxes.

"We're missing so much sand out of the sandbox that they'll have to bring in a truckload of sand," Mitchell said.

The Fibar brand mulch is a special ground covering that is safer than traditional mulch. Its spongy texture provides for a softer landing when children fall, with less likelihood of children getting splinters. But it's also more costly, at $1,500 for 110 yards of the material.

"It's so incredibly expensive as far as mulch goes because it's all safety approved — it's spongy and small. It doesn't chip," Mitchell said.

Those maintenance and refurbishing efforts being conducted this summer by the city will come out of the $12,000 budget, Mitchell said.

She is hoping for donations to get next summer's restoration project off to a good start. She also will be looking for volunteers to help with the restoration, which is expected to last three days next June.

Mitchell said about 50 to 75 volunteers will be needed for each day of the playground restoration.

For more information about volunteering or to make a donation, contact Mitchell at 475-4401.

Jenna Crawford and Brendan Bachman star in Dexter Community Players' production of "Oklahoma!" this weekend.

'Oklahoma!' to open Friday

Dexter Community
Players to present famed musical

By Sandi Kasha
Staff Writer

Complicated love stories mingled with musical numbers and impressive dance moves can always excite an audience.

Jenna Crawford thinks the members of Dexter Community Players outdid themselves with their latest production of "Oklahoma!"

"There are over 30 actors and so many complicated dance moves," she said. "It's pretty impressive how things have come together and how everyone's willing to make a good effort."

Crawford, who plays the supporting role of Ado Annie, Carnes and serves as the vice president for the group, said the set and the performances have come together beautifully.

The production marks the 25th anniversary for the group.

"I've been really satisfied with the show," Crawford said.

"Oklahoma!" was the Dexter Community Players' first production in 1981.

"We're paying homage to the first-ever production," Crawford said. "We just thought it would be appropriate to do the first production ever as a tribute."

Set in the early 1900s, the musical centers on a couple of young cowboys winning the hearts of their sweethearts in the Oklahoma territory despite the interference of an evil ranch hand and a roaming peddler.

"It has something for the whole family," Crawford said.

The musical will take place at the Dexter High School Center for the Performing Arts. Performance dates are Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and July 27, 28 and 29.

Tickets can be purchased for $12 at Foggy Bottom Coffee House in Dexter or by calling 428-5060. Tickets are also available at the door, and are $12 for children and $15 for adults.

ANNIVERSARIES & ENGAGEMENTS

McGibneys mark 60 years

Philip and Rose (Clark) McGibney of Chelsea celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary July 6. They were married July 6, 1946, at St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea.

A party was given to them by their children, David (Laura) McGibney, Bradford (Pat) McGibney, Joyce (Jim) Lindstrom, Brenda (Michael) Foster, Marcia Newman and Brian (Linda) McGibney. The McGibneys have 13 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Couple to marry

Gretchen Vermeylen and Chad Brown, both of Lansing, are engaged and planning a wedding next July at St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea.

The future bride is the daughter of William Vermeylen of Grass Lake and Nancy Kinsky of Chelsea. She is a 2000 graduate of Chelsea High School, attended Wash- tenaw Community College and is currently enrolled in online classes at Columbia Southern University.

She is employed with the U.S. Navy as a hospital corps- man Second Class Petty Officer.

The future groom is the son of Danial and Carol Brown of Grass Lake. He is a 1998 grad- uate of Grass Lake High School. He attended Jackson Community College and grad- uated from Ferris State University with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice. He is employed at Fullerton Drywall Co.

Chelsea's C.J. Boyer will participate in Saturday's 26th annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association East-West All-Star Game at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium. Boyer, an All-State offensive lineman, will continue his football career this fall at Saginaw Valley State University.

Boyer looks to prove All-Star worth

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's C.J. Boyer is a young man on a mission. The recently graduated senior is out to show the prep football world he belongs in this Saturday's Michigan High School Football Coaches Association East-West All-Star Game.

"I want to prove to everyone else that I can play," he said. "Hopefully, we're (West squad) going to win. We have some big guys on our team. I want to showcase my talent in front of everyone else."

The 26th annual star-studded contest is set for 2 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium.

Pre-game introductions are at 1:30 p.m. The cost to attend the game is $10 at the gate.

The event includes the top 88 players in the 2006 graduating class.

The East squad is made up of players from Wayne, Oakland, Monroe, St. Clair, Lapeer, Sanilac, Macomb, Huron and Tuscola counties.

The West team is comprised of players from throughout the rest of the state.

Each team will consist of 44 players, with eight players from Class A schools, six players from Class B schools, four from Class C and two from Class D schools. Each squad will have 24 players selected regardless of school size.

Each team will have 19 offensive members and 17 players on defense, as well as one punter and one place kicker. There are six at-large players on each roster.

No high school may have more than one player on the team. There are 88 players from 88 different schools.

Last Saturday, Boyer (6-foot-4, 250) an offensive lineman, met his new teammates for the first time, and was able to walk onto MSU's field.

"Standing right here, right now is amazing," he said, while gazing out at the perfectly manicured field and looking up at the empty grandstands, which seemingly reached to the clouds at Spartan Stadium. "I can't wait to put on the pads and actually hit someone."

Boyer, who bench presses 300 pounds, squats 490 pounds and runs a 5.0 40-

Block to play in Junior Olympics

Chelsea standout to represent state at elite event

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Though field hockey is not a varsity sport at Chelsea, the Bulldogs have one of the nation's best players in their midst.

Corey Block, a junior-to-be at Chelsea High School, was selected earlier this month to participate in the Junior Olympics in August at the National Field Hockey Training Center in Virginia Beach, Va.

Block is the only player from Michigan chosen for the elite event.

"It's an honor," said Block, a member of the Washtenaw Whippets field hockey squad, which includes players from Chelsea, Dexter, Saline and other area schools.

"It's a goal that I have been working toward for a long time. I'm still getting used to it (being named to Junior Olympics). I'm really looking forward to playing the sport at the top level, meeting new kids and getting coached by great coaches."

"I'm looking forward to playing with some of the best athletes in the country."

The Junior Olympic field hockey competition will consist of eight teams of 16 players each. All players will be 16 years old and younger.

Prior to her Junior Olympic selection, Block was a member of the Region 9 U-16 team competing June 29 through July 4 at the National Futures Field Hockey Tournament in Virginia Beach. Block has participated in the Futures Program since she was in the sixth grade.

It was at the Virginia Beach tournament that Junior Olympic selections were announced.

Washtenaw Whippets coach Leslie Fry said Block is internally driven.

Chelsea's Corey Block was the only field hockey player from Michigan chosen to play in next month's Junior Olympics.

"Corey is a very self-motivated, hard-working athlete who constantly pushes herself to the next level of play," she said. "She is a very skilled and tenacious team player, and she also likes to have a good time playing the sport."

During her career, Block, a 5-foot-5 midfielder, has received instruction from some of the top coaches in the game, including University of Michigan field hockey coach Nancy Cox and state power Ann Arbor Pioneer coach Jane Nixon.

Block has attended U of M's field hockey camp for the last seven years, as well as participating in the Nike Camp at Sauk Valley in the Irish Hills.

Block, 16, said she likes field hockey for a number of reasons.

"I like traveling to new places, meeting kids from different places and playing a team sport," she said. "It's a fun sport to play. It's challenging and rewarding."

Block, who also plays soccer and has been a member of Chelsea's equestrian team for the past two years, said she's been playing field hockey for nine years.

EQUESTRIAN

Chelsea riders host fund-raiser

Palmer Ford to partner with Bulldog squad this season

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The horsepower at Chelsea's Palmer Ford that people are used to will be a little different this weekend.

Instead of the V-8, fuel injected, overhead camshaft kind, the horsepower displayed at Palmer Ford this weekend will be of the old-fashioned ilk — the real life breathing, clip-clopping and naying type.

This Saturday, Chelsea's equestrian team will be holding a fund-raiser event at Palmer Ford downtown.

The radio station 102.9 FM will be on hand, along with Bulldog coaches, riders and horses.

"It's going to be a huge event," said Chelsea coach Corey Russell.

yard dash, said he would try to soak up everything he goes through during the week leading up to the game.

"I'm kind of living in the moment," he said. "It's all hard to take in. You get treated like a king up here. They even do our laundry. The atmosphere is amazing, and we haven't even played a game yet."

Boyer and the rest of the players comprising the West and East teams will spend the week prior to the game getting to know one another, practicing and preparing themselves for college life and football at the next level. They'll stay in dorms and practice at MSU the entire week.

"My roommate is Millet Mello," Boyer said of the 6-4, 260-pound offensive lineman from Saginaw Heritage.

An All-State offensive guard for the Bulldogs, Boyer helped pave the way last season for a Chelsea offense that churned out an average of 334 yards per game.

While Boyer will inevitably get to line up next to Mello this Saturday, he said he was also looking forward to competing with two other players in the game.

"I'm excited to play with Richard (Franklin, Ann Arbor Pioneer tailback) and Jeff (Ziegler, Dexter quarterback) because we've always been playing against each other. Now we get to be on the same team."

Franklin will play for Eastern Michigan University, while Ziegler will suit up for the University of Michigan.

To be eligible for the team, a player must be nominated by his high school coach.

The All-Star coaches are selected by the MHSFCA Board of Directors at their spring meeting.

The game is played under regular high school football rules, except that kickoffs and punts can be run out of the end zone and there can be no attempt to block punts.

Throughout the years, the series has been close, with the East holding a slim 13-12 margin in wins over the West. The West, however, has won the last two All-Star games, including last year's 30-20 victory.

The game is traditionally held at MSU, but with construction and renovation at Spartan Stadium the past few years, the contest had been moved to Michigan Stadium the last couple of seasons.

Besides Ziegler, the other signal-caller for the West will be Michael Canfield (6-2, 220) of Lansing Everett. Canfield will play at Central Michigan University this fall.

Boyer will be among nine offensive linemen on the West team. He will play for Saginaw Valley State University in the fall.

The West team is loaded with talent. Leading the squad will be University of Michigan recruits linebacker Obi Eze (6-1, 220) of Grand Rapids Catholic Central and linebacker Quintin Patilla (6-2, 215) of Flint Carman-Ainsworth. Both linebackers run 4.5 40-yard dashes.

Other top West performers include defensive lineman D.J. Young (6-5, 270) of Lansing Sexton, who'll play at Bowling Green State University and defensive back Clint Allen (6-0, 185) of Muskegon Orchard View, who'll play for Eastern Michigan University. Allen is the two-time defending Division II state 100 meter champion, winning this past June's final in 10.4.

Western Michigan recruits defensive back Nathan Turner (5-9, 160) of Haslett and wide receiver Tyler Aldridge (5-10, 160) of Jackson Lumen Christi, along with CMU recruit defensive back Cam Bramer (6-1, 200) of Olivet, also are standouts.

Two other players of note on the West squad include arguably the Upper Peninsula's best performers in defensive tackle, Matt Payment (6-4, 275) of Newberry, and linebacker Jordan Barley (6-2, 220) of Menominee.

The East squad is led by Iowa recruit wide receiver Dominique Douglas (6-1, 185) of Detroit Murray-Wright and MSU signee defensive lineman John Stipek (6-4, 255) of Macomb Dakota.

Other standouts for the East include hulking offensive linemen Jake Vermiglio (6-5, 310) of Rochester Stoney Creek, Jeff Maddux (6-4, 283) of Monroe and Ryan Jonik (6-5, 305) of Canton.

Fullback Scott Heidtman (5-10, 180) of Temperance Bedford is also on the East team.

Danny Stiefel (6-2, 190) of Sterling Heights Stevenson and Jacob Ball (6-2, 205) of Rochester Adams will quarterback the East team.

Coaching the West will be Joe Keglitz of Lowell, while Tim Baechler of Canton will coach the East.

"Typically, we go out and solicit throughout the community for donations and also work at a horse show. One of our parents works for Ford and he contacted Palmer, and they decided to help the team. It's nice that we're able to work with a business."

Food and beverages will be served at the fund-raiser. Those attending will have an opportunity to meet the Chelsea squad and view up close a few of the team's horses. Equestrian is a varsity sport, but is not funded by the Bulldog athletic department.

In addition, Palmer Ford will donate $50 for every horse trailer it sells to the Chelsea team this season.

Russell said the event would not only help fund the team, but also broaden its horizons.

"It'll help educate the kids," she said. "It (funds) gives us an opportunity to inform them about vet school and other career options and also with team building events."

Last year, Chelsea finished third in its region, barely missing advancing to the state final.

The Bulldogs compete in a state district with 17 other schools. The top two teams in each district throughout the state qualify for regional competition. The regional champion advances to the state final.

This season's state final event is in October in Midland.

Last May, Chelsea's Junior team, comprised of sixth-through eighth-graders, captured a Class A state title in Divisions 4 and 10.

The equestrian season is brief. The Bulldog 2006 campaign begins in late August and ends in early October.

Chelsea's home corral will be at the Ingham County Fairgrounds in Mason. The team practices at White O' Morn Stables in Scio Township.

Co-coach for the Bulldogs along with Russell this year is Ann Nadeau.

Excellence Program a success

Arctic Coliseum camp offers NHL scouts, expertise to players

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Top high school hockey players from throughout the state gathered for the Michigan High School Hockey Excellence Program last week at Chelsea's Arctic Coliseum.

The program featured 168 of the best high school players from throughout Michigan. The high-level camp divided players into eight teams over the four-day frozen pond extravaganza.

An interesting feature of the program is having NHL scouts in attendance to evaluate players on their performance. This year's camp included scouts David Mayville of the Montreal Canadiens, Larry Bernard of the Tampa Bay Lightning, Greg Royce of the Phoenix Coyotes and Steve Bowman of the Washington Capitals. Bowman is the nephew of former Detroit Red Wing coach Scotty Bowman.

Founded by Saginaw Spirit coach and General Manager Bob Mancini and Chelsea High School hockey coach Don Wright, the Excellence Program gives high school hockey players a chance to be evaluated by top level scouts and to compete against fellow prep players.

Written evaluations help players improve their skills to advance to a higher hockey level after high school. The popular program is one of the best in the state for prep players.

"The camp is full every year," said Wright, who also doubles as general manager of the Arctic Coliseum. "Each year we have to turn players away."

With interest in the camp growing, Wright said eight players were added this year.

"We went to 168 players this year," he said. "We added eight more spots so we could have seven defensemen on each team, instead of six. We felt it would keep the defensemen fresher, since the camp is very physically demanding."

Wright said having NHL scouts at the camp is important to its success.

"I don't know of any other place where NHL scouts do written evaluations on players," he said. "In youth sports, there are a lot of showcase camps that don't always live up to their billing. At our camp, you get great exposure."

"Over four days, we train and educate players on ways to improve and explore options after high school. The camp is about training and development."

Players and prep coaches participating in the event come from each high school division and from locations throughout the state.

This year marks the sixth Excellence Program hosted by the Arctic Coliseum.

"We put players through physical tests, which they can compare with 18-year-olds who were recently drafted in the NHL," Wright said. "The kids are educated in off-ice training. On ice, we have a positional day geared completely toward the forwards, defensemen and goalies. We put an emphasis on the position. The players really enjoy that."

Wright said there are three seminars over the four-day camp that focus on player development, as well as options after high school.

"We encourage parents to attend the seminars," he said. "And most do."

At the end of the camp, players leave with a personal evaluation from an NHL scout.

"We then send out copies of that evaluation to the high school coaches of each player at the camp," Wright said.

For more information about the camp, call Wright at 433-4444.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

4-H Youth Show to begin Sunday

Amanda Atkinson of Chelsea shares a kiss with her llama at last year's 4-H Youth Show held at Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds near Saline.

Annual event includes activities for 4-H kids and visitors

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

If you are curious about what 4-H has to offer, then head over to the Washtenaw County Farm Council grounds near Saline beginning Sunday for the annual 4-H Youth Show.

The annual event, which will be held Sunday through July 28, will feature projects and activities for nearly 1,000 participating youth.

Jeff Grau of Chelsea is looking forward to the show. He has been involved with 4-H for the past decade.

"I like to be involved with everything. Right now, I like the new program with 4-H where I get to teach a kid how to properly care and show an animal," he said.

From crafts and cooking to livestock and still exhibits, there's something for just about everyone. Admission and parking for the event is free.

Jeff Horning of Manchester was part of Saline-based Townline Workers 4-H Club when he was a youngster. Now his three kids are part of the Country Expressions Club.

"4-H teaches them about workmanship, responsibility and to take pride in whatever you do," he said. "It's a neat way to teach kids about life experiences."

The show kicks off Sunday afternoon with horse exhibits and dog classes. The still exhibits building opens Monday, with public display of all projects to be offered beginning Tuesday.

There will be many new activities for the general public to participate in at this year's show. The Rooster Crowing Contest will continue for its second year 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Master Gardeners will be available starting Wednesday to teach people interested about the life cycle of a seed. Participants may take a seed plant home.

Chelsea Milling Co. will sponsor a baking contest. Participants must use the company's Jiffy Mix product to enter.

In addition, there will be two community service projects that visitors are invited to help with. The first project starts 7 p.m. Wednesday as participants will be asked to stuff and sew bears or fish to be donated to area hospital emergency rooms.

At 2 p.m. July 27, visitors to the 4-H Youth Show may make lap blankets to be donated to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and C.S. Mott Children's Hospital, part of the University of Michigan Health System.

The annual livestock auction kicks off 6:30 p.m. July 27 with the Small Animal Silent Auction, which will be followed by the traditional 4-H Youth Livestock Auction.

Friday will close out the See SHOW — Page 9-C

Dream House

Madeline Revill of Dexter Township dreams of winning the Gordon Hall playhouse to be raffled off by the Dexter Rotary Club during Dexter Daze Aug. 11 and 12.

DEXTER VILLAGE

Dexter Daze set Aug. 11-12

Dexter is gearing up for its annual two-day summer festival slated for the second weekend in August.

This year's Dexter Daze festival, set Aug. 11 and 12, will feature live entertainment for the entire family, arts and crafts booths, a social tent, specialty food booths, a parade on Saturday morning, bingo tent and a number of raffles.

Among the give-aways is a $10,000 raffle sponsored by the Dexter Kiwanis and a playhouse raffle sponsored by the Dexter Rotary Club.

In addition, the Dexter District Library will hold a book sale Saturday, and there will be an American Legion Steak Fry on Friday and the St. James' Episcopal Church will hold a chicken barbecue Saturday.

Shoppers should enjoy browsing the eclectic collection of shops, from an old-fashioned hardware store to interior design boutiques to collectible shops to vintage clothing boutiques to fine art.

Free shuttle service will be available during Dexter Daze at Dexter Crossing shopping center. For more a detailed schedule of events, call the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce at 428-0887 or visit the Web site at www.dexterchamber.org.

ANN ARBOR

Golf outing set Aug. 21

The Division of Kinesiology at the University of Michigan will hold its fourth annual Movement for Life Golf Invitational Aug. 21 at the University of Michigan Golf Course. Registration will begin at 9 a.m., with a shotgun start scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

The day's festivities include 18-holes of golf, a continental breakfast and lunch, followed by dinner and a live auction and raffles. The cost for the day is $200 per golfer. Pre-registration is required by calling 615-4272.

The day also will include hole-in-one contests, with three chances to win a car.

The evening will include a live auction in which guests can bid on commemorative items such as University of Michigan football tickets, hockey tickets and autographed U of M memorabilia, including signed photographs of Bo Schembechler, Red Berenson, Don Canham, Charles Woodson and others.

The Movement for Life Golf Invitational was founded in 2002 by Kinesiology alumnus Mike Leoni. It benefits two research programs each year in addressing ways to improve the health and quality of life for disabled people.

In its three years, the invitational has raised nearly $100,000 given to six different research teams to help support research.

TALES FROM ABROAD

Culture rich in Mexico

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series by the Jackson family of Dexter, who embarked on a yearlong world traveling adventure June 23 and plan to write periodically about their experiences.

We are in San Ignacio, Belize. What a fantastic country, with such a mix of cultures. Everyone is friendly, and most speak English. We are slowly learning more Spanish every day.

After leaving Puerto Vallarta, we flew to Mexico City, then on to Chetumal, Mexico. Julia's bag got lost on its way, so we had to change some plans and stay an extra day in Chetumal. There is a fantastic museum of Mayan culture there.

It's very hot and humid down here. Some nights can be difficult to sleep through because the budget hotels we stay in don't have air conditioning, and we need to leave the windows open, so there is a lot of street noise. The mattresses are not all that comfortable, either.

We took a Blue Bird bus from Chetumal to Belize City, switched buses to San Ignacio. The bus trip took a total of six hours. Needless to say, it was not the express bus. It made a lot of stops.

DOUG JACKSON

We saw an interesting mix of people, from Latino, Mayan, Ladino (Mayan-Ladino mix, white Mennonites in orthodox clothes) to black Caribbean and white tourists.

While in Belize, we had quite the adventure visiting Takal in Guatemala, Caracol in Belize, and the Belize Zoo. At Takal, in addition to seeing the ruins, we saw black howler monkeys, spider monkeys, a tapir and other interesting wildlife.

We also saw howler monkeys at Caracol, as well as a toucan and other neat birds flying around.

On our drive to Caracol, we had to have an armed military police escort to go along with a caravan of tour vans. In the past few months, there have been many cases of bandits robbing the tour vans. We were safe the whole time. The roads were the scariest part, with high speeds over narrow bumpy, rutty, windy dirt roads.

Belize Zoo is a great place. Do visit here if you're ever in the neighborhood. All the animals are native to Belize, not taken from the wild.

The Jacksons, which includes Julia and Doug and their children, Heather and Robin, can be reached at jjworldtrip@yahoo.com.

Boy Scouts Attend Camp

Troop 477 first-year Boys Scouts Drew Bower (left) and Eric Armstrong recently enjoyed a week at Camp Frontier. The Erie Shores Council's Pioneer Scout Reservation is located 60 miles west of Toledo. The camp is housed on 1,200 acres with flat land, hills, ravines and forests. Scouts participate in various merit badge-related activities, including boating, hiking, archery, metal and leather work. In addition they run, cook and sleep in their patrol groups. The boys are pictured in front of their tent showing the rockets they built for their Space Exploration badge.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

Adoption event a success

The Humane Society of Huron Valley's celebration of Adopt-a-Shelter-Cat Month in June was deemed a success, but the need for adopters is still great, the organization says. As a result, the shelter is offering a deal on kitten and cat adoptions.

In the month of June, the humane society adopted out a total of 181 cats and kittens, compared to 97 in May. But there are still more animals that need homes, so the humane society is running another adoption special. Anyone who adopts a cat or kitten may adopt a second companion cat or kitten for half off.

Each spring and summer, the humane society is inundated with animals, especially kittens and cats. This season is no exception. Lack of spaying and neutering, and pets abandoned by students leaving town are factors leading to more animals than our shelter can accommodate, according to a press release from the humane society. Even the bunny population has exploded.

"We do the best we can to care for these animals, but we are in a decaying, 55-year-old shelter," said Tanya Hilgendorf, executive director. "Space is limited as are other resources. There are many dangers to having an overcrowded facility that are beyond our control. Animals get stressed and sick, and could become unadoptable." Each cat adoption costs $85 for kittens 6 months old and younger and $50 for adult cats. The adoption fee includes spay or neuter, vaccinations, de-worming, a feline leukemia test, microchip ID, care and training information, and a 4-pound bag of cat food.

The humane society is located at 3100 Cherry Hill Road in Ann Arbor and is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Watching your weight? Look at what you drink

Think you've got your diet under control? You may be gulping down hundreds of unwanted calories without even knowing it.

"Believe it or not, more than 20 percent of our daily calories come from the things that we drink," said Susan Aaronson, wellness coordinator for the M-Fit Health Promotion Division of the University of Michigan Health System.

"In fact, the World Health Organization recommends that people consume only about 10 percent of their calories from liquids. So those extra calories from liquid beverages are adding to America's obesity epidemic, making it more difficult for people to lose weight."

According to the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, about 136.5 million Americans are overweight. Of these people, about 64 million are obese.

And for the millions of Americans who are trying to lose that extra weight, the solution may not be in what you eat, but what you drink, said Aaronson. To help you make healthier beverage choices — from soda and sports drinks to fruit juice and milk — and cut back on calories, Aaronson offers the following tips:

Soda
"Soda is full of sugar and empty calories, making it a major contributor to the obesity problem in the United States," Aaronson said. "If you chose to eliminate one can of soda each day, which contains about 9 teaspoons of sugar, you can lose about a pound in one month; and over the course of a year, you can lose up to 15 pounds."

And since it has no nutritional value, filling up on soda also prevents you from getting calories from sources that do contain essential vitamin and minerals. But if you absolutely can't live without a soda, Aaronson instead recommends drinking diet soda, or reserving it only for special occasions.

Fruit/vegetable juices

Are you drinking "fruit juice" or some beverage labeled "fruit drink?" The difference can mean extra calories and few nutrients, Aaronson said.

"Read the label carefully," she said. "If a juice label said that it's 'made with real fruit juice,' it may actually contain less than 10 percent of 'real' juice and about 7 teaspoons of sugar. The best juice drinks to pick are those that say they contain '100 percent juice.'"

Parents should be particularly vigilant about how many juice boxes they allow their children to drink each day. Just one juice box contains 100 calories, and four of them are equal to about a quarter of the amount of calories a child should consume in one day.

Aaronson recommended limiting yourself to one serving, or 5 ounces, of juice a day. The rest of your daily servings of fruits and vegetables should come from actual pieces of fruits and vegetables. Real fruits and vegetables contain the daily fiber your body needs that you won't find in fruit drinks.

Milk
Choosing low-fat milk can help you save hundreds of calories each day, Aaronson said.

Milk also contains vital nutrients like calcium, protein, vitamin D and vitamin A that you won't find in other beverages. Plus, it is recommended that you get three servings of dairy every day.

To get the most from your milk, Aaronson said to choose 1 percent, 1/2 percent or skim milk. With these options, you will still get all the nutrients your body needs but without the extra calories and fat.

Sports/energy drinks

Although sports drinks replenish your body with electrolytes that help you retain water and stay hydrated, they still contain a lot of calories — one-half to one-third the amount of sugar you'll find in soda.

WASHTENAW COUNTY BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE DESIRABILITY OF CONTINUING A WASHTENAW COUNTY RESOURCE RECOVERY SYSTEM PROJECT AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT #2

TO THE OWNERS OF ANY LANDS WITHIN THE PROPERTY DESCRIBED BELOW AND ALL OTHER INTERESTED PARTIES:
PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT the Board of Public Works of the County of Washtenaw has declared its intention to continue to implement the following resource recovery system:

A recycling collection and processing system, which will include recycling drop off stations, an intermediate materials processing center and educational programs to serve the Townships of Bridgewater, Dexter, Lima, Lyndon, Manchester and Sylvan; all of which is hereafter referred to as the "Project", and has tentatively designated a special assessment district against which all or a part of the cost of such Project is to be assessed, which district consists of the following lands:

All tax parcels identified as having a household or households located within the Townships of Bridgewater, Dexter, Lima, Lyndon, Manchester and Sylvan within Washtenaw County excluding those tax parcels located within the incorporated limits of the City of Chelsea and the Village of Manchester.

The above properties are located within the boundaries of the Special Assessment District.

Each parcel identified above will be assessed twenty-six dollars ($26.00) per year for each household located on the parcel for a five-year period. A report describing the Project including program elements and cost estimates has been prepared and is on file with the Washtenaw County Director of Public Works. The report is available for public examination at the Washtenaw County Department of Planning & Environment, 705 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48103. To ask questions or obtain information on the project, please call 734 222-3827.

TAKE FURTHER NOTICE THAT the Board of Public Works will meet on Wednesday, July 26, 2006 at 7:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Savings Time, or as soon thereafter as may be heard, at the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority at 8027 Werkner Road in Chelsea, Michigan for the purpose of hearing all interested parties concerning such improvements and the special assessment district.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE THAT the owner or any person having an interest in property that is specially assessed may file a written appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal within 30 days after confirmation of the special assessment roll. However, appearance and protest at the public hearing on the special assessment roll are required in order to appeal the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner or a party in interest or his or her agent may (1) appear in person at the hearing to protest the special assessment or (2) file his or her appearance or protest.

The Board of Public Works shall maintain a record of parties who appear to protest at the hearing. If the hearing is terminated or adjourned for the day before a party is provided the opportunity to be heard, a party whose appearance was recorded shall be considered to have protested the special assessment in person.

VILLAGE OF DEXTER VILLAGE COUNCIL NOTICE OF ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

Pursuant to Michigan Public Act 110 of 2006, as amended, notice is hereby given that the Village of Dexter Village Council has adopted the following ordinance amendments. The ordinance amendments were proposed due to the consolidation of planning and zoning legislation adopted by the State of Michigan. The following amendments were effective on July 1, 2006 due to the enactment of the legislation by the State of Michigan. The Village Council approved the ordinance amendments at the July 10, 2006 meeting.

The following ordinances will be amended, Article 1, Enacting Clause, Title and Purpose, Article 8, Special Land Uses, Article 23, Ordinance Amendments, and Article 24, Board of Zoning Appeals.

Article 1: All references to Act 207 of 1921 will be changed to Act 110 of 2006 and referred to as Michigan Zoning Enabling Act.

Article 8:
Section 8.02b1, will read as follows: If the Zoning Administrator finds all of the information complete, a public hearing shall be scheduled to review the request.

Section 8.02b2, will read as follows: A notice of the public hearing shall be published in a newspaper which circulates in the Village and copies of the notice shall be sent by mail to owners of the property for which approval is being considered and to property owners and occupants of structures within three hundred (300) feet of the property in question regardless of whether the property or occupant is located in the Village. The notice shall be given not less than fifteen (15) days before the date of the public hearing.

Section 8.02a, the following will be added: The recommendation on a special land use shall be incorporated in a statement of findings and conclusions relative to the special land use which specifies the basis for the decision and any conditions imposed.

Section 8.02f, the following will be added: The Village Council shall either approve, (or reject will be removed), approve within conditions (as described below in Section 8.04) or deny the Special Land Use and the accompanying site plan within sixty (60) days. In addition, the following will be added: The decision on a special land use shall be incorporated in a statement of findings and conclusions relative to the special land use which specifies the basis for the decision and any conditions imposed.

Article 23: All references to Act 207 of 1921 will be changed to Act 110 of 2006 and referred to as Michigan Zoning Enabling Act.

Article 24: All references to Act 207 of 1921 will be changed to Act 110 of 2006 and referred to as Michigan Zoning Enabling Act.

Section 24.04b, the following will be removed: to or exceptional undue hardship.

Section 24.08, will read as follows: The Board of Zoning Appeals shall make no determination, except in a specific case, until after a public hearing. Notice of the public hearing shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the Village.

Notice shall also be sent by mail or personal delivery to the owners of the property for which approval is being considered. Notice shall also be sent to all persons whose real property is assessed within three hundred (300) feet of the property regardless of whether the property or occupant is located in the zoning jurisdiction.

The notice shall be given not less than fifteen (15) days before the date the application will be considered for approval. If the name of the occupant is not known, the term "occupant" may be used in making notification under this subsection. The notice shall so all of the following: a. Describe the nature of the request. b. Indicate the property that is the subject of the request. The notice shall include a listing of all existing street addresses within the property. Street addresses do not need to be created and listed if no such addresses currently exist within the property. If there are no street addresses, other means of identification may be used. c. State when and where the request will be considered. d. Indicate when and where written comments will be received concerning the request.

Section 24.10, Appeal of Board of Zoning Appeal Decision will be added and read as follows: Any party aggrieved by a decision of the Board of Zoning Appeals may appeal to the Washtenaw County Circuit Court as provided in Act 110 of Public Acts of Michigan of 2006. An appeal under this section shall be filed within 30 days after the Zoning Board of Appeals certifies its decision in writing or approves the minutes of its decision.

Information regarding the ordinance amendments is available for public inspection at the Village Offices, 8123 Main Street, Dexter, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by phone at (734) 426-5303 Ext. 15. Minutes of all meetings are available at Village Offices and on the Village website.

Pedal Power

Dale Johnson and Diane Ratkovich of Scio Township show off their muscles while taking a break from the In Pedal Across Lower Michigan bike tour held June 24 through 30. Members of the group, who biked 30 to 60 miles each day, camped out in tents at Chelsea High School midway through the ride and enjoyed a meal cooked by school staff. The cyclists included a wide age range.

week with the Ag Olympics, starting at 3:30 p.m. At 5 p.m., the horse Grand Entry Pageant will take place.

Bev Olberg, who is involved with the Saline 4-H Farmers Club in Lodi Township, has taken her two children, who participate in 4-H, to the Youth Show for the last four years. This year, her children will show steer, pigs and dairy cow, as well as homegrown vegetables and flowers.

Kathy Grau of Chelsea, who was involved with 4-H as a youngster, said the organization has gotten bigger and better. "It's a good program and teaches kids about life skills," she said.

Mary Hammer of Milan has grandkids in the 4-H program, and serves as an adviser er for the junior livestock and adviser leader for Saline 4-H Farmers.

"I have been doing this for a long time. We have over 60 kids in the club from 5 up to 19. I like watching the kids learn. It's the best part. I like to see how they grow and become more confident at what they do," she said.

Bruce and Jenny Breuninger of Dexter Township, who have two children involved in 4-H, said it gives their kids a chance to share what they know about the dairy industry.

"We consider the opportunity to be in 4-H to be very important," Jenny Breuninger said. "It's something that we share together."

"It's nice to get the kids involved. They sell the animals at auction, and the money that they make is used to buy animals the following year. Sometimes they make enough to put some aside for college."

The show is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. For more information, call 987-1678.

MOTION PASSED UNANIMOUSLY.

MOTION made by C. Verge, SECONDED by K. McAuliffe to move back to open session.

Roll Call Vote:

G. DeGraff-Yea, K. Dixon-Absent, C. Verge-Yea, K. Klovski-Absent, K. McAuliffe-Yea, C. Hollenshead-Absent, G. Zenz-Yea.

MOTION PASSED UNANIMOUSLY.

Reports and Parking Lot

G. DeGraff went to the Trustees Round Table at the Pinckney Library and was able to talk to Trustees from many surrounding Libraries. Our wages and benefits are the envy of the area. He was asked many questions on how we put together our Construction Bond and Capital Campaign. Salem-South Lyon will host another Round Table in 6 months and Greg was asked if Chelsea would like to host the one after that in our new building.

Colleen Verge made a comment that the wages and benefits at Chelsea District Library are not good at all. She pointed out that and that only 50% of the current budget is spent on them and the figure should be 65% of the budget.

Adjourn:

MOTION to adjourn was made by K. McAuliffe and SECONDED by G. DeGraff. MOTION PASSED UNANIMOUSLY.

Meeting adjourned at 8:58 PM.

WASHTENAW COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION
PUBLIC NOTICE

The Washtenaw County Road Commission will hold its second Community Forum on Thursday, July 27, 2006, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. to update the public on the Road Commission's plans for development of its vacant property on North Zeeb Road in Scio Township. The Community Forum will be held in the Assembly Room of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, located at 555 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

On April 4, 2006, the Board of County Road Commissioners formed the North Zeeb Road Task Force to address issues and concerns related to the agency's proposed Yard One development. During the Community Forum, as part of the Road Commission's update on its property development, an oral report and illustrations will be presented on various options identified by the Task Force for possible inclusion in a future "North Town Center". A public comment period and an opportunity for one-on-one discussions with Road Commission representatives and consultants will also be part of the Community Forum.

For further information on this Community Forum, contact Valerie Cooper, Public Information/Community Relations Officer for the Washtenaw County Road Commission at (734) 327-6675 or via email at cooper.v@wacroads.org. Publish: July 13, 2006, July 20, 2006 & July 27, 2006

SYLVAN TOWNSHIP

Heim Gardens offers nature's beauty

When you arrive at Heim Gardens' stall at the Chelsea Farmers' Market, you will see Kevin Heim standing among a wide assortment of beautiful flowers and plants. His easy smile, knowledge and helpful nature will immediately put you at ease. Heim Gardens, which has been a mainstay at the market for the past five years, is owned and operated by Glenn and Mary Heim.

Mary is the creative force behind the business, located at 17650 Heim Road in Sylvan Township, creating beautiful floral arrangements for special occasions, weddings and funerals. She also creates beautiful hanging baskets and planters, while Glenn oversees the day-to-day planting and harvesting, as well as making deliveries. But Glenn and Mary, who have been farming for 22 years, don't handle the operations alone. Their children, Kevin and Tami, daughter-in-law, Stephanie, and their grandchildren are a tremendous help to them.

Heim Gardens offers a floral shop and five greenhouses.

In the spring, summer and fall, many visitors are awestruck by the beautiful colors and wide variety of plants and flowers in the greenhouses.

At Christmastime, the handmade wreaths, grave blankets and garland provide a wonderful scent, adding to the inviting atmosphere.

In early years, Glenn owned and operated a service station in Chelsea, while Mary stayed home with their children. Mary began a vegetable garden, and found it to be a calming and therapeutic place. Eventually, her children started selling her produce at a roadside stand, which eventually became Heim Gardens.

After a few years, they moved to 56 acres on Heim Road and began growing vegetables and selling at local farmers' markets. Mary's true passion, however, was with flowers. Heim Gardens now has a year-round floral shop, complete with FTD and Teleflora.

HOME HAPPENING

Vacation homes are popular with boomers

Maybe you rent one. Maybe you own one. Vacation homes are more popular than ever, according to the National Association of Realtors.

According to the NAR, 2005 was a record year for vacation-home sales. More than 12 percent of all houses purchased last year were vacation properties, according to a report released in April.

The median price of a vacation home purchased in 2005 was $204,100, up 7.4 percent from the $190,000 such a house cost in 2004. The median price means half of the homes sold for less and half sold for more. A typical vacation-home buyer is 52 years old and earned $82,800 last year, according to the association's report.

The Realtors surveyed vacation-home owners on their reasons for buying. Forty-one percent of those asked said they planned to use their properties for vacations, 31 percent saw them as a family retreat, and 28 percent said the house was to be a diversifying force in their investment portfolio.

Regardless of their reasons, most vacation-home buyers will be driving a way to reach their new homes, the report says. That shouldn't surprise the many Detroit-area residents who make weekend and holiday treks to residences "up north."

The median distance to vacation properties from a primary residence was 197 miles. Forty-three percent of buyers will be traveling more than 500 miles to their vacation homes. Another 47 percent will stay closer, driving less than 100 miles each trip.

Perhaps more than the travel time, ensuring that their vacation area offered the right amenities and sur-

MACKINAC ISLAND

Lovely lepidoptera

Exhibit offers hundreds of butterflies

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

It's not every day you see a grown man held hostage by a butterfly. Yet there he stood in Mackinac Island's Butterfly House — with a monarch butterfly clinging tenaciously to the hem of his jeans.

Since you mustn't touch a butterfly — even the slightest touch could damage their fragile scales — the man just had to wait it out until the little critter decided denim wasn't dinner and went in search of something more edible.

Another man stood transfixed with a butterfly perched on his hair like a tiny barrette. The man's wife and kids laughed and took off for the gift shop, beyond the greenhouse exit and mirrors where visitors check to see if they are inadvertently carrying winged hitchhikers.

Perhaps this is a Mackinac marketing ploy and these well-trained butterflies are designed to keep husbands in check while wives spend loot.

The Butterfly House — the third oldest live butterfly exhibit in the United States — offers a walk through a tropical garden greenhouse filled with hundreds of butterflies, beautiful plants, butterfly shaped iron chairs and a stone waterfall.

At the ticket counter, we get a talk on butterfly safety and etiquette. The scientific name for butterflies — Lepidoptera — means "scaly wings," and a butterfly's pretty designs are in the scale patterns. Removal of scales, which mostly are used to control body temperature, can shorten a butterfly's life span and the slightest touch can brush away these scales.

So, watch where you step and sit, be careful as you lean on or put your hand on the waterfall railing, don't touch the butterflies, and check yourself in the mirrors before you leave.

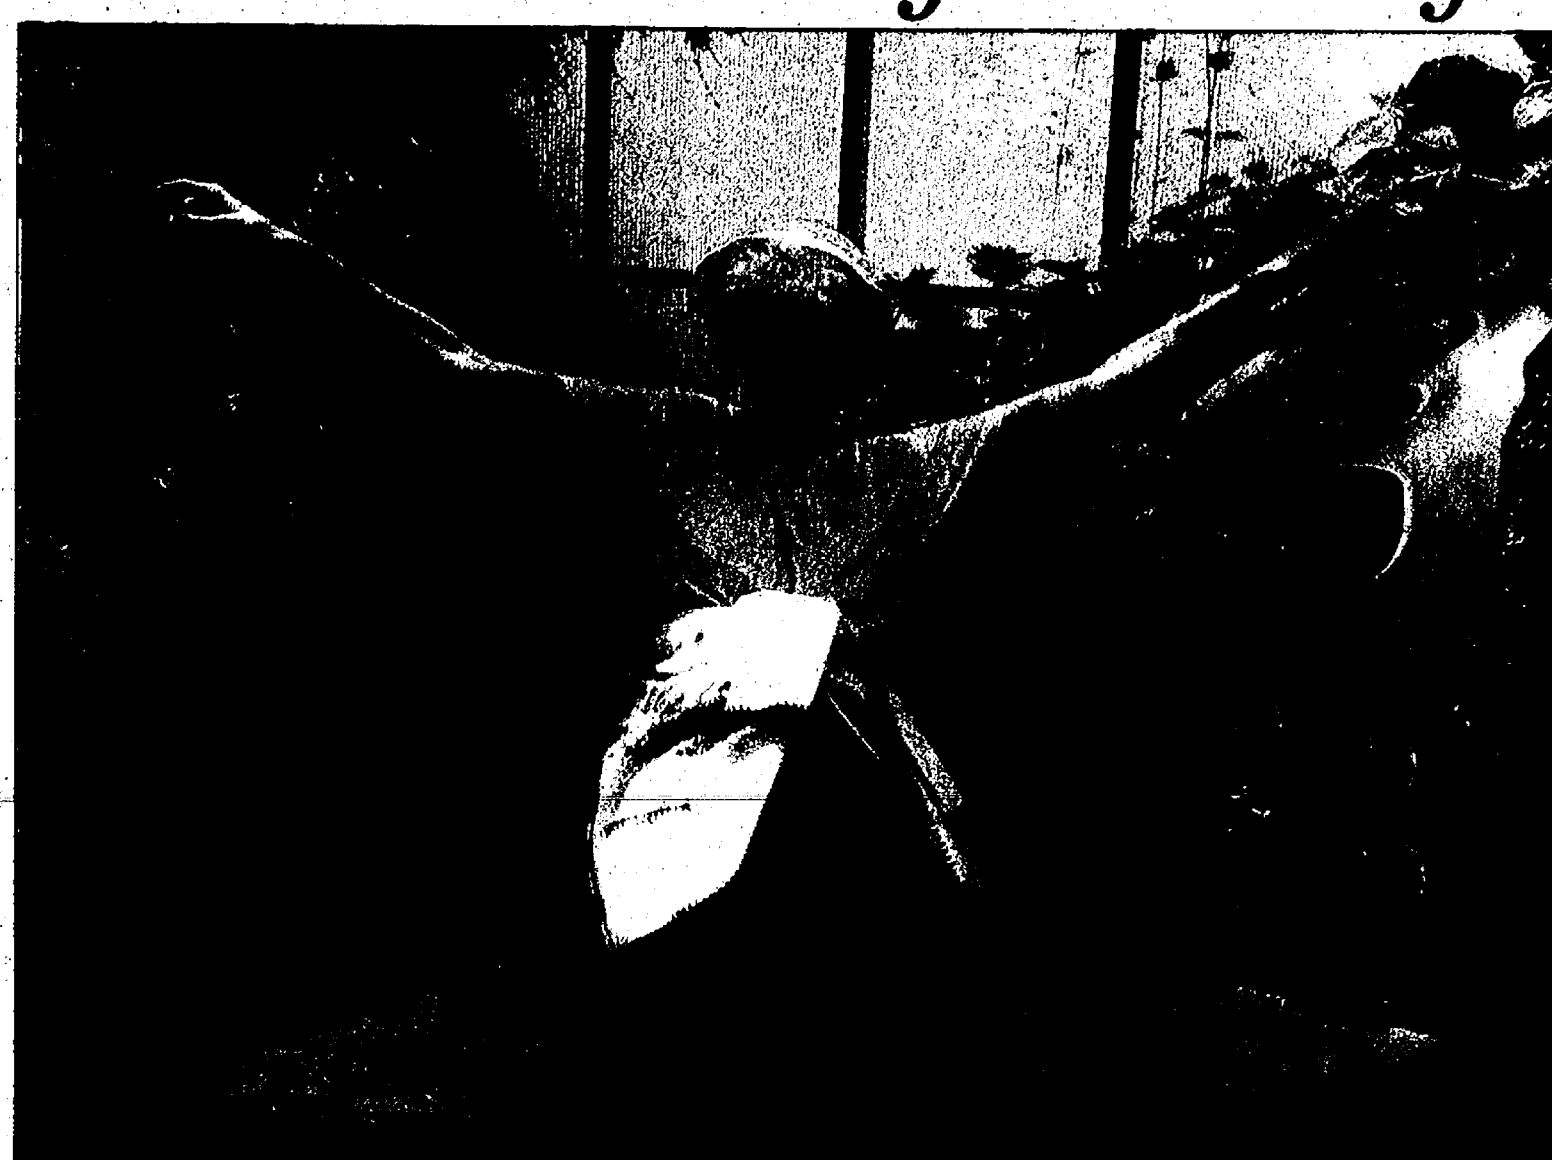

Between the ticket counter and the plastic louvers at the entrance to the conservatory, we stopped to scope out a large map of the world with mounted butterflies.

There's also a new display of giant mounted insects. If creepy crawlies give you the creeps — of course, the 5-year-old in our party was entranced by the 14-inch Walking Stick, giant Asian spiders, Rhino Beetle, and the world's heaviest bug — then scurry on past into the Butterfly House, where you'll find about 1,000 butterflies from around the world.

With the ticket lady's warnings firmly in our psyche, we entered the regal world of the Monarchs and their butterfly buddies.

Everywhere we looked there were butterflies — in the air, on plants, on the low brick walls, on the flagstones at our feet, at the feeding stations — who knew butterflies like banana slices?

We spent a happy — if hot — hour, watching and avoiding butterflies and, with a souvenir flier in hand, trying to recognize the different species, including Blue Morpho, Blue and White Longwing, Clipper, Gold Rim, Julia, Malachite, Gulf Fritillary, Magnificent Owl, Lacewing, Greater Egg Fly, Orange-barred Sulphur, Queen, Pale Cracker, Pink-spotted Cattleheart, Pink-spotted Swallowtail, Red Cracker, Banded Orange, Shoemaker, White Peacock, Red Rim, Southern Belle,

Sara Robertson enjoys Mackinac Island's Butterfly House during a recent visit. The third oldest live butterfly exhibit in the United States, it offers a walk through a tropical garden greenhouse filled with hundreds of butterflies, beautiful plants, butterfly shaped iron chairs and a stone waterfall.

Butterflies 101

Although moths get the short end of the stick looks-wise — the same people who stand entranced at the sight of the brightly colored butterflies are unlikely to "ooh" and "aah" over the big, fat brown moth flying around their porch light — moths have the upper hand on numbers. Of the approximately 140,000 identified types of lepidoptera in the world, 90 percent are moths and 10 percent — about 14,000 — are butterflies.

They are as different as night and day — literally.

Moths are nocturnal critters while butterflies are daytime divas. In addition, moths spin a cocoon, whereas butterflies create a chrysalis. The two also have different antennae — butterfly antennae are slim with knobs at the end, while moth antennae are thick and feathery.

Don't get too attached and plan on revisiting old friends at the Butterfly House. These lovely creatures generally only live adult lives of a couple of weeks — a short life and a merry one. Their total life span — the metamorphosis from egg to caterpillar (larvae) to chrysalis (pupa) to adult butterfly is less than a couple of months. And that's without the intervention of any one of a number of predators, including birds, small rodents, reptiles, amphibians, spiders, and predatory insects.

Butterflies survive as a species by being prolific — the average female butterfly can lay more than 100 eggs.

Caterpillars like to chomp on alfalfa, butterfly weed, cabbage, common rue, dill, parsley and red clover. Adult butterflies enjoy noshing on alfalfa, butterfly weed, catnip, common rue, dill, French marigold, golden rod, lavender, parsley, sage and thyme.

Here's a kicker — butterflies taste with their feet, smell with their antennae, and use their proboscis for tasting, dipping it into their food like a kid dipping a straw into a milkshake.

Another nugget — apparently only one type of butterfly makes a major migration — the Monarchs in North America, flying their suitcases and packing south in the fall to southern California or Mexico.

The Native Americans had a lovely legend: To make a wish come true, whisper it to a butterfly and the wish will be taken to heaven and granted.

But just don't touch the little guys.

Chelsea Summer Fest

Plenty To Do

There is plenty to do at Chelsea's annual Summer Fest. Children can entertain themselves at the Kid Zone near the Chelsea Depot or the ARTicipation area behind Merkel's Furniture and Carpet One.

Talent show seeking participants to join fun

Show to be held July 29 near the
the Chelsea Depot

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

Families attending the Chelsea Summer Fest are going to be the first to participate in the new Community Talent Show. Held in the Kid Zone near the train depot, the talent show welcomes participants of all ages to join in the fun.

The activity starts at 4:30 p.m. June 29 in the stage area and is expected to last two hours. The talent show will be the final Kid Zone activity, following Saturday performances by Colors the Clown, Reptiles Inc., Howell Nature Center's Birds of Prey and Gemini.

Whether you can tell a joke, dance with friends or sing a solo, everyone is encouraged to bring their skills to the stage for the enjoyment of the entire community.

Bringing together the community is exactly what the organizers had in mind. The new Community Talent Show is the brainchild of Kid Zone organizer Danielle Hale, a lifelong Chelsea resident and parent of three girls.

During last year's Chelsea Summer Fest, she formed a small impromptu talent show. Hale has always believed that volunteering locally is vital to any community and especially takes pleasure in spending time with children.

"I enjoy watching them smile and have fun," she said.

Anyone interested in performing should call her at 1-734-330-4773 or e-mail dhale@surovell.com.

Chelsea Summer Fest

Chelsea Summer Fest set next weekend

Event to include musical entertainment, classic cars, activities

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

The Chelsea Summer Fest is sure to draw in thousands of visitors to the area July 28 and 29.

Local residents eagerly anticipate the annual summer event, but out-of-towners have sharply increased in numbers throughout the last few years.

Organizers Judy Hein and Constance Eder, who serve as co-chairwomen of this year's festival, have worked with local volunteers to expand every venue of the event.

They credit the success of the festival to the many volunteers within the community.

"The event would never be possible without all of our fantastic volunteers," Hein said.

Joined by her husband, Ken, Hein moved to Chelsea from New York about nine years ago. The activities director at Silver Maples retirement community in Chelsea enjoys planning events.

"It's an event Ken and I always enjoyed since we moved here, so now I'm looking at it from a different angle," she said.

Her participation has brought her closer to the community and introduced her to many people, she said.

Hein and Eder met through Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce Director Bob Pierce, who introduced them to each other before the 2004 festival. They took over as co-chairwomen of the Summer Fest after the lean years, when the event wasn't as large. They first organized the 2004 Summer Fest and are now finishing up their third year.

Eder also has a background in event planning and fund-raising. She used to serve as alumni director at Hillsdale College and is currently the event planner for the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

"I am a lifelong resident of Chelsea and love being part of something that makes our town come alive and shine," Eder said.

They expect about 10,000 people to come through Chelsea for the Summer Fest this year.

"Our goal in chairing the Summer Fest is to create a fun-filled weekend with something for everyone," Eder said.

The Food and Entertainment Court, to be held behind the Common Grill, brings food and music together in one area. The local cuisine and the beefed-up entertainment continues to be one of the strongest magnets to the Summer Fest. Live performances feature a variety of musical talent and will end at 11 p.m. each evening.

For the first time, the Food and Entertainment Court will begin earlier than usual at noon July 29.

Visitors will get the chance to sample local food from 4 to 9 p.m. July 28 and noon to 9 p.m. July 29.

The entrance fee for adults 21 and older is $3, which allows the festival to provide enhanced activities free of charge elsewhere at the Summer Fest, organizers said.

The Kid Zone, to be held in the parking lot by the train depot, is an area that benefits from the fee. It will include the Pet Parade, inflatables, games, bicycle course and other activities. New this year in the Kid Zone is the showcasing of local talent on stage during the Community Talent Show.

The ARTicipation section of the Summer Fest also will be larger this year to satisfy the cultural interests of visitors. ARTicipation, located behind Merkel's, will feature a variety of artists who will display and sell their creations.

Two new attractions sure to charm art-lovers have been added to the ARTicipation area. The first is a tented area. Set up in the parking lot, it will allow a place for resting, as well as listening to live musical performances.

The second addition to the ARTicipation section includes three audience participation activities. Anyone who has ever been fascinated while watching artists in action can now join in the fun.

Those who are interested in motorcycles and cars will be pleased this year as both areas offer more opportunities to revel in their magic. The Classic Car Show, hosted by the Chelsea Classic Cruisers, will spread out over several more downtown streets this year.

In addition to the exclusive motorcycle parking along Main Street, motorcycle fans will be able to visit the new Motorcycle Den. The Motorcycle Den, located at the Palmer Family Ford downtown lot, will be held from noon to 6 p.m. July 29.

Although not as significant as the larger venues of the Summer Fest, visitors will find sales at local businesses.

Festival-goers will be taken on a musical journey through blues, hillbilly rock, zydeco, rock n' roll and rockabilly sounds. A complete lineup and schedule is available online at www.chelseafestivals.com/summer-fest.

This is the first year that the entertainment lineup has been developed by local resident Gary Muncie. Muncie calls the Summer Fest a family affair, as his wife, JoAnn, is the volunteer coordinator and his son, Zach, is a stagehand at the event.

The organizer is a musician himself, playing the bass and singing. Last year, Muncie played during the Thursday evening Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights in downtown Chelsea. In addition, he performs with the Cadillac Cowboys and the Jay Macdonald Country Quartet.

The entertainment lineup for the Chelsea Summer Fest is sure to satisfy a number of interests. A stage will be set up in the municipal parking lot behind the Common Grill and will feature Star 69, Drivin' Sideways, Sugarbeat Cowboys, Billy Mack and the Juke Joint Johnnies, the Jim Tate Band, Fender Bender, Rattlebox, Kinks and Crew, Horse Cave Trio and Chef Chris and the Nairobi Trio. as well as street performers. The festive atmosphere of the annual event will bring clowns, musicians, stilt walkers, and tattoo artists to the Main Street area.

Parking is prohibited on Main Street during the Summer Fest. In addition to parking lots and side street parking, there is another option. A complimentary shuttle located in the Pamida parking lot will take visitors to and from the downtown area from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

McKinley Associates Inc. and the Downtown Development Authority are the "diamond-level" sponsors of this year's event. "Gold" sponsors include Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, Chelsea Milling Co., Common Grill, Bob and Marjorie Daniels, Flagstar Bank, and Edward Jones.

Chelsea State Bank, Chelsea Internal Medicine PC, Chelsea Lumber Co., Dayspring Gifts, LaJolla Fine Jewelry, Merkel's Furniture and Carpet One, and Silver Maples are "silver" sponsors.

There are 23 other local businesses at the "bronze" level. Aberdeen Bike & Fitness, Heritage Newspapers and Silver Maples have sponsored goods and services.

Chelsea Summer Fest

Art, music among festival's attractions

Kids' entertainment, activities planned for annual event

By Allison Marable
Special Writer

ARTicipation at Chelsea Summer Fest is back in full swing this year with some added attractions.

Set behind Merkel's Furniture, the area will provide a setting that explores various forms of art.

ARTicipation will be hosted by the Chelsea Center for the Arts, Chelsea Gallery, River Gallery and West of the Moon Gallery. The area will welcome Summer Fest visitors from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 28 and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 29.

The ARTicipation section is a perfect gathering space for those who appreciate great music and talented artists, and has become an essential part of the Summer Fest, organizers said.

"It's a natural attraction to celebrate the arts as part of the community," said Jennifer Goulet, director of the Chelsea Center for the Arts.

Many local and non-local juried artists will offer fine arts and crafts to the public, but this year visitors will be able to join the artists in one-of-a-kind experiences. Several artists will provide interactive art activities that will welcome participation by community members.

The Chelsea Center for the Arts is currently working on a new community public art project titled "Opening Doors: A Community Celebration of McKune Memorial Library." Several of the door artists will host these audience-friendly art activities during the

Kid Zone will feature new activities, fun

Program to include bikes, animals and talent show

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

The popular Kid Zone returns to Chelsea Summer Fest, set July 28 and 29, with all the favorites, plus a few first-time bonuses that will interest every age group.

Constance Eder, co-chairwoman of the Chelsea Summer Fest, said the Kid Zone was expanded this year in an effort to reach more children with a broader range of interests.

Once again, the Kid Zone is located in the parking lot near the Chelsea Depot. This year's program is expected to entice more age groups than in previous years with its unique themes and added attractions.

"There is nothing more rewarding than seeing a child smile, laugh, or have fun," said Danielle Hale, the Kid Zone organizer. "And that's exactly what the Kid Zone at the Chelsea Summer Fest is meant to do."

Each day of the festival has a theme this year with a variety of crafts, activities and live entertainment centered around the theme. Friday's theme involves anything magical. Children are sure to be delighted by the selection of mystical performers on Friday, Eder said.

New this year is Laron Williams, who brings stories to life with music and songs. Also new is Dave Mastie, also known as "Science Guy," a local resident and professor at the University of Michigan. Mastie will mesmerize children by showing the ways that science and magic cross paths during two performances Friday afternoon at 12:15 and 2:15 p.m.

Baffling Bill the Magician makes his appearance Friday, followed by another new act to the Kid Zone: "Ring of Steel - Swordplay." The active group of actors brings the Renaissance to life with stunts, armor and swords.

Saturday's theme involves animals and starts off with the wildly popular Pet Parade at 10 a.m., organized again by Ben Sieg of Farmer's Supply.

"Last year, families came out with pets in all shapes and sizes. There was even a goldfish," said Danielle Hale, organizers of the Kid Zone.

An assortment of prizes will be awarded to the winners of the Pet Parade.

Following the Pet Parade, several performers will include live creatures in their shows. The animal-themed shows include Reptiles Inc., with Mike Brophy, and Howell Nature Center's Birds of Prey.

The musical group Gemini will delight children and families at 2:45 p.m. Saturday with their catchy, upbeat songs that always get the kids moving.

And it wouldn't be the Kid Zone without Colors the Clown and her entourage of animal friends. Families can watch Colors and her pets perform magic and create balloon creatures on stage both Friday and Saturday.

The large inflatables, as well as carnival games, will be in the Kid Zone both days. This summer, kids will get the chance to bounce around two inflatable centers as one is a maze and the other is a slide.

The rock-climbing wall may return both days from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., but organizers have not yet confirmed it.

The grand finale of the Kid Zone experience will be the new Community Talent Show, which begins 4:30 Saturday. Performers of any age can step on stage and show Chelsea their stuff. Those interested in making an appearance should call Danielle Hale at 1-734-330-4773 for more information.

children's bicycle zone. A course will be set up with miniature streets and traffic signs in the parking lot area of the train depot. Mike Casey, owner of Aberdeen Bike and Fitness, will provide bicycles and loaner helmets for children between the ages of 2 and 6 so they can drive the child-sized course.

In 2004, Aberdeen Bike and Fitness handed out more than 300 bells within an hour and a half. Last year, 68 safety helmets were made available for children without helmets of their own.

This year, Aberdeen Bike and Fitness will partner with the Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society to offer free helmets to children who don't already own one while supplies last.

festival.

Lynnette Michalik-Steffeld, a local artist and head of the art department at Gabriel Richard High School in Ann Arbor, will hold an interactive activity from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. July 29. Michalik-Steffeld is best known for her textile bowls and baskets, which are constructed of a variety of natural fibers.

Diana Jellinek is an international fashion artist from Troy who created a mural project for the Birmingham-Bloomfield Arts Center. Jellinek plans to hold a fashion runway activity both days at Summer Fest. Audience members will be featured on the runway during the event.

John Schwarz is best known for his use of recycled and found objects in whimsical art pieces. On July 28, Schwarz plans to provide a selection of items to use on his door, which is part of the Chelsea Center for the Arts' Door Project. Spectators will be allowed to help choose which objects will be used to adorn his door.

Karen Smith helped coordinate the call for artists, as well as the jury selection process. She expects about 30 artists to occupy booths this year in the ARTicipation area of the Summer Fest.

Smith, a member of the West of the Moon Artist Cooperative Gallery, works with fused glass. She said there will be something for everyone at the event.

"There is a little for everybody at ARTicipation. Visitors can see pottery, paintings, photography and glass, along with other mediums," she said.

Sarah Rose worked along with Smith during the long process of searching for artists and planning the ARTicipation attraction for the festival. Rose, who creates wire-wrapped jewelry, will occupy one of the booths within the art section.

In addition to artists' booths, there will be a lively tented area where visitors may enjoy refreshments and live music while viewing artwork or taking a break from walking.

The first day's lineup will include Don Fishel on the flute, entertainer Dylan Sloan, and songwriter and singer Lisa Pappas.

Saturday will offer another dose of Fishel's flute music. The afternoon continues with the haunting voice of Chris Buhalis and Jay Stielstra with his songs of Michigan, the guitar and vocals of Michael Smith, and Keith Parmentier's original songs and lyrics.

Classic Car Show to expand this year

Cruisers, street rods and classic vehicles to be on display

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

The Chelsea Classic Cruisers will welcome car enthusiasts to the popular Friday evening auto displays and contests July 28, the first day of Chelsea Summer Fest.

Several streets in downtown Chelsea will be transformed into a scene from the past as classic model cars line the area from 4 to 8 p.m.

Last year, more than 300 vehicles lined Middle Street and space was cramped, organizers said. Cruisers, street rods and classic vehicles from the 1920s through today were on display for festival-goers. This summer, more cars, as well as visitors, are expected to deluge the area.

Based on the popularity of the Classic Car Show at the Chelsea Summer Fest in past years, the area where the cars are displayed has been exhibition couldn't exist without the neighborhood residents, who are basically locked in once the cars are parked on their streets for the week-end.

"We display our vehicles on the streets within the city and fully appreciate the cooperation of local property owners," Hoffman said.

The Chelsea Classic Cruisers is a local organization with approximately 50 members. The club used to show members' cars at the fairgrounds, but moved the show to the downtown vicinity to draw in more visitors.

"We brought the show downtown to bring more people into Chelsea and to show them what the area is all about," Hoffman said.

Hoffman welcomes car buffs to bring in their vehicles and encourages admirers to wander through the expanded car display.

"This is one of the few remaining free car shows in the state," he said.

During the Classic Car Show, visitors get a rare chance to be up close to classic and antique vehicles. Car owners are often eager to share their restoration experiences, memories, and offer a glimpse under the hood.

Hoffman describes the car show as a great educational experience.

"This is a real opportunity for younger people to come and see how vehicles were in the past," he said.

For example, engines and trunks were often completely different than cars of today. Car owners have a wealth of information to share after undergoing the restoration process, from finding unusual parts to ordering special paint.

Hoffman also plans to display some of his personal vehicles this summer. The organizer and club president expects to display a 1964 Corvair Spyder convertible and a 1956 Plymouth Belvedere 4-door hard top.

Free registration for the show takes place from 4 to 6:30 p.m. July 28. Dash plaques will be awarded to the first 150 entrants. Entrants who wish to park next to each other must arrive together at registration. No pre-registration is required.

This year, there will be six awards presented at 8 p.m. July 28. The contests include Merchants' Choice, Chief of Police Choice, Classic Car Club Ladies' Choice, Classic Car Club Men's Choice, Mayor's Choice and the Long Distance Award.

Chelsea Summer Fest

Motorcycles to return

Prizes will be given out in various categories

It's only the third time that motorcycles will make an appearance at the Chelsea Summer Fest, but it's apparent from the marked increase each year that it's quickly becoming a success.

Motorcycles first emerged at the Summer Fest in 2004 when it was suggested that motorcycles might be as popular as the classic cars. Scott Tanner, a member of the Friends of the Chelsea Motorcycle Rally, spread the word to fellow members to attend the Summer Fest in 2004. Members passed along the message as well, and soon 132 motorcycles were part of a short parade that ended on East Street.

In 2005, a more organized program created the official Motorcycles on Main Street attraction. Contests, prizes and ride-ins were added to the agenda. It was estimated that more than a thousand motorcycles took part in the activities.

However, it was the addition of exclusive motorcycle parking that drew in the crowds. Not only did this make the bikers welcome, but it provided a central area for visitors to view the wide selection of motorcycles.

Tanner, the organizer of the Motorcycles on Main Street event, said the bikers are treated as guests of honor. The close proximity to gourmet food, live entertainment and exclusive parking privileges entice the growing number of motorcycle aficionados.

"The bikers appreciate the opportunity to mingle together with each other and to mingle with the local townspeople, as well," Tanner said.

Motorcycles on Main Street will continue this year with the exclusive motorcycle-only parking on both sides of Main Street. Bikes will be on display July 29, with all contests held that day.

New this year is the Motorcycle Den to be held in the Palmer Family Ford downtown lot from noon to 6 p.m. July 29. The area will include some classic bikes, specialty custom creations, and a few surprises. Nearby the Motorcycle Den will be a body painter offering temporary tattoos.

The competitions begin 8 a.m. July 29 with the Cleanest Classic Contest, which will be held at Main Street Coney Island. Motorcycles must be a 1981 or older model. The Observation Ride sign-in will follow from 10 a.m. to noon at Chelsea Lanes on Main Street.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., the Prettiest Paint Contest will be held in the parking lot of Wolverine Food and Spirits on Old US-12. The Sweetest Sound Contest will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at Thompson's Pizzeria, also on Old US-12, and the Rattiest Ride Contest will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. outside of Seitz's Tavern on West Middle Street.

The picturesque observation ride encompasses approximately 70 miles of local scenic countryside. The largest group entering the run will be awarded a $200 prize. It will be held from noon to 3 p.m. at Chelsea Lanes.

Each contest offers cash prizes of $200 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third place. Only the first 20 valid entries may participate in the contests.

There is a $5 entry fee for each motorcycle entered and each bike must display a valid current license plate.

All entries must remain on display until after prizes are awarded. Prizes are to be awarded 30 minutes after the close of the contest by judges selected by the sponsoring businesses.

- PET PARADE -

The Pet Parade returns this year to Chelsea Summer Fest. The parade will be held 10 a.m. Saturday. Participants will line up at Farmer's Supply.
